Draft Act Extension Is Certain

Senators Differ On Other Matters

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Four senators agreed today that the new Congress will extend the Draft Act but differed over other parts of the Pentagon's new military manpower plans.

Secretary of Defense Wilson outlined the program yesterday:

It will call for a four-year extension of the Draft Law, a modified form of Universal Military Service that will provide for long and short term draftees, more pay for long service men and little change in the historic Reserve and National Guard set-up.

Wilson told a news conference that, while some details remain to be settled, President Eisenhower will present the plan in his State of the Union Message to the new Congress in January.

CHAIRMAN SALTONSTALL (R.-Mass.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee and two committeemen, Sens. Stennis (D.-Miss.) and Case (R.-S.D.), agreed in separate interviews that Wilson would get a sympathetic hearing when he takes his case before the group.

"I heartily believe that an improved reserve program is necessary," Saltonstall said, adding he had "tried five times" to get the Pentagon to submit details on it during the current session of Congress. The current Draft Act, passed in 1951, is due to expire April 30.

WHILE CONCURRING with the other three senators that the Selective Service Law should be extended, Sen. Long (D.-La.) said he doubts Congress would okay what he described as a new version of the Universal Military Training Program Congress has turned down seveal times in recent years.

"As one who previously supported UMT," Long said, "I think it can't be done."

Wilson said the manpower program as now planned calls for a double system of induction through the selective service. Most young men—nearly 300,000 a year at the current rate—would be drafted for two years of active duty, then go into the organized reserve.

THEN, TO BUILD up the reserve, another 50,000 to 100,000 would be inducted for a four to six months basic training period and then automatically become members of the ready reserve.

There would be two major distinctions between the short and longer term draftees:

(1) The short termers would not classify as "veterans," according to the latest Pentagon thinking, and thus would not qualify for most veterans benefits.

(2) The 24-month selectees would spend less time in the organized reserves while the short termers would be on call for emergency active duty for a year or two longer.

Young, However, Sees Basic Issue One of Freedom of Speech in Nation

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Sen. Hayden (D.-Ariz.) said today a "cover" was placed on Sen. McCarthy's mail in 1952 as part of an investigation to determine whether the Wisconsin senator was speculating with funds contributed to him to fight communism.

McCarthy, fighting censure charges now nearing a vote, has charged that a mail cover was placed on him and members of his staff by a Senate elections subcommittee that probed into his financial affairs in 1951-52.

Hayden's statement to the Senate was the first confirmation that a mail cover—that is, a check on the return addresses of incoming mail—had been placed on McCarthy.

One of the charges against McCarthy in the censure controversy is that he was contemptuous of the elections subcommittee. He has said he adopted the attitude he did because the subcommittee engaged in "illegal" actions against him.

Bush Says Actions Are Similar to Dictatorship

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Sen. Bush (R.-Conn.) told his colleagues today that if every senator conducted himself as does Sen. McCarthy it would mean "every man a dictator" in the Senate.

Contending McCarthy has "caused dangerous divisions among the American people," Bush said he will vote to censure the Wisconsin Republican.

On the other side, Sen. Young (R.-N. D.) said he believes the basic issue is freedom of speech and that he will vote against censure.

The United States, Young said, has "attained the highest degree of freedom" of any nation in history. A vote of censure, he continued, would tend to destroy it.

Young said he did not "approve" of McCarthy's past actions in all respects, but that McCarthy "has not been the only one" to use "intemperate" language.

Under an agreement to limit debate, the hour of decision on the bitterly-fought issue was fast closing in on the Senate.

CENSURE SEEMED plainly in the cards. McCarthy himself predicted to reporters that there will be a "completely one-sided" verdict against him. Democrats were reported to be virtually solid for censure and Republicans to be split about half and half.

A final verdict was a bare possibility by tonight, but it appeared more likely it would come sometime tomorrow.

An agreement limiting debate effective at 3 p. m. allowed one hour of argument on each proposed amendment to the resolution of centure and four hours on any proposed substitute.

Stevenson Is Counsel In Big Case

RCA Retains Him To Defend Charge

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—The Radio Corp. of America announced today it had retained Adlai E. Stevenson as counsel in a suit brought against RCA by the Zenith Radio Corp.

Zenith accuses RCA and other concerns of having conspired since 1919 to monopolize the radio and television business. It asks 16 million dollars in damages.

RCA, disclosing that it had employed the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate and former governor of Illinois as counsel said Stevenson's first action would be to seek a delay in the taking of depositions from RCA officials.

RCA SAID Stevenson was expected to appear before Associate Supreme Court Justice Sherman Minton in a day or two to argue in behalf of such a delay.

It is being asked, RCA said, to give the corporation time to prepare an appeal from a United States Court of Appeals ruling which gave Zenith a go-ahead for its damage suit.

Stevenson was in New York today conferring with RCA officials and was not immediately available for comment.

However, an aide said the fact that he is taking up legal work again had no bearing whatsoever

Armored Truck Carries Petitions

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Bundles of petitions opposing censure of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) were shipped off to Washington by armored truck early today for delivery to the U. S. Senate.

The petitions had been prepared by an organization known as "Ten Million Americans Mobilizing for Justice," which hired the truck to transport them to Washington.

A spokesman for the anti-censure organization said the petitions sent to Washington carried 1,000,816 signatures certified by an auditing firm. The names were signed to the petition in a nation-wide drive to collect 10 million signatures.

THE WASHINGTON shipment was addressed to Vice President Nixon, who serves as president of the Senate; Senate Majority Leader William F. Knowland of California and Mi-

Helfand Tells of Letter Describing $2,000 Payoff

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Asst. Dist. Atty. Julius Helfand says probe of a police "courtesy card" racket has brought an anonymous letter from a trucker who claimed last Christmas cost him $2,000 in police payoffs.

Helfand, of Kings county (Brooklyn), quoted the writer as saying he dreads the coming of Christmas "just because of the motorcycle cops."

"I don't wear a halo or say that I don't violate the law," Helfand read, "but I would sooner take a ticket and pay the summons than to continue the ever-increasing snowball of payoffs."

However, Helfand continued, the unsigned letter stated, "if I should dare cooperate with you, my trucks could not drive on the street . . ."

Helfand, who is conducting a grand jury probe of alleged police racket, said he is investigating the letter.

Authorities have said more than 100 policemen are involved in the alleged racket and explained it works like this:

Special cards bearing the signature of a policeman are issued to favored motorists. When a cardholder is stopped for a traffic violation, he can turn over the card and then later get it back by paying a fee. Thus he avoids appearance in court and a violation against his record.

In state Supreme Court in Manhattan yesterday, bail was reduced from $50,000 to $15,000 for suspended Policeman Donald Goodrich, said to be a key figure in the probe.

Officials sought to continue the high bail, arguing that Goodrich planned to flee the state, but it was lowered by Justice Owen McGivern. He said the high bail was clearly beyond Goodrich's means and was "tantamount to keeping him in jail at the will of the district attor-

Ulster Residents' Income Putat$132,400,000byState

Ulster county residents earned a total of $132,400,000 in 1953, an increase of $9,600,000 over the previous year, according to estimates prepared by the New York State Department of Commerce and reported in the current issue of Commerce Review.

Per capita income for Ulster county residents was $1,404 last year, compared to $1,315 in 1952.

The figures include all incomes earned by persons who live in the county, regardless of whether they are employed here or commute across the county line.

Total income payments made in Ulster county to individuals, whether they reside here or commute to this county from elsewhere, was $123,100,000 in 1953, an increase of 7.9 per cent over the $114,100,000 in income payments earned in the county in 1952.

The increase compared favorably, percentagewise, with state and regional increases in income payments over the same period, according to the Commerce Review tabulations.

Income payments to individuals in New York state as a whole increased 5.7 per cent from a total of $31,681,600,000 in 1952 to $33,489,000,000 in 1953. The increase for all upstate counties was 7.2 per cent, and for all counties in the Mid-Hudson area was 7.3 per cent.

The greatest percentage increase in income payments in a single county in the entire state occurred in neighboring Greene

Foundation Is Incorporated

Des Moines, Dec. 1 (AP)—Articles of incorporation for a foundation dedicated to "furthering the ideals of Herbert Hoover" were filed today with the Iowa secretary of state.

The articles list Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, as chairman of the Herbert Hoover Foundation, Inc. The 54 incorporating trustees include many nationally prominent figures in government and industry.

The foundation is designed to aid in preserving the former President's birthplace at West Branch, Iowa and to aid in "the advancement of the principles for which he has stood in education and scientific and public welfare activity."

Malik Says TwoShould Take Part

For China, Korea Sharing in Debate

United Nations, Dec. 1 (AP)—Russia formally proposed today that Red China and Communist North Korea be invited to take part in the UN debate on Korean peace.

The move was made in the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee by Soviet delegate Jacob A. Malik.

He told the committee it was impossible to expect any objective discussion on the Korean problem without the two Communist regimes being represented here.

Prince Wan Waithayakon, foreign minister of Thailand, immediately followed with a proposal that South Korea be invited to participte in the debate.

AMERICAN SOURCES said earlier U. S. delegate James Wadsworth would call for inclusion of South Korea, but would stand firm against any bid to Peiping or North Korea.

For the past four years the United States has opposed Soviet bids to include the Chinese Reds in the Korean debate. The American opposition to dealings with the Pieping regime has been intensified by the recent sentencing of 13 Americans captured during the Korean war and branded by the Chinese as spies.

THE RUSSIANS were not expected to succeed in such a move, but it was predicted they might muster a sizeable vote. Many delegates who oppose seating Red China in the UN still feel she should be allowed her say on an issue so close to her.

The political committee turned to the Korean question after adopting a resolution last night expressing hope that The Netherlands and Indonesia would continue to seek a peaceful settlement of their dispute over West New Guinea. The size of the vote—34-14 with 10 abstentions—appeared to assure the resolution of the necessary two-thirds majority when it comes before the General Assembly for final approval.

THE COMMITTEE'S action was a defeat for the Dutch and the other colonial powers. The Netherlands had fought UN consideration of the matter, contending it was outside the assembly's jurisdiction. The Dutch said also they would not renew talks on the issue with their former Asian subjects no matter what the UN voted.

The final resolution also represented a modification of Indonesia's original demand that the assembly call outright for the two nations to resume negotiations.

Indonesia contends that West New Guinea belongs to her by virtue of the independence she won from The Netherlands at the end of 1949. The Dutch have refused to give up their part of the island—Australia controls the rest—and contend their previous fruitless negotiations have shown the uselessness of further talks with the Indonesians.

U.S. Navy Is Ready In Pacific Theatre

Madrid, Spain, Dec. 1 (AP)—Adm. Robert B. Carney said today American naval forces in the Pacific are "in a state of readiness" for any task assigned them.

Carney, U. S. chief of naval operations, made the statement at a news conference in answer to a question as to whether the navy was in a position to impose and maintain a blockade of Communist China if it were so ordered.

"Our naval forces in the Pacific are adequate to perform any task which might be assigned to them," he said. The admiral agreed it could be said the Pacific Fleet is "in a state of readiness" but did not amplify his remarks.

Carney is inspecting proposed American air and navy bases in Spain. He said he had never experienced a "more friendly and cordial atmosphere" than here in Spain. He called on Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish chief of state, yesterday and said he had "great respect for his accomplishments in his country."

He said he proposed initiating the first phase of joint maneuvers between the Spanish navy and the U. S. 6th (Mediterranean and North Atlantic) Fleet "right away." He assured Adm. Salvador Moreno, Spanish navy minister, of "my complete cooperation" in this during a call on the minister shortly after arriving.

The joint maneuvers, he said, is one of the problems he will study with Adm. John H. Cassady, U. S. commander in chief in the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, and Vice Adm. T. S. Combs, 6th Fleet commander, this weekend in Madrid.

He said the Spanish Fleet could play an important role in coastal protection now but its usefulness will be greatly enhanced when modernization is completed.

Allied Leaders Call Moscow Threat Bluff

Berlin, Dec. 1 (AP)—Allied quarters in Berlin said today that the Moscow conference threat to beef up a Communist East Germany army is probably pure bluff.

Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl declared at the satellite security gathering in the Soviet capital yesterday that his government would feel obliged to build an army if the West ratifies the Paris treaties to rearm West Germany.

WESTERN CIRCLES in Berlin viewed the Moscow declaration as propaganda designed to throw a chill into those segments of western parliaments which still have some doubts about the wisdom of giving West Germany a half-million-man military force.

Allied military quarters which keep informed on the East German Communist "police" force contend:

1. The present East German army of 130,000 men represents almost the limit of military manpower the creaking Soviet zone can afford at the moment.

2. VOLUNTARY recruiting has been a failure and even repressive measures amounting almost to a draft of Communist youth have managed only to balance out the desertions to the west. These desertions now total 12,000—more than a full division—since 1951.

3. Imposition of a draft for

Chamber Names New Directors

The names of the 14 nominees for the office of director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce were announced today by William R. Stall, chairman of the elections committee.

Stall also stated that ballots containing the names of the nominees are being mailed to all Chamber members today.

Those named received the highest number of nominating votes on a previous ballot as provided for in the chamber by-laws.

A LETTER ATTACHED to the ballots being mailed today also contains the names of the 14 directors remaining on the board of directors after the terms of seven expire on December 31. It also indicates the type of business or profession which each director and director nominee represents.

The by-laws of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce suggests that business interests and professions represented by directors be kept in mind in the voting to insure a broad representation or cross-section of interests on the board of directors.

Officers for 1955 will be elected by the newly constituted board of directors. Officers thus elected include a president, three vice-presidents and a treasurer. The five officers named constitute the executive committee. Deweese DeWitt, a retiring director is chairman of the committee to nominate the slate of officers.

Patronage, Program in Discussion

Harriman Talks With Party Men

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Gov.-Elect Averell Harriman is continuing a round of conferences on the program of his new Democratic state adminstration and on the distribution of patronage and offices to Democratic and Liberal Party members.

He talked yesterday with a number of political and civic leaders on a variety of problems which included state aid to education, new developments in the port of New York and proposals to be submitted to the Republican-controlled legislature in his first annual message.

HARRIMAN conferred with Howard S. Cullman, chairman of the Port of New York authority, and other members of the New York-New Jersey agency. The governor-elect told newsmen later he had been informed about the authority's plans for new projects.

Harriman also conferred with Democratic legislative leaders and their staffs about the legislative program he will recom-

Fire Board Votes Walkie-Talkies

The Board of Fire Commissioners last night voted to purchase two "walkie-talkie" units for communications at fires, and two new modern protective masks.

Use of the walkie-talkie units, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said, will permit better communication between personnel inside and outside of a building, especially at large, or otherwise dangerous fires.

Two of the type masks to be bought are in use by the department. They are self contained units with oxygen tanks and are known as "Scott Packs."

One of the communication units is to be placed in the chief's car and the other on another piece of equipment, the chief said.

The board deferred action on a promotional appointment to fill the vacancy left by the recent death of Capt. William J. Geary, until a later meeting.

YoshidaGivesSharpReplies To Parliament Over Reds

Tokyo, Dec. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, in stinging replies to his Diet (Parliament) critics, said today, "it is very necessary for the Japanese to know the real menace of the Communist offensive."

And he snapped at opponents seeking to oust him: "The Liberal party will decide when and whether I should step down."

The 76-year-old leader fought back at critics who attacked him for being too "pro-American."

"It is necessary to oppose communism," Yoshida said. "If that is called 'alignment with America only,' I say all the free world is aligned with America only."

Yoshida—embroiled in the political fight of his life—had harsh words for questioners in the Diet who urged expansion of trade with the Communists.

"The Communist radios pour sugar-coated words at Japanese ears," Yoshida said. "At the same time, the Communist radios beamed to southeast Asia tell them Japan is being rearmed for renewed aggression under American instigation. It is foolish to buy Communist words at face value."

BlockadeIs OneCourse Considered

Dulles Will Hold Late Press Parley

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Steady pressure aimed at arousing world feelings shaped up today as the main U. S. plan for winning release of 13 Americans jailed by Red China, despite new urging for more direct action.

Support for a tougher approach came from Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.). He declared he is "in complete sympathy" with the proposal of Senate Majority Leader Knowland (Calif.) to blockade the China coast.

And McCarthy said in an interview he doubted a single American warship would be needed to create a blockade. He suggested the United States could impose one by simply telling its allies they would get no more aid as long as they shipped goods to Communist China.

SEN. SPARKMAN (D.-Ala.), on the other hand, said he was against a blockade. It would amount to "an act of war and would be in violation of the Korean armistice agreement," he commented in a separate interview.

Secretary of State Dulles' short-of-war strategy for liberating the 11 U. S. airmen and 2 army-employed civilians appeared to center on the marshaling of world opinion.

Dulles may go into more detail at a mid-afternoon news conference on what he had in mind in saying during his Chicago speech Monday night that the United States would "exhaust peaceful means of sustaining our international rights and those of our citizens."

DULLES RULED OUT, with backing from the White House made public yesterday, any "war action such as a naval and air blockade of Red China."

Knowland told newsmen he saw no great break between him and the administration on that score, but only a difference of opinion.

McCarthy said that if allied nations were told they must halt all shipments to Red China or lose U. S. aid, he believed it would bring about the release of not only the 13 imprisoned airmen but also other Americans held by the Chinese.

"According to the military," he said, "they hold over 500 of our uniformed men." (The United States has demanded an accounting of Peiping for 256 missing American servicemen, dead or alive).

"WE SHOULD undertake every effort to make sure they are returned," McCarthy said. "Any uniformed man should have the strength of the entire nation behind him. Otherwise you lose your national honor."

The Wisconsin senator frequently has urged a denial of aid to countries trading with Communist China. He said this time that if such a measure didn't work, he would favor the blockade advocated by Knowland.

Possible avenues for the U. S. short-of-war effort included further use of the British contact with Red China, whom Washington does not recognize diplomatically, or even a request that the Russians use their good offices. The matter could also be taken up in the UN.

Will Air Squabbles

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Gar Wood, white-haired dean of American speedboat racing, and a 23-year-old former model will air their squabbles in a justice of the peace court here Tuesday. Wood, 73-year-old millionaire boat builder, said Lucille Stiglich, a statuesque brunette, went to his home on Fisher Island and threatened to kill him.

Draft Act Extension Is Certain

Senator's Differ On Other Matters

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Four senators agreed today that the new Congress will extend the Draft Act but differed over other parts of the Pentagon's new military manpower plans.

Secretary of Defense Wilson outlined the program yesterday:

It will call for a four-year extension of the Draft Law, a modified form of Universal Military Service that will provide for long and short term draftees, more pay for long service men and little change in the historic Reserve and National Guard setup.

Wilson told a news conference that, while some details remain to be settled, President Eisenhower will present the plan in his State of the Union Message to the new Congress in January.

CHAIRMAN SALTONSTALL (R.-Mass.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee and two committeemen, Sens. Stennis (D.-Miss.) and Case (R.-S.D.), agreed in separate interviews that Wilson would get a sympathetic hearing when he takes his case before the group.

"I heartily believe that an improved reserve program is necessary," Saltonstall said, adding he had "tried five times" to get the Pentagon to submit details on it during the current session of Congress. The current Draft Act, passed in 1951, is due to expire April 30.

Per capita income for Ulster county residents was $1,404 last year, compared to $1,315 in 1952.

The figures include all incomes earned by persons who live in the county, regardless of whether they are employed here or commute across the county line.

Total income payments made in Ulster county to individuals, whether they reside here or commute to this county from elsewhere, was $123,100,000 in 1953, an increase of 7.9 per cent over the $114,100,000 in income payments earned in the county in 1952.

The increase compared favorably, percentagewise, with state and regional increases in income payments over the same period, according to the Commerce Review tabulations.

Income payments to individuals in New York state as a whole increased 5.7 per cent from a total of $31,681,600,000 in 1952 to $33,489,000,000 in 1953. The increase for all upstate counties was 7.2 per cent, and for all counties in the Mid-Hudson area was 7.3 per cent.

The greatest percentage increase in income payments in a single county in the entire state occurred in neighboring Greene

Malik Says TwoShould Take Part

For China, Korea Sharing in Debate

United Nations, Dec. 1 (AP)—Russia formally proposed today that Red China and Communist North Korea be invited to take part in the UN debate on Korean peace.

The move was made in the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee by Soviet delegate Jacob A. Malik.

He told the committee it was impossible to expect any objective discussion on the Korean problem without the two Communist regimes being represented here.

Prince Wan Waithayakon, foreign minister of Thailand, immediately followed with a proposal that South Korea be invited to participte in the debate.

AMERICAN SOURCES said earlier U. S. delegate James Wadsworth would call for inclusion of South Korea, but would stand firm against any bid to Peiping or North Korea.

For the past four years the United States has opposed Soviet bids to include the Chinese Reds in the Korean debate. The American opposition to dealings with the Pieping regime has been intensified by the recent sentencing of 13 Americans captured during the Korean war and branded by the Chinese as spies.

THE RUSSIANS were not expected to succeed in such a move, but it was predicted they might muster a sizeable vote. Many delegates who oppose seating Red China in the UN still feel she should be allowed her say on an issue so close to her.

The political committee turned to the Korean question after adopting a resolution last night expressing hope that The Netherlands and Indonesia would continue to seek a peaceful settlement of their dispute over West New Guinea. The size of the vote—34-14 with 10 abstentions—appeared to assure the resolution of the necessary two-thirds majority when it comes before the General Assembly for final approval.

THE COMMITTEE'S action was a defeat for the Dutch and the other colonial powers. The Netherlands had fought UN consideration of the matter, contending it was outside the assembly's jurisdiction. The Dutch said also they would not renew talks on the issue with their former Asian subjects no matter what the UN voted.

The final resolution also represented a modification of Indonesia's original demand that the assembly call outright for the two nations to resume negotiations.

Indonesia contends that West New Guinea belongs to her by virtue of the independence she won from The Netherlands at the end of 1949. The Dutch have refused to give up their part of the island—Australia controls the rest—and contend their previous fruitless negotiations have shown the uselessness of further talks with the Indonesians.

Armored Truck Carries Petitions

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Bundles of petitions opposing censure of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) were shipped off to Washington by armored truck early today for delivery to the U. S. Senate.

The petitions had been prepared by an organization known as "Ten Million Americans Mobilizing for Justice," which hired the truck to transport them to Washington.

A spokesman for the anti-censure organization said the petitions sent to Washington carried 1,000,816 signatures certified by an auditing firm. The names were signed to the petition in a nation-wide drive to collect 10 million signatures.

THE WASHINGTON shipment was addressed to Vice President Nixon, who serves as president of the Senate; Senate Majority Leader William F. Knowland of California and Mi-

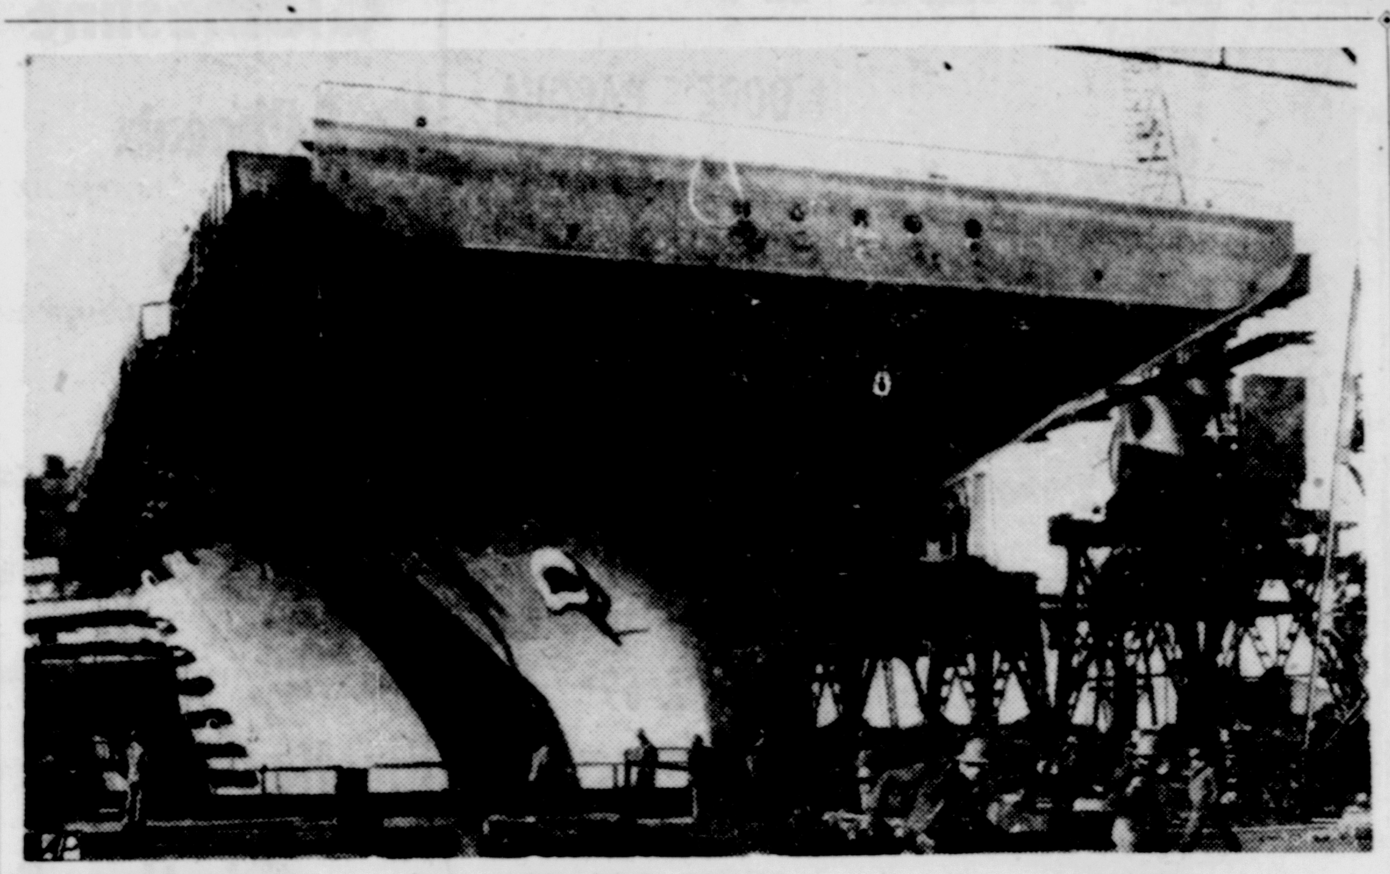
U.S. Will Seek World Support to Free Men



FORRESTAL NEARS LAUNCHING DATE—Workmen put finishing touches on the giant carrier Forrestal in preparation for the Dec. 11 launching at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., in Virginia. The 1,036-foot, 59,900-ton ship, biggest warship ever built, will be christened by Mrs. James V. Forrestal, widow of the first Secretary of Defense, as the first of 10 such vessels the Navy hopes to construct. (AP Wirephoto).

Blockade Is One Course Considered

Dulles Will Hold Late Press Parley

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Steady pressure aimed at arousing world feelings shaped up today as the main U. S. plan for winning release of 13 Americans jailed by Red China, despite new urging for more direct action.

Support for a tougher approach came from Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.). He declared he is "in complete sympathy" with the proposal of Senate Majority Leader Knowland (Calif.) to blockade the China coast.

And McCarthy said in an interview he doubted a single American warship would be needed to create a blockade. He suggested the United States could impose one by simply telling its allies they would get no more aid as long as they shipped goods to Communist China.

SEN. SPARKMAN (D.-Ala.), on the other hand, said he was against a blockade. It would amount to "an act of war and would be in violation of the Korean armistice agreement," he commented in a separate interview.

Secretary of State Dulles' short-of-war strategy for liberating the 11 U. S. airmen and 2 army-employed civilians appeared to center on the marshaling of world opinion.

Dulles may go into more detail at a mid-afternoon news conference on what he had in mind in saying during his Chicago speech Monday night that the United States would "exhaust peaceful means of sustaining our international rights and those of our citizens."

DULLES RULED OUT, with backing from the White House made public yesterday, any "war action such as a naval and air blockade of Red China."

Knowland told newsmen he saw no great break between him and the administration on that score, but only a difference of opinion.

McCarthy said that if allied nations were told they must halt all shipments to Red China or lose U. S. aid, he believed it would bring about the release of not only the 13 imprisoned airmen but also other Americans held by the Chinese.

"According to the military," he said, "they hold over 500 of our uniformed men." (The United States has demanded an accounting of Peiping for 256 missing American servicemen, dead or alive).

"WE SHOULD undertake every effort to make sure they are returned," McCarthy said. "Any uniformed man should have the strength of the entire nation behind him. Otherwise you lose your national honor."

The Wisconsin senator frequently has urged a denial of aid to countries trading with Communist China. He said this time that if such a measure didn't work, he would favor the blockade advocated by Knowland.

Possible avenues for the U. S. short-of-war effort included further use of the British contact with Red China, whom Washington does not recognize diplomatically, or even a request that the Russians use their good offices. The matter could also be taken up in the UN.

U.S. Navy Is Ready In Pacific Theatre

Madrid, Spain, Dec. 1 (AP)—Adm. Robert B. Carney said today American naval forces in the Pacific are "in a state of readiness" for any task assigned them.

Carney, U. S. chief of naval operations, made the statement at a news conference in answer to a question as to whether the navy was in a position to impose and maintain a blockade of Communist China if it were so ordered.

"Our naval forces in the Pacific are adequate to perform any task which might be assigned to them," he said. The admiral agreed it could be said the Pacific Fleet is "in a state of readiness" but did not amplify his remarks.

Carney is inspecting proposed American air and navy bases in Spain. He said he had never experienced a "more friendly and cordial atmosphere" than here in Spain. He called on Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish chief of state, yesterday and said he had "great respect for his accomplishments in his country."

He said he proposed initiating the first phase of joint maneuvers between the Spanish navy and the U. S. 6th (Mediterranean and North Atlantic) Fleet "right away." He assured Adm. Salvador Moreno, Spanish navy minister, of "my complete cooperation" in this during a call on the minister shortly after arriving.

The joint maneuvers, he said, is one of the problems he will study with Adm. John H. Cassady, U. S. commander in chief in the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, and Vice Adm. T. S. Combs, 6th Fleet commander, this weekend in Madrid.

He said the Spanish Fleet could play an important role in coastal protection now but its usefulness will be greatly enhanced when modernization is completed.

Patronage, Program in Discussion

Harriman Talks With Party Men

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Gov.-Elect Averell Harriman is continuing a round of conferences on the program of his new Democratic state adminstration and on the distribution of patronage and offices to Democratic and Liberal Party members.

He talked yesterday with a number of political and civic leaders on a variety of problems which included state aid to education, new developments in the port of New York and proposals to be submitted to the Republican-controlled legislature in his first annual message.

HARRIMAN conferred with Howard S. Cullman, chairman of the Port of New York authority, and other members of the New York-New Jersey agency. The governor-elect told newsmen later he had been informed about the authority's plans for new projects.

Harriman also conferred with Democratic legislative leaders and their staffs about the legislative program he will recom-

Allied Leaders Call Moscow Threat Bluff

Berlin, Dec. 1 (AP)—Allied quarters in Berlin said today that the Moscow conference threat to beef up a Communist East Germany army is probably pure bluff.

Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl declared at the satellite security gathering in the Soviet capital yesterday that his government would feel obliged to build an army if the West ratifies the Paris treaties to rearm West Germany.

WESTERN CIRCLES in Berlin viewed the Moscow declaration as propaganda designed to throw a chill into those segments of western parliaments which still have some doubts about the wisdom of giving West Germany a half-million-man military force.

Allied military quarters which keep informed on the East German Communist "police" force contend:

1. The present East German army of 130,000 men represents almost the limit of military manpower the creaking Soviet zone can afford at the moment.

2. VOLUNTARY recruiting has been a failure and even repressive measures amounting almost to a draft of Communist youth have managed only to balance out the desertions to the west. These desertions now total 12,000—more than a full division—since 1951.

3. Imposition of a draft for

Chamber Names New Directors

The names of the 14 nominees for the office of director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce were announced today by William R. Stall, chairman of the elections committee.

Stall also stated that ballots containing the names of the nominees are being mailed to all Chamber members today.

Those named received the highest number of nominating votes on a previous ballot as provided for in the chamber bylaws.

A LETTER ATTACHED to the ballots being mailed today also contains the names of the 14 directors remaining on the board of directors after the terms of seven expire on December 31. It also indicates the type of business or profession which each director and director nominee represents.

The by-laws of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce suggests that business interests and professions represented by directors be kept in mind in the voting to insure a broad representation or cross-section of interests on the board of directors.

Officers for 1955 will be elected by the newly constituted board of directors. Officers thus elected include a president, three vice-presidents and a treasurer. The five officers named constitute the executive committee. Deweese DeWitt, a retiring director is chairman of the committee to nominate the slate of officers.

Fire Board Votes Walkie-Talkies

The Board of Fire Commissioners last night voted to purchase two "walkie-talkie" units for communications at fires, and two new modern protective masks.

Use of the walkie-talkie units, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said, will permit better communication between personnel inside and outside of a building, especially at large, or otherwise dangerous fires.

Two of the type masks to be bought are in use by the department. They are self contained units with oxygen tanks and are known as "Scott Packs."

One of the communication units is to be placed in the chief's car and the other on another piece of equipment, the chief said.

The board deferred action on a promotional appointment to fill the vacancy left by the recent death of Capt. William J. Geary, until a later meeting.

YoshidaGivesSharpReplies To Parliament Over Reds

Tokyo, Dec. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, in stinging replies to his Diet (Parliament) critics, said today, "it is very necessary for the Japanese to know the real menace of the Communist offensive."

And he snapped at opponents seeking to oust him: "The Liberal party will decide when and whether I should step down."

The 76-year-old leader fought back at critics who attacked him for being too "pro-American."

"It is necessary to oppose communism," Yoshida said. "If that is called 'alignment with America only,' I say all the free world is aligned with America only."

Yoshida—embroiled in the political fight of his life—had harsh words for questioners in the Diet who urged expansion of trade with the Communists.

"The Communist radios pour sugar-coated words at Japanese ears," Yoshida said. "At the same time, the Communist radios beamed to southeast Asia tell them Japan is being rearmed for renewed aggression under American instigation. It is foolish to buy Communist words at face value."

Bush Hits McCarthy As Causing Division

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Sen. Hayden (D.-Ariz.) said today a "cover" was placed on Sen. McCarthy's mail in 1952 as part of an investigation to determine whether the Wisconsin senator was speculating with funds contributed to him to fight communism.

McCarthy, fighting censure charges now nearing a vote, has charged that a mail cover was placed on him and members of his staff by a Senate elections subcommittee that probed into his financial affairs in 1951-52.

Hayden's statement to the Senate was the first confirmation that a mail cover—that is, a check on the return addresses of incoming mail—had been placed on McCarthy.

One of the charges against McCarthy in the censure controversy is that he was contemptuous of the elections subcommittee. He has said he adopted the attitude he did because the subcommittee engaged in "illegal" actions against him.

Bush Says Actions Are Similar to Dictatorship

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Sen. Bush (R.-Conn.) told his colleagues today that if every senator conducted himself as does Sen. McCarthy it would mean "every man a dictator" in the Senate.

Contending McCarthy has "caused dangerous divisions among the American people," Bush said he will vote to censure the Wisconsin Republican.

On the other side, Sen. Young (R.-N. D.) said he believes the basic issue is freedom of speech and that he will vote against censure.

The United States, Young said, has "attained the highest degree of freedom" of any nation in history. A vote of censure, he continued, would tend to destroy it.

Young said he did not "approve" of McCarthy's past actions in all respects, but that McCarthy "has not been the only one" to use "intemperate" language.

Under an agreement to limit debate, the hour of decision on the bitterly-fought issue was fast closing in on the Senate.

CENSURE SEEMED plainly in the cards. McCarthy himself predicted to reporters that there will be a "completely one-sided" verdict against him. Democrats were reported to be virtually solid for censure and Republicans to be split about half and half.

A final verdict was a bare possibility by tonight, but it appeared more likely it would come sometime tomorrow.

An agreement limiting debate effective at 3 p. m. allowed one hour of argument on each proposed amendment to the resolution of centure and four hours on any proposed substitute.

AS TODAY'S SESSION began, Republican leader Knowland (Calif.) told newsmen he expected the session would con-

Draft Act Extension Is Certain

Senator's Differ On Other Matters

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Four senators agreed today that the new Congress will extend the Draft Act but differed over other parts of the Pentagon's new military manpower plans.

Secretary of Defense Wilson outlined the program yesterday:

It will call for a four-year extension of the Draft Law, a modified form of Universal Military Service that will provide for long and short term draftees, more pay for long service men and little change in the historic Reserve and National Guard setup.

Wilson told a news conference that, while some details remain to be settled, President Eisenhower will present the plan in his State of the Union Message to the new Congress in January.

CHAIRMAN SALTONSTALL (R.-Mass.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee and two committeemen, Sens. Stennis (D.-Miss.) and Case (R.-S.D.), agreed in separate interviews that Wilson would get a sympathetic hearing when he takes his case before the group.

"I heartily believe that an improved reserve program is necessary," Saltonstall said, adding he had "tried five times" to get the Pentagon to submit details on it during the current session of Congress. The current Draft Act, passed in 1951, is due to expire April 30.

WHILE CONCURRING with the other three senators that the Selective Service Law should be extended, Sen. Long (D.-La.) said he doubts Congress would okay what he described as a new version of the Universal Military Training Program Congress has turned down seveal times in recent years.

"As one who previously supported UMT," Long said, "I think it can't be done."

Wilson said the manpower program as now planned calls for a double system of induction through the selective service. Most young men—nearly 300,000 a year at the current rate—would be drafted for two years of active duty, then go into the organized reserve.

THEN, TO BUILD up the reserve, another 50,000 to 100,000 would be inducted for a four to six months basic training period and then automatically become members of the ready reserve.

There would be two major distinctions between the short and longer term draftees:

(1) The short termers would not classify as "veterans," according to the latest Pentagon thinking, and thus would not qualify for most veterans benefits.

(2) The 24-month selectees would spend less time in the organized reserves while the short termers would be on call for emergency active duty for a year or two longer.

Stevenson Is Counsel In Big Case

RCA Retains Him To Defend Charge

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—The Radio Corp. of America announced today it had retained Adlai E. Stevenson as counsel in a suit brought against RCA by the Zenith Radio Corp.

Zenith accuses RCA and other concerns of having conspired since 1919 to monopolize the radio and television business. It asks 16 million dollars in damages.

RCA, disclosing that it had employed the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate and former governor of Illinois as counsel said Stevenson's first action would be to seek a delay in the taking of depositions from RCA officials.

RCA SAID Stevenson was expected to appear before Associate Supreme Court Justice Sherman Minton in a day or two to argue in behalf of such a delay.

It is being asked, RCA said, to give the corporation time to prepare an appeal from a United States Court of Appeals ruling which gave Zenith a go-ahead for its damage suit.

Stevenson was in New York today conferring with RCA officials and was not immediately available for comment.

However, an aide said the fact that he is taking up legal work again had no bearing whatsoever

Helfand Tells of Letter Describing $2,000 Payoff

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Asst. Dist. Atty. Julius Helfand says probe of a police "courtesy card" racket has brought an anonymous letter from a trucker who claimed last Christmas cost him $2,000 in police payoffs.

Helfand, of Kings county (Brooklyn), quoted the writer as saying he dreads the coming of Christmas "just because of the motorcycle cops."

"I don't wear a halo or say that I don't violate the law," Helfand read, "but I would sooner take a ticket and pay the summons than to continue the ever-increasing snowball of payoffs."

However, Helfand continued, the unsigned letter stated, "if I should dare cooperate with you, my trucks could not drive on the street . . ."

Helfand, who is conducting a grand jury probe of alleged police racket, said he is investigating the letter.

Authorities have said more than 100 policemen are involved in the alleged racket and explained it works like this:

Special cards bearing the signature of a policeman are issued to favored motorists. When a cardholder is stopped for a traffic violation, he can turn over the card and then later get it back by paying a fee. Thus he avoids appearance in court and a violation against his record.

In state Supreme Court in Manhattan yesterday, bail was reduced from $50,000 to $15,000 for suspended Policeman Donald Goodrich, said to be a key figure in the probe.

Officials sought to continue the high bail, arguing that Goodrich planned to flee the state, but it was lowered by Justice Owen McGivern. He said the high bail was clearly beyond Goodrich's means and was "tantamount to keeping him in jail at the will of the district attor-

Ulster county residents earned a total of $132,400,000 in 1953, an increase of $9,600,000 over the previous year, according to estimates prepared by the New York State Department of Commerce and reported in the current issue of Commerce Review.

Allied military quarters which keep informed on the East German Communist "police" force contend:

1. The present East German army of 130,000 men represents almost the limit of military manpower the creaking Soviet zone can afford at the moment.

2. VOLUNTARY recruiting has been a failure and even repressive measures amounting almost to a draft of Communist youth have managed only to balance out the desertions to the west. These desertions now total 12,000—more than a full division—since 1951.

3. Imposition of a draft for

Chamber Names New Directors

The names of the 14 nominees for the office of director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce were announced today by William R. Stall, chairman of the elections committee.

Stall also stated that ballots containing the names of the nominees are being mailed to all Chamber members today.

Those named received the highest number of nominating votes on a previous ballot as provided for in the chamber bylaws.

A LETTER ATTACHED to the ballots being mailed today also contains the names of the 14 directors remaining on the board of directors after the terms of seven expire on December 31. It also indicates the type of business or profession which each director and director nominee represents.

The by-laws of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce suggests that business interests and professions represented by directors be kept in mind in the voting to insure a broad representation or cross-section of interests on the board of directors.

Officers for 1955 will be elected by the newly constituted board of directors. Officers thus elected include a president, three vice-presidents and a treasurer. The five officers named constitute the executive committee. Deweese DeWitt, a retiring director is chairman of the committee to nominate the slate of officers.

Patronage, Program in Discussion

Harriman Talks With Party Men

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Gov.-Elect Averell Harriman is continuing a round of conferences on the program of his new Democratic state adminstration and on the distribution of patronage and offices to Democratic and Liberal Party members.

He talked yesterday with a number of political and civic leaders on a variety of problems which included state aid to education, new developments in the port of New York and proposals to be submitted to the Republican-controlled legislature in his first annual message.

HARRIMAN conferred with Howard S. Cullman, chairman of the Port of New York authority, and other members of the New York-New Jersey agency. The governor-elect told newsmen later he had been informed about the authority's plans for new projects.

Harriman also conferred with Democratic legislative leaders and their staffs about the legislative program he will recom-

Fire Board Votes Walkie-Talkies

The Board of Fire Commissioners last night voted to purchase two "walkie-talkie" units for communications at fires, and two new modern protective masks.

Use of the walkie-talkie units, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said, will permit better communication between personnel inside and outside of a building, especially at large, or otherwise dangerous fires.

Two of the type masks to be bought are in use by the department. They are self contained units with oxygen tanks and are known as "Scott Packs."

One of the communication units is to be placed in the chief's car and the other on another piece of equipment, the chief said.

The board deferred action on a promotional appointment to fill the vacancy left by the recent death of Capt. William J. Geary, until a later meeting.

YoshidaGivesSharpReplies To Parliament Over Reds

Tokyo, Dec. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, in stinging replies to his Diet (Parliament) critics, said today, "it is very necessary for the Japanese to know the real menace of the Communist offensive."

And he snapped at opponents seeking to oust him: "The Liberal party will decide when and whether I should step down."

The 76-year-old leader fought back at critics who attacked him for being too "pro-American."

"It is necessary to oppose communism," Yoshida said. "If that is called 'alignment with America only,' I say all the free world is aligned with America only."

Yoshida—embroiled in the political fight of his life—had harsh words for questioners in the Diet who urged expansion of trade with the Communists.

"The Communist radios pour sugar-coated words at Japanese ears," Yoshida said. "At the same time, the Communist radios beamed to southeast Asia tell them Japan is being rearmed for renewed aggression under American instigation. It is foolish to buy Communist words at face value."

The fighting prime minister

Dulles Will Hold Late Press Parley

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Steady pressure aimed at arousing world feelings shaped up today as the main U. S. plan for winning release of 13 Americans jailed by Red China, despite new urging for more direct action.

Support for a tougher approach came from Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.). He declared he is "in complete sympathy" with the proposal of Senate Majority Leader Knowland (Calif.) to blockade the China coast.

And McCarthy said in an interview he doubted a single American warship would be needed to create a blockade. He suggested the United States could impose one by simply telling its allies they would get no more aid as long as they shipped goods to Communist China.

SEN. SPARKMAN (D.-Ala.), on the other hand, said he was against a blockade. It would amount to "an act of war and would be in violation of the Korean armistice agreement," he commented in a separate interview.

Secretary of State Dulles' short-of-war strategy for liberating the 11 U. S. airmen and 2 army-employed civilians appeared to center on the marshaling of world opinion.

Dulles may go into more detail at a mid-afternoon news conference on what he had in mind in saying during his Chicago speech Monday night that the United States would "exhaust peaceful means of sustaining our international rights and those of our citizens."

DULLES RULED OUT, with backing from the White House made public yesterday, any "war action such as a naval and air blockade of Red China."

Knowland told newsmen he saw no great break between him and the administration on that score, but only a difference of opinion.

McCarthy said that if allied nations were told they must halt all shipments to Red China or lose U. S. aid, he believed it would bring about the release of not only the 13 imprisoned airmen but also other Americans held by the Chinese.

"According to the military," he said, "they hold over 500 of our uniformed men." (The United States has demanded an accounting of Peiping for 256 missing American servicemen, dead or alive).

"WE SHOULD undertake every effort to make sure they are returned," McCarthy said. "Any uniformed man should have the strength of the entire nation behind him. Otherwise you lose your national honor."

The Wisconsin senator frequently has urged a denial of aid to countries trading with Communist China. He said this time that if such a measure didn't work, he would favor the blockade advocated by Knowland.

Possible avenues for the U. S. short-of-war effort included further use of the British contact with Red China, whom Washington does not recognize diplomatically, or even a request that the Russians use their good offices. The matter could also be taken up in the UN.

Will Air Squabbles

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Gar Wood, white-haired dean of American speedboat racing, and a 23-year-old former model will air their squabbles in a justice of the peace court here Tuesday. Wood, 73-year-old millionaire boat builder, said Lucille Stiglich, a statuesque brunette, went to his home on Fisher Island and threatened to kill him.

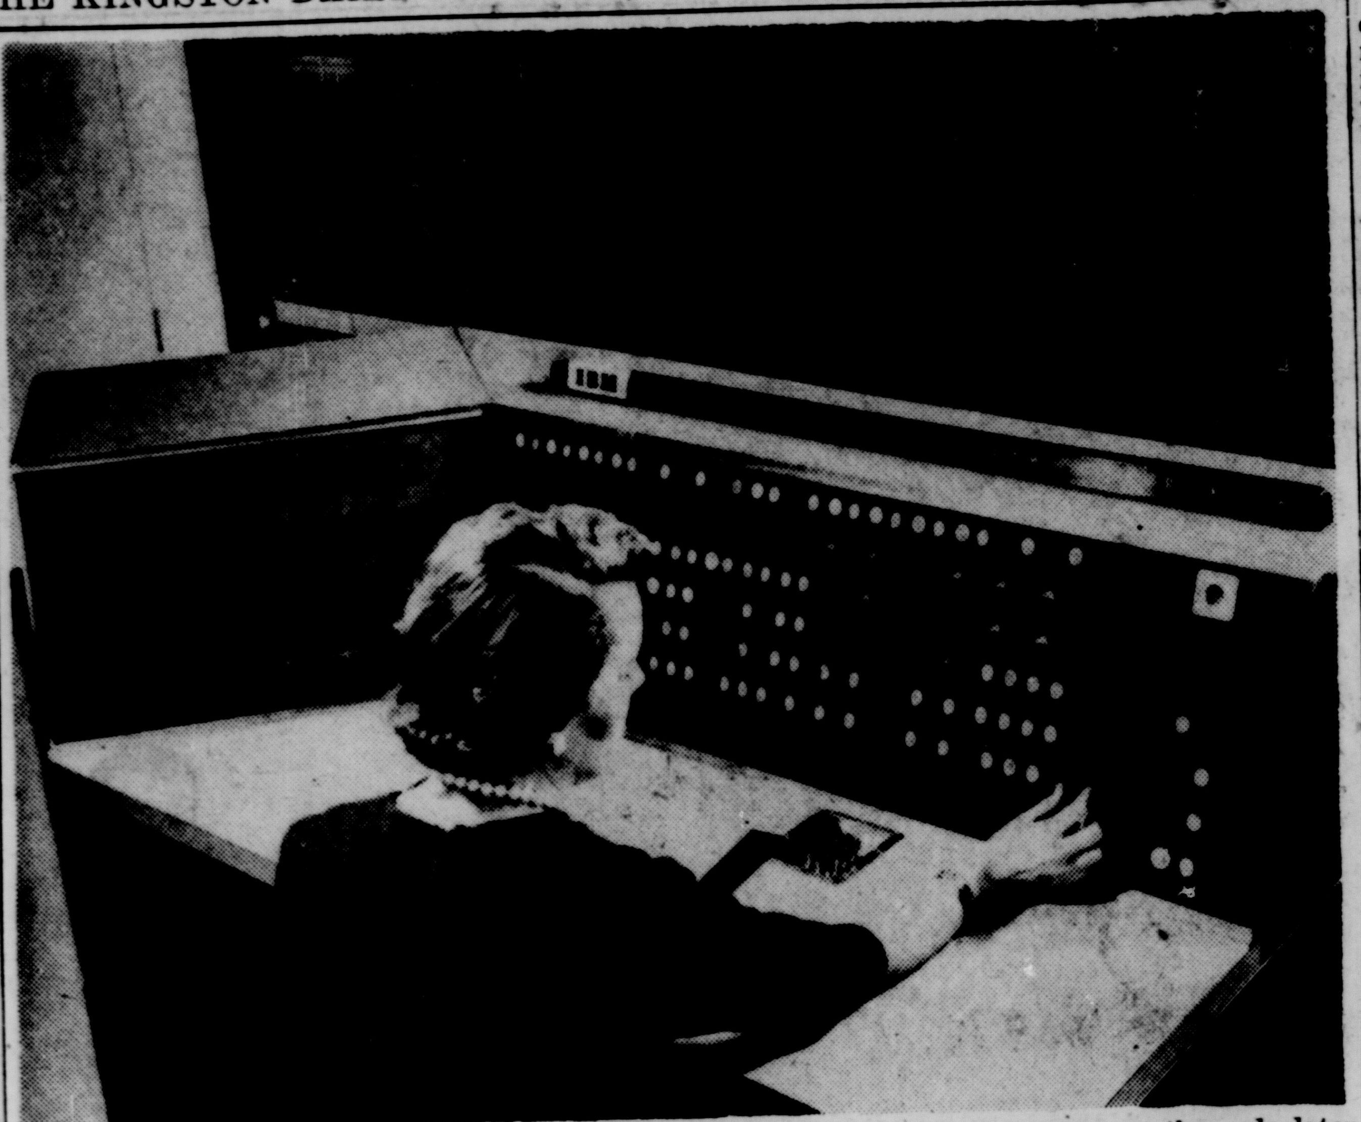
Road Gets Hot

Winnsboro, S. C. (AP)—Forest fire fighters welcomed a new road as a firebreak but instead the roadway suddenly flared up with flames and the fire spread to the other side. The fire fighters knew it was dry from prolonged drouth but they didn't think it was that dry. The road fire was caused by a coat of surfacing material poured on preliminary to the gravel application.



THE MOST POWERFUL large-scale electronic computer in the world, the NORC (Naval Ordnance Research Calculator) was built by International Business Marchines Corporation for the U. S. Navy's Bureau of Ordnance. Shown here is the control console of the NORC. Switches can be used to start and stop the machine and to modify the written program. In normal operation, however, the calculator proceeds automatically according to instructions recorded on magnetic tape, without control by the operator. Any number or instruction in the calculator can be shown on the faces of cathode ray tubes, at left. Selected portions of the program also can be examined in slow motion through this display.

IBM Will Show New Computer at Columbia Lab

A machine, described as "the smartest electronic brain" ever built will be demonstrated tomorrow by International Business Machines Corporation in New York. The big computer, called the NORC, for Naval Ordnance Research Calculator, was built by IBM for the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance. Original research leading to the project began in 1946 and actual construction and testing has been under way since 1951.

NORC will shortly be moved to the Naval Proving Ground, Dahlgren, Va., where it will be installed in the Computation Laboratory which already possesses other computing machines. It is expected that this installation will provide one of the most versatile computing facilities in existence.

THE DEMONSTRATION of the NORC will take place tomorrow at Columbia in the presence of a group representing the navy, the university and industry. Captain C. K. Bergin, assistant chief of the Bureau of Ordnance for Research and Development, Department of the Navy, will accept the computer from Thomas J. Watson, Jr., president of IBM. Dr. John Von Neumann, of the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton University, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, Dr. Grayson Kirk, President of Columbia, and Thomas J. Watson, Sr., IBM Chairman, will speak. B. L. Havens, who supervised construction of the NORC, will describe its operation. Dr. Wallace Eckert, Director of the Watson Laboratory, will preside over the dedication program, which will include a demonstration of NORC and a luncheon at the Men's Faculty Club at Columbia. The computer was demonstrated for the press yesterday.

Shokan

Shokan, Nov. 30—Dr. Henry Diephius and two daughters of New Jersey were callers here Saturday in the course of a weekend visit to their summer home at Phoenicia.

The condition of Leonard Ruckert, ill for the past three weeks, was reported Monday as much improved. It is expected that Leonard will be discharged from the hospital some time this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Iapoce and sons John and Toni spent Thanksgiving Day with Alfred's brother Tom Iapoce and family in Long Island City.

Ruth Trowbridge and nephew Walter Trowbridge of Kingston were in Shokan the latter part of the week. They come from old Olive and Marbletown stock and Walter, a KHS senior, is captain of the school gun club.

Having a birthday Friday, Dec. 3, is George Kelder, former Shokan resident who for several years has made his home in the Spillway neighborhood. George, 72, was born at Alligerville and as a young man was one of Kingston's best known business-men.

George Knickerbocker, Jr., of Peekskill came up to the Winchell farm Friday for a few days hunting. He was accompanied by John Gordon and James Sloat, also of Peekskill. George, who is a cousin of Mrs. Robert Winnie, together with two of his sisters, a brother and his father, all are war veterans.

The R. E. Dunn truck of Kingston passes through the village daily with bluestone curbing from quarries to the south of the reservoir.

John Haggerty, long time member of the local Ashokan Reservoir force, is boarding at the L. Weeks house in the village.

Opening of the new Bearpen Mountain ski slope at Little Westkill should have the effect of increasing weekend travel over the Onteora Trail. Five rope tows reportedly have been installed on the mile-long slope which will be one of the highest in the Catskills.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill of Poughkeepsie were in Shokan Sunday. The couple have become interested in skiing and are thinking of buying a camp in the mountains.

Judge and Mrs. Roger Loughran of Hurley were callers here Sunday.

SALVATION ARMY WEEK

Even in times of high prosperity, there are unfortunately many dark areas of poverty and despair where the average citizen, no matter how well intentioned, cannot enter even though he may realize that it is in these areas that help is most desperately needed.

Salvation Army Week, now being observed across the country, is an appropriate time for America's citizens to turn in gratitude to those who do invade the "trouble spots" in their behalf, Salvation Army workers.

Unarmed, except for love of fellow man eagerness to be of help to him, Salvation Army men and women walk in narrow alleyways of run-down neighborhoods, offering friendly help to the homeless, the destitute, the alcoholic. They enter contagious wards of hospitals, carrying small gifts and words of comfort to patients in lonely isolation. Seeking to bridge the gap between life behind prison walls and the outside," they take the light of hope to those in our penal institutions.

Bewildered immigrants, frightened unmarried mothers, neglected babies and families beset with problems, are among the millions of all races and creeds who know the warm smile beneath the bonnet, the strong young hand to grasp, the undaunted courage of Salvation Army men and women who know of no human problem too difficult to undertake.

As The Salvation Army goes to the bedside, the prison cell, the alleyway, the public should pause and think of them in our midst, holding out their hands to their fellow men because they have given their hearts to God.

Many a post-election thought is truly significant. How much better it is to have the man you choose to vote for lose in an American election, than it is in the Iron Curtain nations to have the man you have to vote for win.

BRINGING BACK THE PAST

A New York City school recently taught American history practically by transforming the classroom temporarily into the traditional one-room school house. Pupils dressed in mid-19th century costumes. The teacher displayed (but did not use), a hickory stick, and one unsatisfactory pupil had to put on a dunce cap. The dramatization must have made the olden days much clearer.

Not all schools could carry out this idea so thoroughly. In many there would be no clothing in family attics to enable the children to dress realistically. But the idea has possibilities. In the country districts there must be parents or grandparents who remember the old one-room little red school house, and would lend costumes and other stage properties for a dramatization. The contrast between the meagerly equipped old-time buildings and the elaborate structures of today would help today's children to realize how fortunate they are.

The new cars have all kinds of gadgets and power assists to make motoring easier. But the human mechanism behind the wheel still could stand a little improvement.

LITTERBUG DISEASE

Americans have the unenviable reputation of being the most littery folk in the civilized world. Just to cast an eye on the highway, with its discarded newspapers, chewing gum wrappers, cigarette containers and the like, and to contrast our streets with the orderly thoroughfares of Great Britain, France and Germany, is not to feel proud of our national habits.

Much of this litter is thrown out of automobiles. For this the motorist is not altogether responsible. Not many people are wilfully littery. They merely follow the easiest way. If it is made convenient for them to dispose of waste in an orderly manner, they will do so. The extensive use of trash cans in cities proves that the average citizen is willing to make use of such facilities when they are available.

'These Days'

THE NATURE OF REVOLUTION

If Russia presented no other problem than a difference of social, political and economic techniques, there would be no impediment to what they call co-existence. The United States existed amicably with autocratic Czarist Russia, with Confucian China of the Manchus, with the peculiarities of the Ottoman Turks, with all sorts of varieties of peoples. "Co-existence" is a normal state of mankind.

Russia, however, presents the broader problem of the Marxist Church which seeks to dominate the thinking of the entire human race in conformity with Marxism-Leninism, with what they regard as the science of history. In the economic field, they accept Socialism which is not rejected in whole or in part by any nation in the Western world; but economics is a small part of the Marxist doctrine which proclaims itself a complete philosophy of life, touching man in all his activities.

The four phases of Marxism which have proved, during the past 37 years, to be most attractive to younger people and have won adherents in every country are:

1. The "scientific" approach to the position of man in the Cosmos, namely, that man is a product of his environment, of the constant struggle for existence of everything that is upon this earth; that the habits of man are determined by the tools he uses to earn his keep, thus eliminating all absolutes in morals and ethics;

2. That religion per se is an opiate of the people, a device invented by the ruling classes for those who are to be subjected to their will, that mysticism is an evil because it deceives and that therefore a mystical God is a myth because its presence cannot be substantiated by the "scientific methods"; that varieties of religion are not permissible in a Communist society because in all such differences lie the seeds of war;

3. That race is "scientifically" unfounded; that varieties of color or hair structure, or skull measurements do not establish racial distinctions that are of significance in a Marxist world; that racism has been employed by ruling powers to establish colonialism, that is, to make it possible for the Western Europeans to prevail over Asiatic, African, and American peoples:

4. That nationality is an evil because it makes for war; that whereas peoples do have different languages and customs, ultimately the whole of the human race will be one; that boundary lines will be eliminated and varieties of governmental processes will be no more. When this goal is reached, government itself will be unnecessary and will wither away.

Arnold Toynbee makes this point:

"Communism is politically formidable to us Westerners today because it is politically attractive to anyone who is being treated as a 'native.' Any human being will revolt against being treated as a 'native.' For the millions who are still being treated as 'natives' today, communism is an obvious remedy, because they have come to know that, if they go Communist, they will not be treated as 'natives' any longer."

That explains only one phase of the problem. It does not explain why so many among the intellectuals in the most advanced countries, France, Italy, Germany, the United States, are prepared to ally themselves with the Communists and to make sacrifices for this movement, sacrifices sometimes of their lives. The answer, of course, is that before they became Marxists, they had revolted against God; that race and nationality have lost all meaning for them; whereas the Marxist "scientific" approach to the question, "What is man?" satisfies their need for a unified system.

But above all else, they seek a society without war, having been affected in their own lives by the consequences of two wars in one generation. They are prepared to give up religion, race and nationality for peace.

As over-simplified as this explanation must be, it is nevertheless true. It is the problem of our day. Up to now, the West has not met this problem philosophically and therefore has not met it at all. Giving money to governments does not lessen Marxist influence, because money is not at issue; nor is a hight standard of living. What is at issue is the Communist claim to a world without war because it is without religion, race or nationality.

If co-existence means the acceptance of Russia under any conditions, is it necessary to permit the indoctrination of our people by Marxism?

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

A STUDY OF 206 ELDERLY PATIENTS

"In the course of studying the social backgrounds, complaints and present pathology (disease state) of hospitalized geriatric (elderly) patients, it was felt that similar information should be collected on ambulant (up and about) geriatric patients seen in private practice. This study was made of 206 private patients, all of whom were 65 years of age or older, and had been observed from one to five years." The series included 92 men and 114 women.

A number of different living arrangements were represented in the series. Sixty-seven per cent still maintained their own household; 18 per cent lived with a daughter or son; 7 per cent rented single rooms; 5 per cent were in nursing or rest homes; 3 per cent lived with a brother or sister.

Most of the group were still fairly active. Sixty-five per cent of the group were up and about both indoors and outdoors; 21 per cent were able to move around within the house; 10 per cent spent much time in a rocking chair but could move about some. Thirty-eight per cent of the women did all their own housework and 25 per cent were able to do part.

How about the financial backgrounds? Nearly half the group were self-supporting or financially independent; 40 per cent were wholly or in part supported by some form of persion and only 10 per cent depended on their children for support.

So far as weight was concerned, the figures showed that of the entire group, 45 per cent were greatly overweight, 45 per cent were average, and 12 per cent were thin.

What about the health and diseases of this group of 206 elderly patients? Thirty-six of the group had two or more major disease conditions requiring continuous observation and treatment. One hundred and thirty had a condition requiring medical attention to maintain their well-being, and 39 had only minor complaints which were treated and did not require continuous observation.

The reasons for office visits, aside from the above, showed a prevalence of certain complaints. These were: weakness and fatigue, muscle and joint pains, constipation and abdominal distention, sleeplessness, nervousness or restlessness, itching, poor or lessened appetite, and piles.

Dr. J. Y. Feinstein, Minneapolis, whose study I am quoting, stresses the importance of treating the patient, not the disease. He feels that very frequently the elderly patient may be able to cope with a really major complaint only to be disabled by the additional burden of a relatively minor ailment. The older the patient, the more importance do these so-called minor conditions assume to him and require thoughtful treatment by the physician.

A BRITISH STORY that has come out of Labour Party Leader Clement Attlee's recent trip to Russia and Red China concerns Aneurin Bevan, stormy radical of British politics, and the late Ernest Bevin, the former Labour foreign minister.

According to the story, some of the Labour Party leaders were trying to persuade Bevin that Bevan wasn't such a bad fellow after all.

"You know, Ernie," they told him, "'Ni Bevan is his own worst enemy."

Replied Bevin: "Not while I'm alive."

JUST WHAT REDUCED corporation taxes can mean to American business can best be shown by comparing General Motor sales and tax figures for the first nine months of this year with similar figures for the first nine months of 1953, when still higher tax rate and excess profits rates were in effect.

The year 1954 shows that while sales fell off $712 million, the net income to the corporation increased by $132 million. The corporate tax was reduced by $176 million.

WILLIAM P. ROGERS, deputy attorney general, feels that the salaries of federal judges are too low, despite the prestige that goes along with a position on the bench. To illustrate the prestige-instead-of-pay angle of a case tried on Baltimore several years ago:

A divorced woman sued her ex-husband, who was a street cleaner, for more alimony. She admitted that her husband was paying her all he could on his present salary. But she argued that he should pay her more because he could easily get a much better job than street cleaner. She concluded by saying, "The only reason he keeps the job is out of spite to get even with me."

The judge then leaned down and said, "Madam, don't you make any allowances for the glamor of his holding public office?"

CYRUS B. SWEET a relatively new Federal Housing Administration director on the Eisenhower team, figures that it takes some time to find out what a government job is all about. "I have been on my job only about four months," he told the U. S. Savings and Loan League convention, "and that's not long enough to qualify as a bureaucrat."

In connection with this learning a new job, he told of a woman in a big New York department store who visited nearly every department without spending a penny. She bothered so many salesmen that at last one of them blew up.

"Madam," he asked, "Are you shopping here?"

"Certainly!" said the lady in surprise. "What else would I be doing?"

The salesman blurted out, "I thought maybe you were taking an inventory."

FRENCH PRIME MINISTER Mendes-France showed in Washington that he knows how to get out of a tight hole. He was asked if he thought Secretary of State Dulles would really prefer to have some one else at the head of the French government.

"The proper place to get an answer to this question," said the Frenchman, "is to ask Secretary Dulles himself.

"I shall do so this afternoon, as soon as I see him," he continued with a quiet smile. And then he concluded: "I am sure he will say 'No!'"

MENDES-FRANCE made a tremendous hit with all of Washington's newspaper correspondents in a talk at the National Press Club. Two principal reasons were given:

1. He was the first Frenchman who didn't stress how much aid war-torn France would need. Instead, he told what the French people were going to do themselves and what his government intended to do to get out of their difficulties.

2. He didn't once mention Marquis de Lafayette.

Mendes-France won the esteem of Washington newsmen for drinking milk in public, when he could have had coffee or even something stronger.

Remarked Press Club President Tony Vaccaro: "I sincerely hope this example does not spread to the Press Club bar. But in the words of another great Frenchman, 'We shall defend to the death his right to do so.'"

Split Is Seen in Both Political Parties if McCarthy Is Censured by Senate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 1 — The vote to censure Sen. McCarthy will be the beginning of a prolonged debate throughout the United States.

It will mean wide cleavages in both the Republican and Democratic parties and the formation not of another political party but of an independent bipartisan group of 10,000,000 or more citizens pledged to vote against every Senator up for re-election who refuses to promise to vote, if elected, to expunge from the record the anti-McCarthy resolution adopted this week.

IT WILL MEAN that the Senate will be plagued now with censure resolutions whenever debate is obstructed. For one of the charges is "obstruction of legislative processes." It could mean the final triumph of those who want to put an end to the filibustering in the Senate long maintained by various Senators as a device against the passage of laws opposed by the South.

It will mean a definite quietus on the exposure of Communist activities in America through investigations by Congressional committees. For, though various senators protest vehemently that they do not intend any such result, many people who have followed the campaign to end "McCarthyism" — as the anti-anti-Communist fight has come to be known in many quarters—believe future chairmen of investigating committees will not dare to continue the fight with the vigor that it has been waged heretofore.

WHAT WILL GIVE momentum to the independent movement is the inconsistency of censuring a senator for doing what other senators have done and refusing now to censure other senators for doing and saying things, even in the present Congress, that are on a par with the criticisms for which Sen McCarthy is being censured.

For every day that the Senate delays the adoption of censure resolutions against other Senators guilty of the same offenses will mean a reinforcement of the battle cry of the independent group which will point to the fact that only a senator who fights communism is punished by the Senate.

THE RECORD is replete with instances of conduct similar to that of Sen. McCarthy which the Senate has ignored. Here are only a few:

1. Sen. Byrd of Virginia in May, 1946, called the then senator from Florida, Claude Pepper, a "skunk" in the midst of debate in the Senate. Though the Florida senator asked that it be expunged from the record, this request was ignored.

2. The elder Sen. La Follette of Wisconsin, charged with disloyalty and sedition, insulted the Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections and refused to accept its invitation to testify and never did testify. He was not censured.

3. Senators last summer delayed for two weeks the work of the Senate by a filibuster. It was a designed obstruction of the legislative process—far more than failure to accept an invitation to attend a committee meeting. But no censure resolution was introduced or will be against any senator who participated in that obstruction.

4. Sen. Ervin of North Carolina, Democrat, on both a nation-wide television broadcast and later before the Senate in the last month used the words "mental incompetent" and "moral incompetent" in referring to Sen. McCarthy. No resolution of censure was introduced.

5. MANY SPEECHES have been made during the present session by Sens. Flanders, Fulbright, Lehman and others impugning the character, motives and integrity of the Wisconsin Senator. No resolutions to censure them have been introduced, but an additional censure count has been filed by Sen. Bennett of Utah against Sen. McCarthy for certain things he said in the debate in defense of himself.

6. Several Senators, including Sen Kefauver of Tennessee and the late Sen. Tobey of New Hampshire, during the famous investigation of gambling and vice used bitter words denouncing witnesses who declined to co-operate. No censure resolution was introduced.

PEOPLE WHO do not keep in touch with grass-roots politics in America can say "the McCarthy case is different" and that "it's time the Senate acted" but the millions who follow him will continue to think that the Wisconsin Senator has been "lynched" by a majority of the Senate, that basic rules and precedents which permit criticism of colleagues have been ignored, and that punishment has been and will be meted out only to a Senator who fights communism.

Some of the answers will come when certain members of the Senate are up for re-election just two years from now. For the anti-communism issue, with all its ramifications, is still the livest issue in American political life. Despite various attemps to scoff at its influence in the last election, the issue did affect the result in many states and was indirectly responsible for the loss of the Senate by the Republicans. It has ceased, however, to be a fight inside one party. It now has become an issue inside both parties—primarily because passion has been allowed to supersede basic principles of Senatorial law and its precedents of procedure.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In charting the similarity of the Roosevelt innovations to Adolf Hitler's National Socialism, we find a defiant impudence in Roosevelt's National Recovery Administration. The impudence lies not only in this drastic repudiation of the American Constitution but in Roosevelt's indignant contention that while Hitler, the crazy paperhanger, was a dictator, Roosevelt was a "democratic" president with no thought in his heart but to serve his beloved people.

True, Hitler had been a paperhanger, which meant that he was actually a worker and a member of "the people," Roosevelt was the pampered son of an indulgent, millionaire mother, so that comparison did not necessarily reflect discredit on Der Fuehrer. Hitler also had been an enlisted soldier in combat and had been wounded or said he had been. Roosevelt, on the other hand, had been a youthful physical giant of independent means, performing no duties as assistant secretary of the navy which could not have been done by many another man.

Henry Wallace, too, by the way, had been excused from World War I on the ground that he was necessary to the operation of his rich father's properties in Des Moines. He admitted this in correspondence with me during his term as vice president but added a claim that he had also been suspected of pulmonary disease, which did not develop, however. This hygienic doubt did not appear in the draftboard record which was somehow obtained by some Republicans but never resorted to in any political campaign. The Republicans were inexplicably fastidious in their repection of useful political dirt.

And both Hitler and Roosevelt loved the Common Man with an overwhelming passion.

Herbert Hoover wrote in his "memoirs" that Roosevelt's National Industrial Recovery Act of 1933 was a "fascist measure," and told us that Gerard Swope, of General Electric, first suggested the scheme. Swope is a brother of Herbert Bayard Swope, the old horse-player and race-track habitue, who latched on as a War Department bureaucrat with McCloy and Patterson in World War 2. And this should remind us that for all his noisy lambasting of "economic royalists," "tories" and "princes of privilege," Roosevelt had, from the beginning until his death, the same strong cooperation of such Masters of Men as Hitler received from the giants of German heavy industry and finance. Charles E. Wilson, who alternated with Gerard Swope as president of G.E., gave diligent and probably valuable service in the mobilization of war industrial power under both Roosevelt and Truman.

But he also let Truman use him as stooge president of the so-called President's Committee on Civil Rights. He later revealed the fact that this strictly partisan ideological apparatus of Truman's party was picked by David K. Niles, Felix Frankfurter's plant in the White House.

"With his NRA, Roosevelt shackled his common man to unrestrained monopolies," Mr. Hoover continued. The act authorized Roosevelt to appoint a bureaucracy of appalling numbers and powers and to establish "codes of fair competition," for violation of which any offender could be fined and sent to prison. Some were so punished.

When the Supreme Court threw out the NRA in the "sick chicken" case, Roosevelt fetched a Hitlerian sneer at the court and, in due course, packed not only that court but all the federal courts with political henchmen and ideological toadies of a moral, social and intellectual grade far below the accustomed standard. There, again, he emulated Hitler and vice versa, although each continued to insult and deride the other until April, 1945, when Roosevelt died a few weeks before Hitler vanished in the grand barbecue in Berlin.

A defiant non-conformist in Hitler's people's court was no more repulsive to the bench than an unreconstructed constitutional, nationalist American before a federal judge of the Roosevelt-Truman jurisprudence.

A symbolic eagle, blue in color, was adopted as the NRA insignia and Roosevelt threatened non-conformists thus: "Those who cooperate must know each other at a glance by the bright badge of the blue eagle." Hugh Johnson, an author of juvenile fiction and ghostwriter for Barney Baruch, was named administrator of the regime. He said: "May God almighty have mercy on anyone who attempts to trifle with that bird."

Hitler repudiated his foreign debts to steady his wobbling venture. Roosevelt repudiated the obligation of the United States to redeem currency and debts in gold. Henry Morgenthau wrote a series of absolutely shocking confessions after Harry Truman had bounced him out of the treasury, where the traitor Harry Dexter White had held sway with terrible results to the American people.

In one chapter Morgenthau said Roosevelt told him the treasury would confiscate all gold in the federal reserve banks at $20.50 an ounce and then mark up the price to $35 an ounce. This would give Roosevelt a paper profit of about two billion with which to dabble in experimental "public works." Morgenthau wrote that one day, lying abed late, Roosevelt increased the price of gold by 21 cents because "it's three times seven, a lucky number."

Hitler promised the "people" to seize the profits made out of World War 1 and the revolution. Roosevelt pretended that he, too, was only socking the rich but, as Hoover demonstrated, he actually was robbing millions of the common people of their insurance equities, bank savings and pension values.

Hitler's housing "relief" was so close to Roosevelt's, Truman's and now Eisenhower's that it is necessary only to set forth the phrase used in Hitler's official program: "Relief of the housing shortage by extensive fresh construction of dwelling-houses throughout the Reich."

Q—Are individual seats assigned to the members of the House of Representatives?

A—No, any member may sit where he chooses. Democrats occupy the east side of the Chamber, on the Speaker's right; Republicans sit across the main aisle on the Speaker's left.

SALVATION ARMY WEEK

Even in times of high prosperity, there are unfortunately many dark areas of poverty and despair where the average citizen, no matter how well intentioned, cannot enter even though he may realize that it is in these areas that help is most desperately needed.

Salvation Army Week, now being observed across the country, is an appropriate time for America's citizens to turn in gratitude to those who do invade the "trouble spots" in their behalf, Salvation Army workers.

The answer, of course, is that before they became Marxists, they had revolted against God; that race and nationality have lost all meaning for them; whereas the Marxist "scientific" approach to the question, "What is man?" satisfies their need for a unified system.

But above all else, they seek a society without war, having been affected in their own lives by the consequences of two wars in one generation. They are prepared to give up religion, race and nationality for peace.

As over-simplified as this explanation must be, it is nevertheless true. It is the problem of our day. Up to now, the West has not met this problem philosophically and therefore has not met it at all. Giving money to governments does not lessen Marxist influence, because money is not at issue; nor is a hight standard of living. What is at issue is the Communist claim to a world without war because it is without religion, race or nationality.

If co-existence means the acceptance of Russia under any conditions, is it necessary to permit the indoctrination of our people by Marxism?

A STUDY OF 206 ELDERLY PATIENTS

"In the course of studying the social backgrounds, complaints and present pathology (disease state) of hospitalized geriatric (elderly) patients, it was felt that similar information should be collected on ambulant (up and about) geriatric patients seen in private practice. This study was made of 206 private patients, all of whom were 65 years of age or older, and had been observed from one to five years." The series included 92 men and 114 women.

A number of different living arrangements were represented in the series. Sixty-seven per cent still maintained their own household; 18 per cent lived with a daughter or son; 7 per cent rented single rooms; 5 per cent were in nursing or rest homes; 3 per cent lived with a brother or sister.

Most of the group were still fairly active. Sixty-five per cent of the group were up and about both indoors and outdoors; 21 per cent were able to move around within the house; 10 per cent spent much time in a rocking chair but could move about some. Thirty-eight per cent of the women did all their own housework and 25 per cent were able to do part.

How about the financial backgrounds? Nearly half the group were self-supporting or financially independent; 40 per cent were wholly or in part supported by some form of persion and only 10 per cent depended on their children for support.

So far as weight was concerned, the figures showed that of the entire group, 45 per cent were greatly overweight, 45 per cent were average, and 12 per cent were thin.

What about the health and diseases of this group of 206 elderly patients? Thirty-six of the group had two or more major disease conditions requiring continuous observation and treatment. One hundred and thirty had a condition requiring medical attention to maintain their well-being, and 39 had only minor complaints which were treated and did not require continuous observation.

The reasons for office visits, aside from the above, showed a prevalence of certain complaints. These were: weakness and fatigue, muscle and joint pains, constipation and abdominal distention, sleeplessness, nervousness or restlessness, itching, poor or lessened appetite, and piles.

Dr. J. Y. Feinstein, Minneapolis, whose study I am quoting, stresses the importance of treating the patient, not the disease. He feels that very frequently the elderly patient may be able to cope with a really major complaint only to be disabled by the additional burden of a relatively minor ailment. The older the patient, the more importance do these so-called minor conditions assume to him and require thoughtful treatment by the physician.

JUST WHAT REDUCED corporation taxes can mean to American business can best be shown by comparing General Motor sales and tax figures for the first nine months of this year with similar figures for the first nine months of 1953, when still higher tax rate and excess profits rates were in effect.

The year 1954 shows that while sales fell off $712 million, the net income to the corporation increased by $132 million. The corporate tax was reduced by $176 million.

WILLIAM P. ROGERS, deputy attorney general, feels that the salaries of federal judges are too low, despite the prestige that goes along with a position on the bench. To illustrate the prestige-instead-of-pay angle of a case tried on Baltimore several years ago:

A divorced woman sued her ex-husband, who was a street cleaner, for more alimony. She admitted that her husband was paying her all he could on his present salary. But she argued that he should pay her more because he could easily get a much better job than street cleaner. She concluded by saying, "The only reason he keeps the job is out of spite to get even with me."

The judge then leaned down and said, "Madam, don't you make any allowances for the glamor of his holding public office?"

CYRUS B. SWEET a relatively new Federal Housing Administration director on the Eisenhower team, figures that it takes some time to find out what a government job is all about. "I have been on my job only about four months," he told the U. S. Savings and Loan League convention, "and that's not long enough to qualify as a bureaucrat."

In connection with this learning a new job, he told of a woman in a big New York department store who visited nearly every department without spending a penny. She bothered so many salesmen that at last one of them blew up.

"Madam," he asked, "Are you shopping here?"

"Certainly!" said the lady in surprise. "What else would I be doing?"

The salesman blurted out, "I thought maybe you were taking an inventory."

FRENCH PRIME MINISTER Mendes-France showed in Washington that he knows how to get out of a tight hole. He was asked if he thought Secretary of State Dulles would really prefer to have some one else at the head of the French government.

"The proper place to get an answer to this question," said the Frenchman, "is to ask Secretary Dulles himself.

"I shall do so this afternoon, as soon as I see him," he continued with a quiet smile. And then he concluded: "I am sure he will say 'No!'"

MENDES-FRANCE made a tremendous hit with all of Washington's newspaper correspondents in a talk at the National Press Club. Two principal reasons were given:

1. He was the first Frenchman who didn't stress how much aid war-torn France would need. Instead, he told what the French people were going to do themselves and what his government intended to do to get out of their difficulties.

2. He didn't once mention Marquis de Lafayette.

Mendes-France won the esteem of Washington newsmen for drinking milk in public, when he could have had coffee or even something stronger.

Remarked Press Club President Tony Vaccaro: "I sincerely hope this example does not spread to the Press Club bar. But in the words of another great Frenchman, 'We shall defend to the death his right to do so.'"

Split Is Seen in Both Political Parties if McCarthy Is Censured by Senate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 1 — The vote to censure Sen. McCarthy will be the beginning of a prolonged debate throughout the United States.

It will mean wide cleavages in both the Republican and Democratic parties and the formation not of another political party but of an independent bipartisan group of 10,000,000 or more citizens pledged to vote against every Senator up for re-election who refuses to promise to vote, if elected, to expunge from the record the anti-McCarthy resolution adopted this week.

IT WILL MEAN that the Senate will be plagued now with censure resolutions whenever debate is obstructed. For one of the charges is "obstruction of legislative processes." It could mean the final triumph of those who want to put an end to the filibustering in the Senate long maintained by various Senators as a device against the passage of laws opposed by the South.

It will mean a definite quietus on the exposure of Communist activities in America through investigations by Congressional committees. For, though various senators protest vehemently that they do not intend any such result, many people who have followed the campaign to end "McCarthyism"—as the anti-anti-Communist fight has come to be known in many quarters—believe future chairmen of investigating committees will not dare to continue the fight with the vigor that it has been waged heretofore.

WHAT WILL GIVE momentum to the independent movement is the inconsistency of censuring a senator for doing what other senators have done and refusing now to censure other senators for doing and saying things, even in the present Congress, that are on a par with the criticisms for which Sen McCarthy is being censured.

For every day that the Senate delays the adoption of censure resolutions against other Senators guilty of the same offenses will mean a reinforcement of the battle cry of the independent group which will point to the fact that only a senator who fights communism is punished by the Senate.

THE RECORD is replete with instances of conduct similar to that of Sen. McCarthy which the Senate has ignored. Here are only a few:

1. Sen. Byrd of Virginia in May, 1946, called the then senator from Florida, Claude Pepper, a "skunk" in the midst of debate in the Senate. Though the Florida senator asked that it be expunged from the record, this request was ignored.

2. The elder Sen. La Follette of Wisconsin, charged with disloyalty and sedition, insulted the Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections and refused to accept its invitation to testify and never did testify. He was not censured.

3. Senators last summer delayed for two weeks the work of the Senate by a filibuster. It was a designed obstruction of the legislative process—far more than failure to accept an invitation to attend a committee meeting. But no censure resolution was introduced or will be against any senator who participated in that obstruction.

4. Sen. Ervin of North Carolina, Democrat, on both a nation-wide television broadcast and later before the Senate in the last month used the words "mental incompetent" and "moral incompetent" in referring to Sen. McCarthy. No resolution of censure was introduced.

5. MANY SPEECHES have been made during the present session by Sens. Flanders, Fulbright, Lehman and others impugning the character, motives and integrity of the Wisconsin Senator. No resolutions to censure them have been introduced, but an additional censure count has been filed by Sen. Bennett of Utah against Sen. McCarthy for certain things he said in the debate in defense of himself.

6. Several Senators, including Sen Kefauver of Tennessee and the late Sen. Tobey of New Hampshire, during the famous investigation of gambling and vice used bitter words denouncing witnesses who declined to co-operate. No censure resolution was introduced.

PEOPLE WHO do not keep in touch with grass-roots politics in America can say "the McCarthy case is different" and that "it's time the Senate acted" but the millions who follow him will continue to think that the Wisconsin Senator has been "lynched" by a majority of the Senate, that basic rules and precedents which permit criticism of colleagues have been ignored, and that punishment has been and will be meted out only to a Senator who fights communism.

Some of the answers will come when certain members of the Senate are up for re-election just two years from now. For the anti-communism issue, with all its ramifications, is still the livest issue in American political life. Despite various attemps to scoff at its influence in the last election, the issue did affect the result in many states and was indirectly responsible for the loss of the Senate by the Republicans. It has ceased, however, to be a fight inside one party. It now has become an issue inside both parties—primarily because passion has been allowed to supersede basic principles of Senatorial law and its precedents of procedure.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In charting the similarity of the Roosevelt innovations to Adolf Hitler's National Socialism, we find a defiant impudence in Roosevelt's National Recovery Administration. The impudence lies not only in this drastic repudiation of the American Constitution but in Roosevelt's indignant contention that while Hitler, the crazy paperhanger, was a dictator, Roosevelt was a "democratic" president with no thought in his heart but to serve his beloved people.

True, Hitler had been a paperhanger, which meant that he was actually a worker and a member of "the people," Roosevelt was the pampered son of an indulgent, millionaire mother, so that comparison did not necessarily reflect discredit on Der Fuehrer. Hitler also had been an enlisted soldier in combat and had been wounded or said he had been. Roosevelt, on the other hand, had been a youthful physical giant of independent means, performing no duties as assistant secretary of the navy which could not have been done by many another man.

Henry Wallace, too, by the way, had been excused from World War I on the ground that he was necessary to the operation of his rich father's properties in Des Moines. He admitted this in correspondence with me during his term as vice president but added a claim that he had also been suspected of pulmonary disease, which did not develop, however. This hygienic doubt did not appear in the draftboard record which was somehow obtained by some Republicans but never resorted to in any political campaign. The Republicans were inexplicably fastidious in their repection of useful political dirt.

And both Hitler and Roosevelt loved the Common Man with an overwhelming passion.

Herbert Hoover wrote in his "memoirs" that Roosevelt's National Industrial Recovery Act of 1933 was a "fascist measure," and told us that Gerard Swope, of General Electric, first suggested the scheme. Swope is a brother of Herbert Bayard Swope, the old horse-player and race-track habitue, who latched on as a War Department bureaucrat with McCloy and Patterson in World War 2. And this should remind us that for all his noisy lambasting of "economic royalists," "tories" and "princes of privilege," Roosevelt had, from the beginning until his death, the same strong cooperation of such Masters of Men as Hitler received from the giants of German heavy industry and finance. Charles E. Wilson, who alternated with Gerard Swope as president of G.E., gave diligent and probably valuable service in the mobilization of war industrial power under both Roosevelt and Truman.

But he also let Truman use him as stooge president of the so-called President's Committee on Civil Rights. He later revealed the fact that this strictly partisan ideological apparatus of Truman's party was picked by David K. Niles, Felix Frankfurter's plant in the White House.

"With his NRA, Roosevelt shackled his common man to unrestrained monopolies," Mr. Hoover continued. The act authorized Roosevelt to appoint a bureaucracy of appalling numbers and powers and to establish "codes of fair competition," for violation of which any offender could be fined and sent to prison. Some were so punished.

When the Supreme Court threw out the NRA in the "sick chicken" case, Roosevelt fetched a Hitlerian sneer at the court and, in due course, packed not only that court but all the federal courts with political henchmen and ideological toadies of a moral, social and intellectual grade far below the accustomed standard. There, again, he emulated Hitler and vice versa, although each continued to insult and deride the other until April, 1945, when Roosevelt died a few weeks before Hitler vanished in the grand barbecue in Berlin.

A defiant non-conformist in Hitler's people's court was no more repulsive to the bench than an unreconstructed constitutional, nationalist American before a federal judge of the Roosevelt-Truman jurisprudence.

A symbolic eagle, blue in color, was adopted as the NRA insignia and Roosevelt threatened non-conformists thus: "Those who cooperate must know each other at a glance by the bright badge of the blue eagle." Hugh Johnson, an author of juvenile fiction and ghostwriter for Barney Baruch, was named administrator of the regime. He said: "May God almighty have mercy on anyone who attempts to trifle with that bird."

Hitler repudiated his foreign debts to steady his wobbling venture. Roosevelt repudiated the obligation of the United States to redeem currency and debts in gold. Henry Morgenthau wrote a series of absolutely shocking confessions after Harry Truman had bounced him out of the treasury, where the traitor Harry Dexter White had held sway with terrible results to the American people.

In one chapter Morgenthau said Roosevelt told him the treasury would confiscate all gold in the federal reserve banks at $20.50 an ounce and then mark up the price to $35 an ounce. This would give Roosevelt a paper profit of about two billion with which to dabble in experimental "public works." Morgenthau wrote that one day, lying abed late, Roosevelt increased the price of gold by 21 cents because "it's three times seven, a lucky number."

Hitler promised the "people" to seize the profits made out of World War 1 and the revolution. Roosevelt pretended that he, too, was only socking the rich but, as Hoover demonstrated, he actually was robbing millions of the common people of their insurance equities, bank savings and pension values.

Hitler's housing "relief" was so close to Roosevelt's, Truman's and now Eisenhower's that it is necessary only to set forth the phrase used in Hitler's official program: "Relief of the housing shortage by extensive fresh construction of dwelling-houses throughout the Reich."

SALVATION ARMY WEEK

Even in times of high prosperity, there are unfortunately many dark areas of poverty and despair where the average citizen, no matter how well intentioned, cannot enter even though he may realize that it is in these areas that help is most desperately needed.

Salvation Army Week, now being observed across the country, is an appropriate time for America's citizens to turn in gratitude to those who do invade the "trouble spots" in their behalf, Salvation Army workers.

Unarmed, except for love of fellow man eagerness to be of help to him, Salvation Army men and women walk in narrow alleyways of run-down neighborhoods, offering friendly help to the homeless, the destitute, the alcoholic. They enter contagious wards of hospitals, carrying small gifts and words of comfort to patients in lonely isolation. Seeking to bridge the gap between life behind prison walls and the outside," they take the light of hope to those in our penal institutions.

Bewildered immigrants, frightened unmarried mothers, neglected babies and families beset with problems, are among the millions of all races and creeds who know the warm smile beneath the bonnet, the strong young hand to grasp, the undaunted courage of Salvation Army men and women who know of no human problem too difficult to undertake.

As The Salvation Army goes to the bedside, the prison cell, the alleyway, the public should pause and think of them in our midst, holding out their hands to their fellow men because they have given their hearts to God.

Many a post-election thought is truly significant. How much better it is to have the man you choose to vote for lose in an American election, than it is in the Iron Curtain nations to have the man you have to vote for win.

BRINGING BACK THE PAST

A New York City school recently taught American history practically by transforming the classroom temporarily into the traditional one-room school house. Pupils dressed in mid-19th century costumes. The teacher displayed (but did not use), a hickory stick, and one unsatisfactory pupil had to put on a dunce cap. The dramatization must have made the olden days much clearer.

Not all schools could carry out this idea so thoroughly. In many there would be no clothing in family attics to enable the children to dress realistically. But the idea has possibilities. In the country districts there must be parents or grandparents who remember the old one-room little red school house, and would lend costumes and other stage properties for a dramatization. The contrast between the meagerly equipped old-time buildings and the elaborate structures of today would help today's children to realize how fortunate they are.

The new cars have all kinds of gadgets and power assists to make motoring easier. But the human mechanism behind the wheel still could stand a little improvement.

LITTERBUG DISEASE

Americans have the unenviable reputation of being the most littery folk in the civilized world. Just to cast an eye on the highway, with its discarded newspapers, chewing gum wrappers, cigarette containers and the like, and to contrast our streets with the orderly thoroughfares of Great Britain, France and Germany, is not to feel proud of our national habits.

Much of this litter is thrown out of automobiles. For this the motorist is not altogether responsible. Not many people are wilfully littery. They merely follow the easiest way. If it is made convenient for them to dispose of waste in an orderly manner, they will do so. The extensive use of trash cans in cities proves that the average citizen is willing to make use of such facilities when they are available.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE NATURE OF REVOLUTION

If Russia presented no other problem than a difference of social, political and economic techniques, there would be no impediment to what they call co-existence. The United States existed amicably with autocratic Czarist Russia, with Confucian China of the Manchus, with the peculiarities of the Ottoman Turks, with all sorts of varieties of peoples. "Co-existence" is a normal state of mankind.

Russia, however, presents the broader problem of the Marxist Church which seeks to dominate the thinking of the entire human race in conformity with Marxism-Leninism, with what they regard as the science of history. In the economic field, they accept Socialism which is not rejected in whole or in part by any nation in the Western world; but economics is a small part of the Marxist doctrine which proclaims itself a complete philosophy of life, touching man in all his activities.

The four phases of Marxism which have proved, during the past 37 years, to be most attractive to younger people and have won adherents in every country are:

1. The "scientific" approach to the position of man in the Cosmos, namely, that man is a product of his environment, of the constant struggle for existence of everything that is upon this earth; that the habits of man are determined by the tools he uses to earn his keep, thus eliminating all absolutes in morals and ethics;

2. That religion per se is an opiate of the people, a device invented by the ruling classes for those who are to be subjected to their will, that mysticism is an evil because it deceives and that therefore a mystical God is a myth because its presence cannot be substantiated by the "scientific methods"; that varieties of religion are not permissible in a Communist society because in all such differences lie the seeds of war;

3. That race is "scientifically" unfounded; that varieties of color or hair structure, or skull measurements do not establish racial distinctions that are of significance in a Marxist world; that racism has been employed by ruling powers to establish colonialism, that is, to make it possible for the Western Europeans to prevail over Asiatic, African, and American peoples:

4. That nationality is an evil because it makes for war; that whereas peoples do have different languages and customs, ultimately the whole of the human race will be one; that boundary lines will be eliminated and varieties of governmental processes will be no more. When this goal is reached, government itself will be unnecessary and will wither away.

Arnold Toynbee makes this point:

"Communism is politically formidable to us Westerners today because it is politically attractive to anyone who is being treated as a 'native.' Any human being will revolt against being treated as a 'native.' For the millions who are still being treated as 'natives' today, communism is an obvious remedy, because they have come to know that, if they go Communist, they will not be treated as 'natives' any longer."

That explains only one phase of the problem. It does not explain why so many among the intellectuals in the most advanced countries, France, Italy, Germany, the United States, are prepared to ally themselves with the Communists and to make sacrifices for this movement, sacrifices sometimes of their lives. The answer, of course, is that before they became Marxists, they had revolted against God; that race and nationality have lost all meaning for them; whereas the Marxist "scientific" approach to the question, "What is man?" satisfies their need for a unified system.

But above all else, they seek a society without war, having been affected in their own lives by the consequences of two wars in one generation. They are prepared to give up religion, race and nationality for peace.

As over-simplified as this explanation must be, it is nevertheless true. It is the problem of our day. Up to now, the West has not met this problem philosophically and therefore has not met it at all. Giving money to governments does not lessen Marxist influence, because money is not at issue; nor is a hight standard of living. What is at issue is the Communist claim to a world without war because it is without religion, race or nationality.

If co-existence means the acceptance of Russia under any conditions, is it necessary to permit the indoctrination of our people by Marxism?

A STUDY OF 206 ELDERLY PATIENTS

This study was made of 206 private patients, all of whom were 65 years of age or older, and had been observed from one to five years." The series included 92 men and 114 women.

A number of different living arrangements were represented in the series. Sixty-seven per cent still maintained their own household; 18 per cent lived with a daughter or son; 7 per cent rented single rooms; 5 per cent were in nursing or rest homes; 3 per cent lived with a brother or sister.

Most of the group were still fairly active. Sixty-five per cent of the group were up and about both indoors and outdoors; 21 per cent were able to move around within the house; 10 per cent spent much time in a rocking chair but could move about some. Thirty-eight per cent of the women did all their own housework and 25 per cent were able to do part.

How about the financial backgrounds? Nearly half the group were self-supporting or financially independent; 40 per cent were wholly or in part supported by some form of persion and only 10 per cent depended on their children for support.

So far as weight was concerned, the figures showed that of the entire group, 45 per cent were greatly overweight, 45 per cent were average, and 12 per cent were thin.

What about the health and diseases of this group of 206 elderly patients? Thirty-six of the group had two or more major disease conditions requiring continuous observation and treatment. One hundred and thirty had a condition requiring medical attention to maintain their well-being, and 39 had only minor complaints which were treated and did not require continuous observation.

The reasons for office visits, aside from the above, showed a prevalence of certain complaints. These were: weakness and fatigue, muscle and joint pains, constipation and abdominal distention, sleeplessness, nervousness or restlessness, itching, poor or lessened appetite, and piles.

Dr. J. Y. Feinstein, Minneapolis, whose study I am quoting, stresses the importance of treating the patient, not the disease. He feels that very frequently the elderly patient may be able to cope with a really major complaint only to be disabled by the additional burden of a relatively minor ailment. The judge then leaned down and said, "Madam, don't you make any allowances for the glamor of his holding public office?"

CYRUS B. SWEET a relatively new Federal Housing Administration director on the Eisenhower team, figures that it takes some time to find out what a government job is all about. "I have been on my job only about four months," he told the U. S. Savings and Loan League convention, "and that's not long enough to qualify as a bureaucrat."

In connection with this learning a new job, he told of a woman in a big New York department store who visited nearly every department without spending a penny. She bothered so many salesmen that at last one of them blew up.

"Madam," he asked, "Are you shopping here?"

"Certainly!" said the lady in surprise. "What else would I be doing?"

The salesman blurted out, "I thought maybe you were taking an inventory."

FRENCH PRIME MINISTER Mendes-France showed in Washington that he knows how to get out of a tight hole. He was asked if he thought Secretary of State Dulles would really prefer to have some one else at the head of the French government.

"The proper place to get an answer to this question," said the Frenchman, "is to ask Secretary Dulles himself.

"I shall do so this afternoon, as soon as I see him," he continued with a quiet smile. And then he concluded: "I am sure he will say 'No!'"

MENDES-FRANCE made a tremendous hit with all of Washington's newspaper correspondents in a talk at the National Press Club. Two principal reasons were given:

1. He was the first Frenchman who didn't stress how much aid war-torn France would need. Instead, he told what the French people were going to do themselves and what his government intended to do to get out of their difficulties.

2. He didn't once mention Marquis de Lafayette.

Mendes-France won the esteem of Washington newsmen for drinking milk in public, when he could have had coffee or even something stronger.

Remarked Press Club President Tony Vaccaro: "I sincerely hope this example does not spread to the Press Club bar. But in the words of another great Frenchman, 'We shall defend to the death his right to do so.'"

Split Is Seen in Both Political Parties if McCarthy Is Censured by Senate

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 1 — The vote to censure Sen. McCarthy will be the beginning of a prolonged debate throughout the United States.

It will mean wide cleavages in both the Republican and Democratic parties and the formation not of another political party but of an independent bipartisan group of 10,000,000 or more citizens pledged to vote against every Senator up for re-election who refuses to promise to vote, if elected, to expunge from the record the anti-McCarthy resolution adopted this week.

IT WILL MEAN that the Senate will be plagued now with censure resolutions whenever debate is obstructed. For one of the charges is "obstruction of legislative processes." It could mean the final triumph of those who want to put an end to the filibustering in the Senate long maintained by various Senators as a device against the passage of laws opposed by the South.

It will mean a definite quietus on the exposure of Communist activities in America through investigations by Congressional committees. For, though various senators protest vehemently that they do not intend any such result, many people who have followed the campaign to end "McCarthyism" — as the anti-anti-Communist fight has come to be known in many quarters—believe future chairmen of investigating committees will not dare to continue the fight with the vigor that it has been waged heretofore.

WHAT WILL GIVE momentum to the independent movement is the inconsistency of censuring a senator for doing what other senators have done and refusing now to censure other senators for doing and saying things, even in the present Congress, that are on a par with the criticisms for which Sen McCarthy is being censured.

For every day that the Senate delays the adoption of censure resolutions against other Senators guilty of the same offenses will mean a reinforcement of the battle cry of the independent group which will point to the fact that only a senator who fights communism is punished by the Senate.

THE RECORD is replete with instances of conduct similar to that of Sen. McCarthy which the Senate has ignored. Here are only a few:

1. Sen. Byrd of Virginia in May, 1946, called the then senator from Florida, Claude Pepper, a "skunk" in the midst of debate in the Senate. Though the Florida senator asked that it be expunged from the record, this request was ignored.

2. The elder Sen. La Follette of Wisconsin, charged with disloyalty and sedition, insulted the Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections and refused to accept its invitation to testify and never did testify. He was not censured.

3. Senators last summer delayed for two weeks the work of the Senate by a filibuster. It was a designed obstruction of the legislative process—far more than failure to accept an invitation to attend a committee meeting. But no censure resolution was introduced or will be against any senator who participated in that obstruction.

4. Sen. Ervin of North Carolina, Democrat, on both a nation-wide television broadcast and later before the Senate in the last month used the words "mental incompetent" and "moral incompetent" in referring to Sen. McCarthy. No resolution of censure was introduced.

5. MANY SPEECHES have been made during the present session by Sens. Flanders, Fulbright, Lehman and others impugning the character, motives and integrity of the Wisconsin Senator. No resolutions to censure them have been introduced, but an additional censure count has been filed by Sen. Bennett of Utah against Sen. McCarthy for certain things he said in the debate in defense of himself.

6. Several Senators, including Sen Kefauver of Tennessee and the late Sen. Tobey of New Hampshire, during the famous investigation of gambling and vice used bitter words denouncing witnesses who declined to co-operate. No censure resolution was introduced.

PEOPLE WHO do not keep in touch with grass-roots politics in America can say "the McCarthy case is different" and that "it's time the Senate acted" but the millions who follow him will continue to think that the Wisconsin Senator has been "lynched" by a majority of the Senate, that basic rules and precedents which permit criticism of colleagues have been ignored, and that punishment has been and will be meted out only to a Senator who fights communism.

Some of the answers will come when certain members of the Senate are up for re-election just two years from now. For the anti-communism issue, with all its ramifications, is still the livest issue in American political life. Despite various attemps to scoff at its influence in the last election, the issue did affect the result in many states and was indirectly responsible for the loss of the Senate by the Republicans. It has ceased, however, to be a fight inside one party. It now has become an issue inside both parties—primarily because passion has been allowed to supersede basic principles of Senatorial law and its precedents of procedure.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In charting the similarity of the Roosevelt innovations to Adolf Hitler's National Socialism, we find a defiant impudence in Roosevelt's National Recovery Administration. The impudence lies not only in this drastic repudiation of the American Constitution but in Roosevelt's indignant contention that while Hitler, the crazy paperhanger, was a dictator, Roosevelt was a "democoratic" president with no thought in his heart but to serve his beloved people.

True, Hitler had been a paperhanger, which meant that he was actually a worker and a member of "the people," Roosevelt was the pampered son of an indulgent, millionaire mother, so that comparison did not necessarily reflect discredit on Der Fuehrer. Hitler also had been an enlisted soldier in combat and had been wounded or said he had been. Roosevelt, on the other hand, had been a youthful physical giant of independent means, performing no duties as assistant secretary of the navy which could not have been done by many another man.

Henry Wallace, too, by the way, had been excused from World War I on the ground that he was necessary to the operation of his rich father's properties in Des Moines. He admitted this in correspondence with me during his term as vice president but added a claim that he had also been suspected of pulmonary disease, which did not develop, however. This hygienic doubt did not appear in the draftboard record which was somehow obtained by some Republicans but never resorted to in any political campaign. The Republicans were inexplicably fastidious in their repection of useful political dirt.

And both Hitler and Roosevelt loved the Common Man with an overwhelming passion.

Herbert Hoover wrote in his "memoirs" that Roosevelt's National Industrial Recovery Act of 1933 was a "fascist measure," and told us that Gerard Swope, of General Electric, first suggested the scheme. Swope is a brother of Herbert Bayard Swope, the old horse-player and race-track habitue, who latched on as a War Department bureaucrat with McCloy and Patterson in World War 2. And this should remind us that for all his noisy lambasting of "economic royalists," "tories" and "princes of privilege," Roosevelt had, from the beginning until his death, the same strong cooperation of such Masters of Men as Hitler received from the giants of German heavy industry and finance. Charles E. Wilson, who alternated with Gerard Swope as president of G.E., gave diligent and probably valuable service in the mobilization of war industrial power under both Roosevelt and Truman.

But he also let Truman use him as stooge president of the so-called President's Committee on Civil Rights. He later revealed the fact that this strictly partisan ideological apparatus of Truman's party was picked by David K. Niles, Felix Frankfurter's plant in the White House.

"With his NRA, Roosevelt shackled his common man to unrestrained monopolies," Mr. Hoover continued. The act authorized Roosevelt to appoint a bureaucracy of appalling numbers and powers and to establish "codes of fair competition," for violation of which any offender could be fined and sent to prison. Some were so punished.

When the Supreme Court threw out the NRA in the "sick chicken" case, Roosevelt fetched a Hitlerian sneer at the court and, in due course, packed not only that court but all the federal courts with political henchmen and ideological toadies of a moral, social and intellectual grade far below the accustomed standard. There, again, he emulated Hitler and vice versa, although each continued to insult and deride the other until April, 1945, when Roosevelt died a few weeks before Hitler vanished in the grand barbecue in Berlin.

A defiant non-conformist in Hitler's people's court was no more repulsive to the bench than an unreconstructed constitutional, nationalist American before a federal judge of the Roosevelt-Truman jurisprudence.

A symbolic eagle, blue in color, was adopted as the NRA insignia and Roosevelt threatened non-conformists thus: "Those who cooperate must know each other at a glance by the bright badge of the blue eagle." Hugh Johnson, an author of juvenile fiction and ghostwriter for Barney Baruch, was named administrator of the regime. He said: "May God almighty have mercy on anyone who attempts to trifle with that bird."

Hitler repudiated his foreign debts to steady his wobbling venture. Roosevelt repudiated the obligation of the United States to redeem currency and debts in gold. Henry Morgenthau wrote a series of absolutely shocking confessions after Harry Truman had bounced him out of the treasury, where the traitor Harry Dexter White had held sway with terrible results to the American people.

In one chapter Morgenthau said Roosevelt told him the treasury would confiscate all gold in the federal reserve banks at $20.50 an ounce and then mark up the price to $35 an ounce. This would give Roosevelt a paper profit of about two billion with which to dabble in experimental "public works." Morgenthau wrote that one day, lying abed late, Roosevelt increased the price of gold by 21 cents because "it's three times seven, a lucky number."

Hitler promised the "people" to seize the profits made out of World War 1 and the revolution. Roosevelt pretended that he, too, was only socking the rich but, as Hoover demonstrated, he actually was robbing millions of the common people of their insurance equities, bank savings and pension values.

Hitler's housing "relief" was so close to Roosevelt's, Truman's and now Eisenhower's that it is necessary only to set forth the phrase used in Hitler's official program: "Relief of the housing shortage by extensive fresh construction of dwelling-houses throughout the Reich."

Questions -- Answers

Q—Why is New Brunswick called the Loyalist province of Canada?

A—Because most of its early settlers were people who were loyal to the British King, and who left their homes in the Thirteen Colonies after the American Revolutionary War.

Q—Are individual seats assigned to the members of the House of Representatives?

A—No, any member may sit where he chooses. Democrats occupy the east side of the Chamber, on the Speaker's right; Republicans sit across the main aisle on the Speaker's left.

Rib Roast and Yorkshire Pudding Tasty Holiday Dish

STANDING RIB ROAST OF BEEF is a traditional Christmas treat for many families.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Standing ribs of roast beef with Yorkshire pudding is traditional for Christmas in many families. We like it because once the beef is in the oven it needs no basting or watching until done.

Get only the finest of standing ribs of beef for this great day. The prized ribs are the first five ribs cut from next to the loin or steak section. The sixth and seventh rib roasts are cut from the section near the shoulder "pot roasts" and often are less tender and usually lower priced. Many stores trim the roasts closely and remove the short ribs. The amount of trimming and whether or not these short ribs are removed should be taken into consideration in judging the price per pound of the meat.

Cooking is a simple matter. Because the meat has a built-in rack, it requires only to be placed fat side up in an open pan with a roast meat thermometer placed in the center of the meat. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until the meat thermometer indicates the degree of doneness desired, 140 degrees F. rare, 160 degrees F. for medium, or 170 degrees F. well done. After the roast reaches the desired temperature, remove to a platter and keep warm. If allowed to set approximately 30 minutes, the meat will carve more easily.

With roast of beef, the menu can be simple. Start with cups of hot consumme or jellied madrilene, both available in cans. With the beef and Yorkshire pudding, serve cooked whole tiny onions and buttered green beans, or else buttered rutabagas. Creamed peas and mushrooms are good, too. Serve whole potatoes browned and crisply cooked around the roast, or riced potatoes. In place of salad, serve a large tray of crisp relishes.

Of course, plum pudding served flaming is also traditional. But we like a lighter dessert such as a tray of fruit, cheese and fruitcake.

Rib Roast and Yorkshire Pudding Tasty Holiday Dish

STANDING RIB ROAST OF BEEF is a traditional Christmas treat for many families.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Standing ribs of roast beef with Yorkshire pudding is traditional for Christmas in many families. We like it because once the beef is in the oven it needs no basting or watching until done.

Get only the finest of standing ribs of beef for this great day. The prized ribs are the first five ribs cut from next to the loin or steak section. The sixth and seventh rib roasts are cut from the section near the shoulder "pot roasts" and often are less tender and usually lower priced. Many stores trim the roasts closely and remove the short ribs. The amount of trimming and whether or not these short ribs are removed should be taken into consideration in judging the price per pound of the meat.

Cooking is a simple matter. Because the meat has a built-in rack, it requires only to be placed fat side up in an open pan with a roast meat thermometer placed in the center of the meat. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until the meat thermometer indicates the degree of doneness desired, 140 degrees F. rare, 160 degrees F. for medium, or 170 degrees F. well done. After the roast reaches the desired temperature, remove to a platter and keep warm. If allowed to set approximately 30 minutes, the meat will carve more easily.

With roast of beef, the menu can be simple. Start with cups of hot consumme or jellied madrilene, both available in cans. With the beef and Yorkshire pudding, serve cooked whole tiny onions and buttered green beans, or else buttered rutabagas. Creamed peas and mushrooms are good, too. Serve whole potatoes browned and crisply cooked around the roast, or riced potatoes. In place of salad, serve a large tray of crisp relishes.

Of course, plum pudding served flaming is also traditional. But we like a lighter dessert such as a tray of fruit, cheese and fruitcake.

PARTY DINNER: Standing rib roast of beef, pan gravy, Yorkshire pudding, roasted potatoes, small white onions, Brussels sprouts, rolls, butter or margarine, crisp relishes, fruit tray, cheese and crackers, coffee, tea, milk.

Denies Knowing Witness

Roanoke, Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—A Roanoke woman whose maiden name, Clara Hutchinson, came up in testimony before the Miami hearing yesterday of the House Un-American Activities Committee said last night she never heard of the witness who used her name. An admitted ex-Communist, Ralph Long of Durham, N. C., listed Clara Hutchinson of Roanoke as a representative of the Communist party in the South who attended a Communist school at Camp Beacon near Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in the late 1940's. "I never heard of the witness or the camp," said Mrs. Mitchell Saba, who formerly was Clara Hutchinson.

LESLIE S. LYONS is shown above demonstrating the stocks used around the turn of the century for shoeing oxen. The stocks have been assembled at Lyons' home, 128 Washington avenue, and Lyons invites anyone to come and inspect them. Built for Lyons' brother, the late George Lyons, about 1900 by a carpenter named Barringer, from Palentown, town of Rochester, the stocks were used by the late Joel Beesmer, blacksmith of Palentown (now Samsonville) and by others until 1930. Using the principle of leverage, the slings shown in the picture were used to raise the ox off the ground so that its hoofs could be made fast while the blacksmith fixed the two-piece shoes on its cloven hoofs. Rosendale

Village Notes

Rosendale, Nov. 29 — The monthly meeting of the Rosendale Publicity Association has been scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 7, at the Rosendale School.

It was recently announced that Mrs. Joseph Hill, James street, Rosendale, had been named chairman of the 1954 Christmas Seals Sale of the township of Rosendale for the Ulster County TB and Health Association.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees of District No. 1, Union Free School, Rosendale, will be held on Wednesday at the schoolhouse.

The monthly meeting of the village board of Rosendale will be held Monday evening, Dec. 6, at the Rosendale school. The town board of Rosendale will meet at the town offices on Main street Monday, Dec. 6.

Renovation of the Colonial Gas Company store on Main street is nearly complete. John Boyle, proprietor, plans an official opening for the public about December 11.

Grange Has Meeting

Rosendale, Nov. 29—A meeting of the officers of the Rosendale Grange was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Phillips in Tillson with Mr. and Mrs. George Mollenhauer, Mrs. Edward Mahler and Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Thiel present.

It was determined to start all future meetings at 8:15 p. m., sharp. Regular grange meetings are held at the grange hall on Main street, Rosendale, on the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

George Mollenhauer reported on the state grange convention which was held the latter part of October in Jamestown.

Various committees for the coming year were appointed by Nathaniel Phillips, master, and the program for the year was discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Mollenhauer attended a membership dinner at Highland Grange, sponsored by the state grange, this week. The speaker for the event was Henry Sherwood of the executive committee.

A card party, sponsored by the local grange, will be held Wednesday evening, starting at 8:15 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

New York Leads U. S. in Incomes

Albany, Dec. 1 (AP)—New York led the nation in 1953 incomes, the Commerce Department says, averaging $2,158 for every man, woman and child in the state.

The department reported yesterday that income in the state from all sources was 33½ billion dollars, topping by more than 8 billions that of California, the second highest.

Wages and salaries were $23,800,000,000, up 1½ billions from those in 1952.

Of that sum, 14½ billions were earned by New York city residents, whose total incomes hit $18,700,000,000.

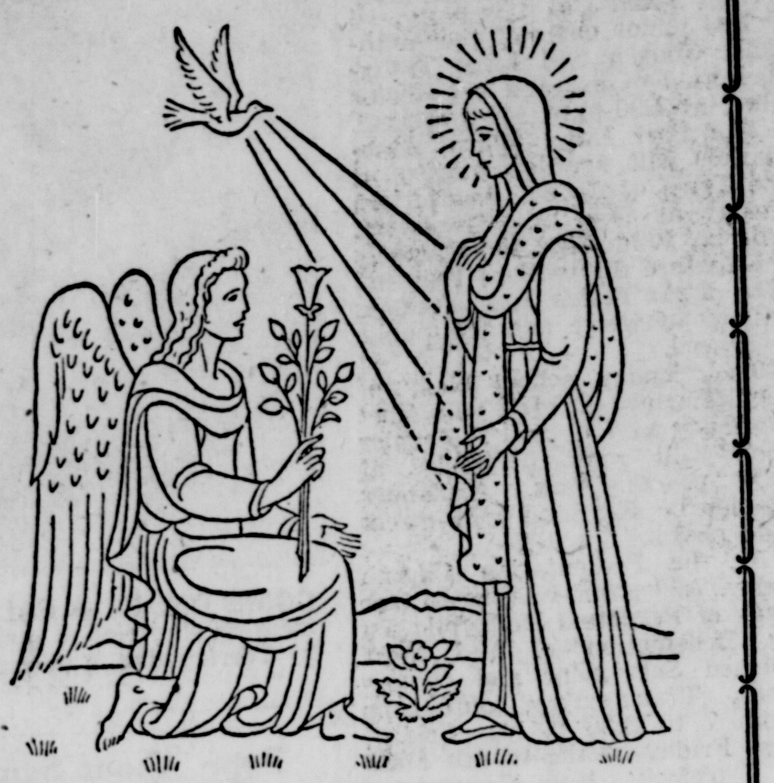
The Christmas Story

Retold in the words of the Holy Bible
by Norman Vincent Peale
Illustrated by Valenti Angelo



The Angel Visits Mary

THE angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favored, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women.

Forgotten States Fill Nation's Undrawn Maps

Washington, Dec. 1—States named Franklin, Jefferson, Deseret, New Connecticut, Kanawha, and Susquehannah might exist today, had history taken different turns.

These were all once would-be States or territories, the National Geographic Society says. Today they lie buried on forgotten maps of America's early years.

The State of Franklin, for one, had a governor, constitution, courts, and capital in the mountains of what is now northeast Tennessee. Set up at Jonesboro in 1784 when North Carolina gave over her western land to Federal protection, Franklin for five years knocked vainly at the nation's door for admission.

EVEN EARLIER, settlers along the Watauga, Nolichucky, Holston and French Broad rivers had formed a homespun government called the Watauga Association. Neither Watauga nor Franklin was destined to survive. Franklin, the coonskin republic, was officially superseded by the "Territory South of the River Ohio." John Sevier — "Nolichucky Jack" — Franklin's first and only governor, a decade later became the first governor of the State of Tennessee.

In 1859, miners around Pikes Peak formed a "Territory of Jefferson" and sent a delegate to Congress. During the next two years Jefferson incorporated the city of Denver and set many land titles. Then Congress gave it a new name: Colorado.

DESERET LASTED longest of all. Organized in 1849 by the Mormons at Salt Lake City, the proposed territory embraced a vast area extending from the Rockies to the Sierra Nevada—plus even a strip of Pacific coast near San Diego.

Congress rejected the name chosen by the Latter-day Saints and established a much smaller Territory of Utah in 1850. Again in 1861, however, the Mormons founded a "State of Desert." Its ghost government met and passed laws for nine years while waiting in vain for recognition. A stone tablet bearing Deseret's name in the Washington Monument is one of its few physical reminders today.

New Connecticut was the first name proposed for their state by the settlers of Vermont. A delegate representing New Connecticut traveled to the Continental Congress in Philadelphia in 1776.

DURING THE CIVIL WAR Congress was petitioned to recognize a new State of Kanawha. It was formed by Virginia's western counties that refused to secede. Popular vote a few months later changed the name to West Virginia.

Susquehannah was a state envisioned by the fiery John Franklin, to be carved from northeast Pennsylvania by settlers from Connecticut. Three Yankee-Pennamite Wars were fought between 1769 and 1786 over disputed land claims before they were settled.

THERE WERE OTHER names. Transylvania was an abortive government set up by the land company that bought present-day Kentucky and middle Tennessee from the Cherokee. The present state of Louisiana was formed from the Territory of Orleans, whose name survives only in that of a city.

By a French charter, New England would have been named Acadia. New York and New Jersey first were part of New Netherland of the Dutch. Settlers along the lower Delaware river established New Sweden long before William Penn's colonists arrived. He himself wanted to call his New World grant merely Sylvania.

TROOP 9, BSA — Junior leaders of the troop, sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, participated in a Thanksgiving vacation camping trip on Esopus Island in the Hudson river last Friday and Saturday. They were Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Bob Campbell, Senior Patrol Leader Dave Brown and Patrol Leaders Dick Burns, Bill Craft and Bob DuMond.

Transportation to and from the island was provided by Bob Campbell and his motor boat. At the campsite the Scouts pitched tents and constructed lean-tos for overnight camping. They also explored and mapped the island, speculating about Henry Hudson and other figures and events in Hudson river lore. Scoutmaster Bill Daum, Assistant Scoutmaster Chet DuMond and Troop Committeemen Bob Campbell, Sr., also made the trip.

New York Leads U. S. in Incomes

Albany, Dec. 1 (AP)—New York led the nation in 1953 incomes, the Commerce Department says, averaging $2,158 for every man, woman and child in the state.

The department reported yesterday that income in the state from all sources was 33½ billion dollars, topping by more than 8 billions that of California, the second highest.

Wages and salaries were $23,800,000,000, up 1½ billions from those in 1952.

Of that sum, 14½ billions were earned by New York city residents, whose total incomes hit $18,700,000,000.

The Angel Visits Mary

THE angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favored, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women.

Forgotten States Fill Nation's Undrawn Maps

Washington, Dec. 1—States named Franklin, Jefferson, Deseret, New Connecticut, Kanawha, and Susquehannah might exist today, had history taken different turns.

These were all once would-be States or territories, the National Geographic Society says. Today they lie buried on forgotten maps of America's early years.

The State of Franklin, for one, had a governor, constitution, courts, and capital in the mountains of what is now northeast Tennessee. Set up at Jonesboro in 1784 when North Carolina gave over her western land to Federal protection, Franklin for five years knocked vainly at the nation's door for admission.

EVEN EARLIER, settlers along the Watauga, Nolichucky, Holston and French Broad rivers had formed a homespun government called the Watauga Association. Neither Watauga nor Franklin was destined to survive. Franklin, the coonskin republic, was officially superseded by the "Territory South of the River Ohio." John Sevier—"Nolichucky Jack"—Franklin's first and only governor, a decade later became the first governor of the State of Tennessee.

Census Employment Boosts U. S. Pay Rolls

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Employment of temporary census workers boosted government pay rolls during October for the second time in 27 months, Sen. Byrd (D.-Va.) reported today.

Byrd, as chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures, said civilian employes — excluding foreign nationals working overseas—numbered 2,323,029 in October, an increase of 5,464 over September, but 49,716 less than in October of last year.

Federal employment has declined steadily since July 1952, except during July and October of this year.

Byrd said the Commerce Department showed an increase of 2,105 workers from September to October due largely to temporary employment by the Bureau of the Census.

Decreases in other agencies offset in part this increase.

Coast Guard Is To Seek Family

Toyko, Dec. 1 (AP)—The Japan Coast Guard today ordered a search for a small sailboat carrying an American doctor, his wife and two young children, which left Oct. 28 on a world cruise and had not been heard from since.

The coast guard said the two-masted, 35-foot boat had not arrived at its last Japanese scheduled port of call, and had not been heard from for more than a month.

In addition to the four Americans the ship carried a Japanese crew of three.

The owner of the boat, named the Phoenix, is Dr. Earl Reynolds, 44, an anthropologist from the University of Iowa. He worked for the Atomic Casualty Commission in Hiroshima for three years before leaving on the cruise.

With Dr. Reynolds was his wife, Barbara, son, Ted, and daughter, Jessica, Kyodo News Agency reported. Both children are of school age. Ted is the youngest.

The Phoenix left Hiroshima in mid-October. It was not clear whether the ship had a radio. It was understood the yacht was equipped with an auxiliary engine.

Methodists Plan Meeting Sunday

Methodist conferences on family life will be held from 3:30 to 6 p. m. Sunday at the Millbrook Federated Church for the Poughkeepsie District and at St. James Methodist Church, Kingston, for the Kingston District, it was announced today by the Rev. Kenneth E. Hoover of Poughkeepsie and the Rev. D. George Davies of Kingston, district superintendents.

THE MEETINGS will serve as follow-up sessions for the national Family Life Convocation held in Cleveland, Ohio, in October. Delegations from the 186 churches in the two districts will include representatives of the Official Boards, Woman's Societies of Christian Service, the church school, Methodist Men and Youth Fellowship.

Panel members at the Kingston conference will be the Rev. Walter Nelson of Roxbury, the Rev. John E. Swords of Modena, Mrs. Lansing Hunt of Kingston and Mrs. William Sluiter of Margaretville.

Millbrook panel members will be the Rev. Herman L. Kuster of Beacon, the Rev. W. Bernard Grossman of Peekskill, Mrs. George Bull of Millbrook and the Rev. G. Roy Bragg, superintendent of the Newburgh District.

Mail Regulations Simplied in Manual for Public

Postmaster William R. Kraft today called attention to new postal regulations, effective this date, and calling for changes and simplifications in the use of the mails.

A new 300-page manual contains these regulations in simple form as compared to a former 4,000 pages of dense print, and they are being issued by the Post Office Department, Kraft said.

Available at 65 cents a copy from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., they enable mail users to keep abreast of all changes. They may be obtained in pamphlet and looseleaf format, and, with a year's subscription to all sheets noting changes, for $2.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said the change is the most complete revision of regulations in the history of the department.

A PRELIMINARY edition was issued Oct. 21, and with public help 'many worthwhile" suggestions were included in the final edition.

Postmaster Kraft believes that the pamphlet and the $2 package deal offer businessmen and other large mail users, the best method yet of keeping up to date on postal information. Much of the information is also important to the average householder.

Kraft said the booklet represents the "final word," on all postal rules, and all inquiries deaing with it should be directed to the Kingston post office.

Opening lead—♠ Q

After today's hand had been played there was a long and heated discussion of the bidding, but there was no argument about the way it had been played by Preston Ellett, well known New York expert.

Nobody had a kind word to say for the jump to four hearts. Even Ellett admitted that he didn't admire the bid but had made it because he was annoyed about the previous hand.

The big discussion raged over West's penalty double of four hearts. Is it a good double, or does it just warn declarer to expect a bad trump break? Ordinarily, I would call it a doubtful double, but the chances are that West knew all about the previous hand and also knew that South was making a very risky bid of four hearts.

In short the bidding is very human, but not very instructive. The play more than makes up for these defects.

West opened the queen of spades, and Ellett won in dummy with the ace. He led the queen of hearts for a finesse, not seriously expecting it to win but feeling that he couldn't lose anything by trying. West won with the king of hearts and led the jack of spades, forcing declarer to ruff.

If it hadn't been for the double, South would have led the ace of hearts at this point in the hope of getting a reasonable trump break. In view of the double, however Ellett allowed for the bad break.

Declarer led a diamond to the ace, ruffed another spade, led a diamond to the king, and ruffed a third round of diamonds. This left declarer with only three trumps, the same number that West held. Ellett then led the jack of clubs towards the dummy.

West went up with the ace of clubs and returned his low club, hoping that South would misjudge the situation. Here again, however, the double guided declarer. He finessed dummy's ten of clubs, playing West for practically all of the missing strength.

When the ten of clubs held, the hand was home South cashed the king of clubs and then played a low trump on the next lead from dummy. West had to overruff and lead away from his jack of trumps up to South's ace-nine.

Deaths Are Fewer

Chicago, Nov. 30 (AP)—October's traffic deaths dropped below last year's figure, the 10th monthly decline in a row, the National Safety Council reported today. The two per cent decrease for the month was the smallest since January and the 3,580-death total was the largest for any month in the year, the council added. For the first 10 months this year, the total of 29,350 deaths was six per cent fewer than for the like period in 1953.

Mail Regulations Simplied in Manual for Public

Postmaster William R. Kraft today called attention to new postal regulations, effective this date, and calling for changes and simplifications in the use of the mails.

A new 300-page manual contains these regulations in simple form as compared to a former 4,000 pages of dense print, and they are being issued by the Post Office Department, Kraft said.

Available at 65 cents a copy from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., they enable mail users to keep abreast of all changes. They may be obtained in pamphlet and looseleaf format, and, with a year's subscription to all sheets noting changes, for $2.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said the change is the most complete revision of regulations in the history of the department.

A PRELIMINARY edition was issued Oct. 21, and with public help 'many worthwhile" suggestions were included in the final edition.

Postmaster Kraft believes that the pamphlet and the $2 package deal offer businessmen and other large mail users, the best method yet of keeping up to date on postal information. Much of the information is also important to the average householder.

Kraft said the booklet represents the "final word," on all postal rules, and all inquiries deaing with it should be directed to the Kingston post office.

St. Remy

St. Remy, Nov. 30—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the St. Remy Fire Department will meet Monday evening, Dec. 6, at the firehouse. Members are urged to attend in order to discuss plans for a Christmas party.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This Bid Causes . . . Heated Discussion . .

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

After today's hand had been played there was a long and heated discussion of the bidding, but there was no argument about the way it had been played by Preston Ellett, well known New York expert.

Nobody had a kind word to say for the jump to four hearts. Even Ellett admitted that he didn't admire the bid but had made it because he was annoyed about the previous hand.

The big discussion raged over West's penalty double of four hearts. Is it a good double, or does it just warn declarer to expect a bad trump break? Ordinarily, I would call it a doubtful double, but the chances are that West knew all about the previous hand and also knew that South was making a very risky bid of four hearts.

In short the bidding is very human, but not very instructive. The play more than makes up for these defects.

Opening lead—♠ Q

West opened the queen of spades, and Ellett won in dummy with the ace. He led the queen of hearts for a finesse, not seriously expecting it to win but feeling that he couldn't lose anything by trying. West won with the king of hearts and led the jack of spades, forcing declarer to ruff.

If it hadn't been for the double, South would have led the ace of hearts at this point in the hope of getting a reasonable trump break. In view of the double, however Ellett allowed for the bad break.

Declarer led a diamond to the ace, ruffed another spade, led a diamond to the king, and ruffed a third round of diamonds. This left declarer with only three trumps, the same number that West held. Ellett then led the jack of clubs towards the dummy.

West went up with the ace of clubs and returned his low club, hoping that South would misjudge the situation. Here again, however, the double guided declarer. He finessed dummy's ten of clubs, playing West for practically all of the missing strength.

When the ten of clubs held, the hand was home South cashed the king of clubs and then played a low trump on the next lead from dummy. West had to overruff and lead away from his jack of trumps up to South's ace-nine.

Fur Prospect

Lansing, Mich. (AP)—There's a good chance the valuable pine marten may once again roam Michigan forests. The Conservation Department says Ontario trappers may ship the fur bearers to Michigan soon for use as seed stock. The animals which possess highly-prized glossy coats and are easily trapped, disappeared with the clearing of the Michigan forests.

Voice Will Open Broadcast Center

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—The voice of America, which beams radio programs on both sides of the Iron Curtain, officially unveils today its plush new Washington broadcasting center.

The voice, operated by the U. S. Information Agency (USIA), thus completes a move from New York to Washington one month ahead of schedule.

Invited to the festive opening (4 p. m.) were Secretary of State Dulles, other cabinet members, White House officials, members of Congress and Representatives of press, radio and television.

From its new headquarters in the health-education-welfare building, near the Capitol, the Voice expects to beam more than 70 million words a year. Its round-the-clock operation features more than 75 daily programs in 38 languages, with more than three-fourths going behind the Iron Curtain.

In the fiscal year ending next June 30, about 20 million dollars will go toward operating the voice, which maintains dozens of tranmitting stations in the United States and abroad. Voice officials maintain, however, that Soviet Russia spends 25 million dollars trying, with something less than success, to jam the Voice's output, half of which is straight news.

Today's full dress opening will be followed, officials hope, by daily guided tours for the public.

First successful automobile trip from San Francisco to New York was made in 70 days in the summer of 1903.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Who owns the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA? I repeat the word, UNITED, for by that one word — we stand or fall.

As neighbors, we are all share owners in the present and future destiny of America. Our Government owns nothing — not a thin dime. Its duty is to constitutionally direct OUR WAY OF LIFE — and nothing else but.

Mr. Hutton

Our President, both Houses of Congress and the Supreme Court are the paid employes of the share owners of the U.S.A. It is our responsibility to take a determined stand to protect what belongs to us.

When someone says "to heck with that," they imply — "The Constitution be damned, including your Bill of Rights." Well, neighbor, if the Bill of Rights is lost — you have lost your shirt. For part of the Bill of Rights is to own and keep what is yours, — "to have and to hold."

Sure, it's easy to paddle downstream and have a "ma and pa" Government. But when "ma and pa" develop into new Hitlers or Stalins, we will no longer be share owners in the U.S.A.

What say, neighbor?

Civil Service Exam

Examinations have been announced by the U. S. Civil Service Commission for pharmacist, scientific illustrator and medical photographer for positions with the Veterans Administration throughout the country and in Puerto Rico, and for investigator positions with the General Accounting Office throughout the country. Further information and application forms may be obtained from the commission's examiner in charge of William P. Barry at the main post-office in Kingston.

Government Criticized

Tehran, Iran, Dec. 1 (AP)—The newspaper Keyhan quoted Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi yesterday as criticizing the government for failure to tackle Iran's "shocking" living costs. The monarch was quoted as saying: "Responsible government authorities have done nothing to reduce the cost of primary needs of the people, such as vegetable oils, meat and charcoal." This criticism was made during a royal audience with members of Tehran's relief societies Monday night.

The Mature Parent

Parents' Attitude Toward Grandma Example for Teens

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

One gray dawn five years ago an old man slipped quietly into death, facing the P.'s with the question, "Do we now ask Grandma to live with us?"

A friend put their answer into words. She said, "Oh, you can't! You haven't room! Can you afford a bigger house with college ahead for the children? Does Molly want to give up her club work to take care of it? Grandma would need ground-floor space because of stairs. How could you entertain — the children bring home their high school friends? You know how old people are about quiet. No, you have your own lives to live."

So the P.'s installed Grandma, enfeebled by shock and grief, in a "small place" of her own.

The other day their college junior son, home for the weekend, asked them to finance marriage for him until he could do it himself. Accused of irresponsibility toward them, he hotly protested that he, too, had his "own life" to live.

Would he have made this demand had Grandma become a member of his household? I doubt it. I suspect that the P.'s son, given his parents' example of inter-generation responsibility, would have developed some himself.

There is, may I suggest, a purpose in the fact that Grandma's dependence coincides with our child's adolescence. She intrudes her need of us at the identical time he's outgrowing it. As he approaches maturity, this coincidence gives us our chance to define its responsibilties to him.

The problem is one we didn't count on in the down payment for our efficient, two-generation houses that include no space for Grandma.

As television continues to replace her in our living rooms, I don't see how young people can avoid concluding that our middleage is the Age of Self-Indulgence.

They're bound to feel. "We don't see you inconveniencing yourself for your parent. Why should we inconvenience ourselves for you?"

An irresponsible child is a bore, so the P.'s might try to improve their example of give-and-take between generations.

I urge that club work be curtailed to make more time for Grandma. Her need is not a liability. It offers the P.'s their opportunity to increase their son's respect for their usefulness at the very time that his decreasing need of it tempts him to doubt it.

It's their chance to earn new appreciation.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Who owns the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA? I repeat the word, UNITED, for by that one word — we stand or fall.

As neighbors, we are all share owners in the present and future destiny of America. Our Government owns nothing — not a thin dime. Its duty is to constitutionally direct OUR WAY OF LIFE — and nothing else but.

Mr. Hutton

Our President, both Houses of Congress and the Supreme Court are the paid employes of the share owners of the U.S.A. It is our responsibility to take a determined stand to protect what belongs to us.

When someone says "to heck with that," they imply — "The Constitution be damned, including your Bill of Rights." Well, neighbor, if the Bill of Rights is lost — you have lost your shirt. For part of the Bill of Rights is to own and keep what is yours, — "to have and to hold."

Sure, it's easy to paddle downstream and have a "ma and pa" Government. But when "ma and pa" develop into new Hitlers or Stalins, we will no longer be share owners in the U.S.A.

What say, neighbor?

Civil Service Exam

Examinations have been announced by the U. S. Civil Service Commission for pharmacist, scientific illustrator and medical photographer for positions with the Veterans Administration throughout the country and in Puerto Rico, and for investigator positions with the General Accounting Office throughout the country. Further information and application forms may be obtained from the commission's examiner in charge of William P. Barry at the main post-office in Kingston.

Government Criticized

Tehran, Iran, Dec. 1 (AP)—The newspaper Keyhan quoted Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi yesterday as criticizing the government for failure to tackle Iran's "shocking" living costs. The monarch was quoted as saying: "Responsible government authorities have done nothing to reduce the cost of primary needs of the people, such as vegetable oils, meat and charcoal." This criticism was made during a royal audience with members of Tehran's relief societies Monday night.

The Mature Parent

Parents' Attitude Toward Grandma Example for Teens

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

One gray dawn five years ago an old man slipped quietly into death, facing the P.'s with the question, "Do we now ask Grandma to live with us?"

A friend put their answer into words. She said, "Oh, you can't! You haven't room! Can you afford a bigger house with college ahead for the children? Does Molly want to give up her club work to take care of it? Grandma would need ground-floor space because of stairs. How could you entertain — the children bring home their high school friends? You know how old people are about quiet. No, you have your own lives to live."

So the P.'s installed Grandma, enfeebled by shock and grief, in a "small place" of her own.

The other day their college junior son, home for the weekend, asked them to finance marriage for him until he could do it himself. Accused of irresponsibility toward them, he hotly protested that he, too, had his "own life" to live.

Would he have made this demand had Grandma become a member of his household? I doubt it. I suspect that the P.'s son, given his parents' example of inter-generation responsibility, would have developed some himself.

There is, may I suggest, a purpose in the fact that Grandma's dependence coincides with our child's adolescence. She intrudes her need of us at the identical time he's outgrowing it. As he approaches maturity, this coincidence gives us our chance to define its responsibilties to him.

The problem is one we didn't count on in the down payment for our efficient, two-generation houses that include no space for Grandma.

As television continues to replace her in our living rooms, I don't see how young people can avoid concluding that our middleage is the Age of Self-Indulgence.

They're bound to feel. "We don't see you inconveniencing yourself for your parent. Why should we inconvenience ourselves for you?"

An irresponsible child is a bore, so the P.'s might try to improve their example of give-and-take between generations.

I urge that club work be curtailed to make more time for Grandma. Her need is not a liability. It offers the P.'s their opportunity to increase their son's respect for their usefulness at the very time that his decreasing need of it tempts him to doubt it.

It's their chance to earn new appreciation.

Harriman Has 12,393 Plurality

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Gov.-elect Averell Harriman has a plurality of 12,393 votes on the basis of a new revision of Nov. 2 election figures in New York city and a few counties upstate.

The new totals are 2,560,498 for Harriman, Democrat-Liberal, and 2,548,105 for Sen. Irving M. Ives, Republican.

Harriman picked up a net gain of 736 yesterday. The main change was in the certified recanvass figures for New York city's five counties, where Harriman made a net gain of 895. There also were several small revisions in upstate counties caused by counting of absentee military ballots which had not been included in previous figures.

All of the state's 62 counties have been recanvassed with the exception of Albany county, where the ballots were impounded in an investigation of reports of election frauds.

Adjournment Is Expected Friday

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Knowland of California said yesterday he expects the Senate will adjourn tomorrow "or at the latest Friday."

The Senate convened in special session Nov. 8 to take up the question of whether to censure Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.).

Knowland said that after this issue is decided he hopes to get action on a number of non-controversial nominations that have been submitted by President Eisenhower. He said he did not anticipate a foreign policy or other debate that might delay adjournment.

Leaflets Are Dropped

Taipeh, Formosa, Dec. 1 (AP)—Nationalist Chinese planes dropped propaganda leaflets on the coastal areas of Fukien Province in Red China today. Official reports said the planes met only slight anti-aircraft fire and all returned safely. The number was not disclosed. Fukien Province is just across the Formosa strait from this Nationalist base.

Abortion Blamed In Watson Death

Los Angeles, Dec. 1 (AP)—Fear that childbirth would interfere with her plans to break into the movies was blamed today for the abortion death of former swimming champion Virginia Hopkins Watson.

Her husband, Arthur Watson, told police he wanted a child, but that his wife had a movie part in "Jungle Jim" with Johnny Weismuller. He told Detective Sgt. Herman Zander that his wife informed him she underwent the surgery Nov. 18 and noticed no ill effects until last Friday. She died of peritonitis late Monday night.

Police seek to determine who performed the illegal operation.

THE 32-YEAR-OLD Mrs. Watson, a swimming instructor at Hollywood Athletic Club, set a national 400-meter relay record in 1939 with her twin sister, Marion Hopkins, Eleanor Chamberlain and Esther Williams of the films. Their time was 4 minutes, 46 seconds, established at Des Moines, Ia., beat the former mark by 8.8 seconds. They competed for the Los Angeles A. C.

Virginia set a world 50-meter record in 1938 in Los Angeles. She held the 100-meter free-style championship in 1939. The Hopkins twins appeared later with Billy Rose's Aquacade.

Los Angeles county autopsy surgeon Victor Cefalu said that poisons resulting from the operation overtaxed the kidneys. She was taken to the Los Angeles General Hospital, which has an artificial kidney, but she died there.

Meteor Fragment Crashes Roof

Sylacauga, Ala., Dec. 1 (AP)—A celestial disturbance seen in three states was identified yesterday as an exploding meteor which sent a nine-pound fragment crashing through a roof here and injured a 32-year-old woman.

Mrs. Hewlett Hodges suffered bruises when the meteorite tore a hole three feet wide in the roof over her living room, smashed a radio and struck her on an arm and hip.

The object was identified as a sulphide meteorite by George Swindle, field representative of the U. S. Geological Survey.

A "bright flash" across the sky followed by explosions was reported about 2 p. m. (EST) simultaneously in Atlanta, Newnan and Columbus, Ga., Sylacauga and Birmingham in Alabama, and as far away as Greenville, Miss.

Collections Total $4,000

November parking meter collections totaled $4,000, the city treasurer's office reported today. This was $300 more than in October and $450 more than in November, 1953.

Most traffic accidents occur in the afternoon and evening hours.

There also were several small revisions in upstate counties caused by counting of absentee military ballots which had not been included in previous figures.

All of the state's 62 counties have been recanvassed with the exception of Albany county, where the ballots were impounded in an investigation of reports of election frauds.

Adjournment Is Expected Friday

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Knowland of California said yesterday he expects the Senate will adjourn tomorrow "or at the latest Friday."

The Senate convened in special session Nov. 8 to take up the question of whether to censure Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.).

Knowland said that after this issue is decided he hopes to get action on a number of non-controversial nominations that have been submitted by President Eisenhower. He said he did not anticipate a foreign policy or other debate that might delay adjournment.

Leaflets Are Dropped

Taipeh, Formosa, Dec. 1 (AP)—Nationalist Chinese planes dropped propaganda leaflets on the coastal areas of Fukien Province in Red China today. Official reports said the planes met only slight anti-aircraft fire and all returned safely. The number was not disclosed. Fukien Province is just across the Formosa strait from this Nationalist base.

Abortion Blamed In Watson Death

Los Angeles, Dec. 1 (AP)—Fear that childbirth would interfere with her plans to break into the movies was blamed today for the abortion death of former swimming champion Virginia Hopkins Watson.

Her husband, Arthur Watson, told police he wanted a child, but that his wife had a movie part in "Jungle Jim" with Johnny Weismuller. He told Detective Sgt. Herman Zander that his wife informed him she underwent the surgery Nov. 18 and noticed no ill effects until last Friday. She died of peritonitis late Monday night.

Police seek to determine who performed the illegal operation.

THE 32-YEAR-OLD Mrs. Watson, a swimming instructor at Hollywood Athletic Club, set a national 400-meter relay record in 1939 with her twin sister, Marion Hopkins, Eleanor Chamberlain and Esther Williams of the films. Their time was 4 minutes, 46 seconds, established at Des Moines, Ia., beat the former mark by 8.8 seconds. They competed for the Los Angeles A. C.

Virginia set a world 50-meter record in 1938 in Los Angeles. She held the 100-meter free-style championship in 1939. The Hopkins twins appeared later with Billy Rose's Aquacade.

Los Angeles county autopsy surgeon Victor Cefalu said that poisons resulting from the operation overtaxed the kidneys. She was taken to the Los Angeles General Hospital, which has an artificial kidney, but she died there.

Meteor Fragment Crashes Roof

Sylacauga, Ala., Dec. 1 (AP)—A celestial disturbance seen in three states was identified yesterday as an exploding meteor which sent a nine-pound fragment crashing through a roof here and injured a 32-year-old woman.

Mrs. Hewlett Hodges suffered bruises when the meteorite tore a hole three feet wide in the roof over her living room, smashed a radio and struck her on an arm and hip.

The object was identified as a sulphide meteorite by George Swindle, field representative of the U. S. Geological Survey.

A "bright flash" across the sky followed by explosions was reported about 2 p. m. (EST) simultaneously in Atlanta, Newnan and Columbus, Ga., Sylacauga and Birmingham in Alabama, and as far away as Greenville, Miss.

Collections Total $4,000

November parking meter collections totaled $4,000, the city treasurer's office reported today. This was $300 more than in October and $450 more than in November, 1953.

Harriman Has 12,393 Plurality

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Gov.-elect Averell Harriman has a plurality of 12,393 votes on the basis of a new revision of Nov. 2 election figures in New York city and a few counties upstate.

The new totals are 2,560,498 for Harriman, Democrat-Liberal, and 2,548,105 for Sen. Irving M. Ives, Republican.

Harriman picked up a net gain of 736 yesterday. The main change was in the certified recanvass figures for New York city's five counties, where Harriman made a net gain of 895. There also were several small revisions in upstate counties caused by counting of absentee military ballots which had not been included in previous figures.

All of the state's 62 counties have been recanvassed with the exception of Albany county, where the ballots were impounded in an investigation of reports of election frauds.

Justice Elsworth Opens Session

Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth opened the December trial term of Supreme court this morning at 11 o'clock. A trial and grand jury was in attendance but there were insufficient grand jurors to organize and additional jurors were drawn for attendance Thursday when the Court will name a foreman, acting foreman and the Grand Jury will then proceed to organize.

Due to the Christmas holiday season which will cut short the present trial term, the December term was convened today rather than the first Monday of the month as usually is done.

Europe's smallest independent state is Vatican City, one sixth square mile in area.

POWER IN A SMALL PACKAGE—The Mighty Mite, small enough to be airlifted by helicopter, and tough enough to drive through knee-deep mud, is expected to aid our combat military forces. It is considerably lighter than the Jeep, has four-wheel drive and can supposedly do 57 mph. Because of its balance, it can be driven on three wheels or on a flat tire without damage, according to the Detroit, Mich., manufacturer. Mighty Mite can carry a 500-pound payload while towing another 1000 pounds over a rough terrain.

SHE'S SUCCESSFUL—Mrs. Grace L. Olson, right, of Bloomington, Minn., receives the "Most Successful Homemaker of 1954" award from Edward H. Kerber, chairman of the award committee. Mrs. Olson, who was selected from contestants sent in from 41 states, also won a $2500 prize. U. S. Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest, center, was one of the judges who served on the committee, which held the contest in Chicago, Ill.

Command Transfers

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 1 (AP)—Egypt ceased to be the site of Britain's Middle East Headquarters today. The command has been transferred to the Mediterranean island of Cyprus. British officials emphasized that the shift does not mean Cyprus will replace the Suez Canal Zone as Britain's chief Middle East base in the event of war. Under terms of the recent Anglo-Egyptian agreement, the Canal Zone remains available for seven more years.

Classes to Resume

PILOT OF MISSING PLANE—Capt. W. Peter Carey, 37, of Swampscott, Mass., is pilot of a Northeast Airlines plane missing with seven persons aboard on a flight from Laconia to Berlin, N. H., Tuesday. The flight originated in Boston and was due in Berlin at 11:12 a. m. The airline's Boston office said the plane had fuel to last until about 3 p. m. No word was heard from it at that hour. (AP Wirephoto).

Faint Clues Start Search for Plane

North Conway, N. H., Dec. 1 (AP)—A faint radio message and an unsubstantiated report of sighted wreckage on a mountainside today spurred ground and air search for a Northeast Airlines plane downed yesterday with seven aboard.

The brief radio voice message—transmitted "blind" for anyone who could pick it up—read: "Emergency — down five miles northeast of field hill but - - -." The message then faded out.

At about the same time a report attributed to a civil air patrol pilot said wreckage of a plane had been sighted in the snowy wilderness of Bald Mountain, about five miles northeast of the airliner's Berlin Airport destination. However, the air force search coordinator said it had no word of the reported sighting.

The plane disappeared in snowy weather on a scheduled flight from Boston to the Berlin Airport at Milan.

Testifies on Love

Cleveland, Dec. 1 (AP)—Susan Hayes testified today that Dr. Samuel Sheppard told her he loved her, gave her a ring and said he was "thinking of divorce." These events took place in the latter part of 1953 and in January, 1954. Testifying in a low, often semi-audible voice, and looking straight ahead, the attractive witness replied "yes" to a question as to whether Sheppard "expressed love for you on other occasions." She said Sheppard gave her the ring while they were together in her home in January of this year. She said that the first mention of divorce, she estimated, was in the "early part of 1953."

Generals Will Meet

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Two famous World War 2 generals will meet for the first time here Friday. They are British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Montgomery, returning here today from a tour across the country, said MacArthur is the only high ranking American army officer he has not met during his long military career. The exact time and place of their get-together has not been decided yet.

Ulster Residents

county ,with a 13 per cent gain. Construction pay rolls in that county increased almost fourfold, due in part to the building of the thruway.

Wages and salaries accounted for 66.7 per cent of total income payments in Ulster county, with proprietors' income adding 14.4 per cent, property income 11.9 per cent and other income accounting for 7.1 per cent.

Manufacturing pay rolls provided the source for $29,600,000 of income in the county, an increase of 12.1 per cent over 1952. Trade and service income accounted for $33,300,000 in income in the county, up 6.4 per cent over the previous year.

Construction pay rolls showed the greatest percentage of gain, jumping 48.4 per cent from $3,100,000 in 1952 to $4,600,000 in 1953.

Agricultural income, including net income of farm properties, farm wages and farm rents, dropped 7.8 per cent from $7,700,000 in 1952 to $7,100,000 in 1953.

Federal, state and local governments contributed a total of $17,400,000 in the form of pay of civilian employes and military personnel, pensions, benefit payments of various kinds, but not including interest payments. This was an increase of 5.5 per cent over 1952.

Stevenson Is

upon what he might or might not do in 1956—the next presidential election year.

STEVENSON WILL make no decision concerning any future political undertakings until the time comes, the aide said.

The aide, John Sharon, said Stevenson previously had announced that he planned to take up private law practice again after the first of the year but the nature of the RCA case made it necessary for him to act a bit before that time.

Sharon said that Stevenson so far has agreed to participate only in the preliminary legal moves relating to the Zenith suit and has not decided whether he will take part in the actual trial.

Brown Is Appointed

Albany, Dec. 1 (AP)—Kent H. Brown of Albany, assistant counsel to Gov. Dewey, today was appointed to an $18,500-a-year-post as counsel to the Public Service Commission, effective Dec. 16. Benjamin F. Feinberg, chairman of the PSC, announced the appointment and said Brown will fill a vacancy created when Lawrence E. Walsh resigned as counsel to the commission in September, 1953, to become executive director of the New York Harbor Waterfront Commission. President Eisenhower later appointed Walsh a federal judge. Feinberg, a Republican, has tenure through 1959 as chairman of the PSC. The present lineup of the commission is four Republicans, one Democrat. Brown, 38, is the son of the late State Sen. Adon P. Brown of Leonardsville, Madison county.

Justice Elsworth Opens Session

Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth opened the December trial term of Supreme court this morning at 11 o'clock. A trial and grand jury was in attendance but there were insufficient grand jurors to organize and additional jurors were drawn for attendance Thursday when the Court will name a foreman, acting foreman and the Grand Jury will then proceed to organize.

Due to the Christmas holiday season which will cut short the present trial term, the December term was convened today rather than the first Monday of the month as usually is done.

POWER IN A SMALL PACKAGE—The Mighty Mite, small enough to be airlifted by helicopter, and tough enough to drive through knee-deep mud, is expected to aid our combat military forces. It is considerably lighter than the Jeep, has four-wheel drive and can supposedly do 57 mph. Because of its balance, it can be driven on three wheels or on a flat tire without damage, according to the Detroit, Mich., manufacturer. Mighty Mite can carry a 500-pound payload while towing another 1000 pounds over a rough terrain.

SHE'S SUCCESSFUL—Mrs. Grace L. Olson, right, of Bloomington, Minn., receives the "Most Successful Homemaker of 1954" award from Edward H. Kerber, chairman of the award committee. Mrs. Olson, who was selected from contestants sent in from 41 states, also won a $2500 prize. U. S. Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest, center, was one of the judges who served on the committee, which held the contest in Chicago, Ill.

Command Transfers

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 1 (AP)—Egypt ceased to be the site of Britain's Middle East Headquarters today. The command has been transferred to the Mediterranean island of Cyprus. British officials emphasized that the shift does not mean Cyprus will replace the Suez Canal Zone as Britain's chief Middle East base in the event of war. Under terms of the recent Anglo-Egyptian agreement, the Canal Zone remains available for seven more years.

PILOT OF MISSING PLANE—Capt. W. Peter Carey, 37, of Swampscott, Mass., is pilot of a Northeast Airlines plane missing with seven persons aboard on a flight from Laconia to Berlin, N. H., Tuesday. The flight originated in Boston and was due in Berlin at 11:12 a. m. The airline's Boston office said the plane had fuel to last until about 3 p. m. No word was heard from it at that hour. (AP Wirephoto).

Faint Clues Start Search for Plane

North Conway, N. H., Dec. 1 (AP)—A faint radio message and an unsubstantiated report of sighted wreckage on a mountainside today spurred ground and air search for a Northeast Airlines plane downed yesterday with seven aboard.

The brief radio voice message—transmitted "blind" for anyone who could pick it up—read: "Emergency — down five miles northeast of field hill but - - -." The message then faded out.

At about the same time a report attributed to a civil air patrol pilot said wreckage of a plane had been sighted in the snowy wilderness of Bald Mountain, about five miles northeast of the airliner's Berlin Airport destination. However, the air force search coordinator said it had no word of the reported sighting.

The plane disappeared in snowy weather on a scheduled flight from Boston to the Berlin Airport at Milan.

Testifies on Love

Cleveland, Dec. 1 (AP)—Susan Hayes testified today that Dr. Samuel Sheppard told her he loved her, gave her a ring and said he was "thinking of divorce." These events took place in the latter part of 1953 and in January, 1954. Testifying in a low, often semi-audible voice, and looking straight ahead, the attractive witness replied "yes" to a question as to whether Sheppard "expressed love for you on other occasions." She said Sheppard gave her the ring while they were together in her home in January of this year. She said that the first mention of divorce, she estimated, was in the "early part of 1953."

Generals Will Meet

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Two famous World War 2 generals will meet for the first time here Friday. They are British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Montgomery, returning here today from a tour across the country, said MacArthur is the only high ranking American army officer he has not met during his long military career. The exact time and place of their get-together has not been decided yet.

Ulster Residents

county, with a 13 per cent gain. Construction pay rolls in that county increased almost fourfold, due in part to the building of the thruway.

Wages and salaries accounted for 66.7 per cent of total income payments in Ulster county, with proprietors' income adding 14.4 per cent, property income 11.9 per cent and other income accounting for 7.1 per cent.

Manufacturing pay rolls provided the source for $29,600,000 of income in the county, an increase of 12.1 per cent over 1952. Trade and service income accounted for $33,300,000 in income in the county, up 6.4 per cent over the previous year.

Construction pay rolls showed the greatest percentage of gain, jumping 48.4 per cent from $3,100,000 in 1952 to $4,600,000 in 1953.

Agricultural income, including net income of farm properties, farm wages and farm rents, dropped 7.8 per cent from $7,700,000 in 1952 to $7,100,000 in 1953.

Federal, state and local governments contributed a total of $17,400,000 in the form of pay of civilian employes and military personnel, pensions, benefit payments of various kinds, but not including interest payments. This was an increase of 5.5 per cent over 1952.

Stevenson Is

upon what he might or might not do in 1956—the next presidential election year.

STEVENSON WILL make no decision concerning any future political undertakings until the time comes, the aide said.

The aide, John Sharon, said Stevenson previously had announced that he planned to take up private law practice again after the first of the year but the nature of the RCA case made it necessary for him to act a bit before that time.

Sharon said that Stevenson so far has agreed to participate only in the preliminary legal moves relating to the Zenith suit and has not decided whether he will take part in the actual trial.

Brown Is Appointed

Albany, Dec. 1 (AP)—Kent H. Brown of Albany, assistant counsel to Gov. Dewey, today was appointed to an $18,500-a-year-post as counsel to the Public Service Commission, effective Dec. 16. Benjamin F. Feinberg, chairman of the PSC, announced the appointment and said Brown will fill a vacancy created when Lawrence E. Walsh resigned as counsel to the commission in September, 1953, to become executive director of the New York Harbor Waterfront Commission. President Eisenhower later appointed Walsh a federal judge. Feinberg, a Republican, has tenure through 1959 as chairman of the PSC. The present lineup of the commission is four Republicans, one Democrat. Brown, 38, is the son of the late State Sen. Adon P. Brown of Leonardsville, Madison county.

Justice Elsworth Opens Session

Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth opened the December trial term of Supreme court this morning at 11 o'clock. A trial and grand jury was in attendance but there were insufficient grand jurors to organize and additional jurors were drawn for attendance Thursday when the Court will name a foreman, acting foreman and the Grand Jury will then proceed to organize.

Due to the Christmas holiday season which will cut short the present trial term, the December term was convened today rather than the first Monday of the month as usually is done.

POWER IN A SMALL PACKAGE—The Mighty Mite, small enough to be airlifted by helicopter, and tough enough to drive through knee-deep mud, is expected to aid our combat military forces. It is considerably lighter than the Jeep, has four-wheel drive and can supposedly do 57 mph. Because of its balance, it can be driven on three wheels or on a flat tire without damage, according to the Detroit, Mich., manufacturer. Mighty Mite can carry a 500-pound payload while towing another 1000 pounds over a rough terrain.

SHE'S SUCCESSFUL—Mrs. Grace L. Olson, right, of Bloomington, Minn., receives the "Most Successful Homemaker of 1954" award from Edward H. Kerber, chairman of the award committee. Mrs. Olson, who was selected from contestants sent in from 41 states, also won a $2500 prize. U. S. Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest, center, was one of the judges who served on the committee, which held the contest in Chicago, Ill.

Command Transfers

Cairo, Egypt, Dec. 1 (AP)—Egypt ceased to be the site of Britain's Middle East Headquarters today. The command has been transferred to the Mediterranean island of Cyprus. British officials emphasized that the shift does not mean Cyprus will replace the Suez Canal Zone as Britain's chief Middle East base in the event of war. Under terms of the recent Anglo-Egyptian agreement, the Canal Zone remains available for seven more years.

PILOT OF MISSING PLANE —Capt. W. Peter Carey, 37, of Swampscott, Mass., is pilot of a Northeast Airlines plane missing with seven persons aboard on a flight from Laconia to Berlin, N. H., Tuesday. The flight originated in Boston and was due in Berlin at 11:12 a. m. The airline's Boston office said the plane had fuel to last until about 3 p. m. No word was heard from it at that hour. (AP Wirephoto).

Faint Clues Start Search for Plane

North Conway, N. H., Dec. 1 (AP)—A faint radio message and an unsubstantiated report of sighted wreckage on a mountainside today spurred ground and air search for a Northeast Airlines plane downed yesterday with seven aboard.

The brief radio voice message —transmitted "blind" for anyone who could pick it up—read: "Emergency — down five miles northeast of field hill but - - -." The message then faded out.

At about the same time a report attributed to a civil air patrol pilot said wreckage of a plane had been sighted in the snowy wilderness of Bald Mountain, about five miles northeast of the airliner's Berlin Airport destination. However, the air force search coordinator said it had no word of the reported sighting.

The plane disappeared in snowy weather on a scheduled flight from Boston to the Berlin Airport at Milan.

Testifies on Love

Cleveland, Dec. 1 (AP)—Susan Hayes testified today that Dr. Samuel Sheppard told her he loved her, gave her a ring and said he was "thinking of divorce." These events took place in the latter part of 1953 and in January, 1954. Testifying in a low, often semi-audible voice, and looking straight ahead, the attractive witness replied "yes" to a question as to whether Sheppard "expressed love for you on other occasions." She said Sheppard gave her the ring while they were together in her home in January of this year. She said that the first mention of divorce, she estimated, was in the "early part of 1953."

Generals Will Meet

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Two famous World War 2 generals will meet for the first time here Friday. They are British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery and Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Montgomery, returning here today from a tour across the country, said MacArthur is the only high ranking American army officer he has not met during his long military career. The exact time and place of their get-together has not been decided yet.

county, with a 13 per cent gain. Construction pay rolls in that county increased almost fourfold, due in part to the building of the thruway.

Wages and salaries accounted for 66.7 per cent of total income payments in Ulster county, with proprietors' income adding 14.4 per cent, property income 11.9 per cent and other income accounting for 7.1 per cent.

Manufacturing pay rolls provided the source for $29,600,000 of income in the county, an increase of 12.1 per cent over 1952. Trade and service income accounted for $33,300,000 in income in the county, up 6.4 per cent over the previous year.

Construction pay rolls showed the greatest percentage of gain, jumping 48.4 per cent from $3,100,000 in 1952 to $4,600,000 in 1953.

Agricultural income, including net income of farm properties, farm wages and farm rents, dropped 7.8 per cent from $7,700,000 in 1952 to $7,100,000 in 1953.

Federal, state and local governments contributed a total of $17,400,000 in the form of pay of civilian employes and military personnel, pensions, benefit payments of various kinds, but not including interest payments. This was an increase of 5.5 per cent over 1952.

STEVENSON WILL make no decision concerning any future political undertakings until the time comes, the aide said.

The aide, John Sharon, said Stevenson previously had announced that he planned to take up private law practice again after the first of the year but the nature of the RCA case made it necessary for him to act a bit before that time.

Sharon said that Stevenson so far has agreed to participate only in the preliminary legal moves relating to the Zenith suit and has not decided whether he will take part in the actual trial.

Brown Is Appointed

Albany, Dec. 1 (AP)—Kent H. Brown of Albany, assistant counsel to Gov. Dewey, today was appointed to an $18,500-a-year-post as counsel to the Public Service Commission, effective Dec. 16. Benjamin F. Feinberg, chairman of the PSC, announced the appointment and said Brown will fill a vacancy created when Lawrence E. Walsh resigned as counsel to the commission in September, 1953, to become executive director of the New York Harbor Waterfront Commission. President Eisenhower later appointed Walsh a federal judge. Feinberg, a Republican, has tenure through 1959 as chairman of the PSC. The present lineup of the commission is four Republicans, one Democrat. Brown, 38, is the son of the late State Sen. Adon P. Brown of Leonardsville, Madison county.

EDGAR BERGEN'S pretty wife, Frances, starts a new career for herself in New Orleans on Dec. 7. She'll be a nightclub singer. Evelyn Love Cooper, who's written for Pearl Bailey, Monica Lewis and Dorothy Shay, has written a new act for Mrs. Bergen—show tunes with special lyrics, a ballad and a medley of old songs and special material songs.

She's managed by Barron Polan, who handles the top nightclub gal singers like Jule Wilson and Jane Morgan. "Frances will amaze an awful lot of people," says Polan, "including her husband."

Imagine a wife being able to amaze her husband.

"I think I'll start with a shrimp cocktail," said Rex Thompson. The Sardi waiter bowed to the boy. Rex, who is "going on 12," has a big part in the comedy, "The King of Hearts," which is soon to go on tour after a long and profitable New York run.

"Rex always embarrasses me when we eat out," his mother said. "Hardly eats at home, but in a restaurant he eats like he was starving."

Rex sailed into the shrimp cocktail with abandon, which is almost as handy as a fork.

"Up until I was five," he said, "I never gave much thought to acting. I guess I never thought about sports or anything then, because I was a baby."

Now he gives a polished performance. He has a slight British accent, which is odd because he was born in New York. His mother says it's the result of close association with a British aunt.

"My mother doesn't want me typed as an English boy," Rex said. "So on television I've been an American boy, a French boy, an international boy, a Hindu boy."

He is, apparently, still typed as a boy. The hazards of youth.

"Now," he said, "I'll have a chicken drumstick. And some potatoes and peas."

These were forthcoming.

"Once," he said, "I played a boy on TV who could remember everything he ever read. He had one of those photogenic minds."

Rex likes to use big words. He also likes photography and all sports. He roots for the baseball Giants and Yankees, the pro Giants and Notre Dame in football, the basketball New York Knickerbockers.

"But I guess I'll be an actor always," he says. "I want to go to college first. Columbia. And then either Oxford or Cambridge. I don't know what I will study, but I'll study something.

Rex goes to professional children's school, where he's in the same class with Mary Martin's daughter, Heller Halliday of "Peter Pan." She isn't what you'd call a close friend. "She's just in the class," says Rex, with a going-on-12-and-the-heck-with-girls shrug.

"Waiter," he said, "I'd like an eclaire, please."

Danskammer Has High Rating as Generating Plant

Central Hudson's Danskammer Point electric generating station has been rated the 13th most efficient steam generating plant in the United States for the year 1953, according to a recent report of the Federal Power Commission.

The Danskammer station, located six miles north of Newburgh on the west bank of the Hudson river, received the rating from a survey of 371 plants in the United States. The installed capacity of these plants represents 79 per cent of the total electric utility steam plant capacity at the end of 1953.

STEAM GENERATING plants are those which generate electric power by steam as compared to hydroelectric plants or those which generate electricity by water power. The Federal Power Commission rating is determined by the comparative heat rates of the various stations, that is, the amount of heat, measured in British Thermal Units, required to generate one kilowatt-hour of electricity.

The heat rate of the Danskammer station averaged 9,942 Btu. per kilowatt-hour generated during 1953 compared to 9,794 Btu. for 1952. In 1952 the Danskammer station rated sixth in the FPC report, but 43 plants have been added to the FPC list in the 1953 report, a number of them being new installations and incorporating the latest features in electric power generation.

ONLY 16 STEAM electric generating stations were reported as having heat rates of less than 10,000 Btu. per kilowatt-hour. The Danskammer station has the smallest installed capacity of any of the plants having a heat rate less than 10,000 Btu. This factor is important, according to Central engineers, because the Danskammer station thus rates favorably with larger modern plants that tend to be more efficient because of their size.

The FPC reported noted that the investment costs of new steam-electric generating plants reflect from 75 to 100 per cent general increase in actual construction costs since 1938. The report further noted that in 1938 the coal-burning stations of the electric utility industry required an average of 1.4 pounds of coal per kilowatt-hour. This figure was reduced to 1.06 pounds during 1953. The Danskammer station, one of the nation's most efficient, requires less than three-quarters of a pound of coal per kilowatt-hour generated.

Hudson 'Serious' In Work Survey

Hudson, Dec. 1 (AP)—Averell Harriman's economic surveyors, completing today their three-day study of unemployment in five upstate communities, indicate they will turn in a report appraising the situation as "serious."

That was the word used last night by Richardson Wood, a member of the survey team, in describing the unemployment rate in Schenectady, Amsterdam and the Gloversville-Johnstown area.

The three-man team focuses its attention today on the Hudson area, where current joblessness is estimated unofficially at 1,300, including about 700 left without work when the A. D. Julliard Knitting Mill closed several months ago.

After conferences and an open meeting here, the group planned to return to Schenectady for talks with General Electric Co. officials.

Harriman said in New York city yesterday that he expected to receive the team's report on Thursday or Sunday. The Democratic governor-elect said he would tour next Monday the same cities his surveyors visited.

Wild horses were very common in Europe during the Old Stone Age and formed important part of the diet of the people.

11 Changes Voted In Constitution

Paris, Dec. 1 (AP)—The National Assembly has approved 11 changes in France's constitution. The reforms include measures designed to trim the influence of the Communists and to ease the task of getting new premiers into office.

The vote last night was 412-141, well over the two-thirds margin needed to avoid a national referendum—and further delays — on the amendments. The changes become effective as soon as they are signed by President Rene Coty.

Under the new provisions, a candidate for the premiership will have to get only a simple plurality vote of approval from the Assembly to take office. In the past, a majority of all 627 members was required. Many candidates have been rejected because enough deputies abstained from voting to leave the aspirant short of the required total.

TO TRIM RED influence, the deputies agreed:

1. To eliminate the constitutional requirement that all parties be represented proportionally in the steering committees of both the Assembly and the Council of the Republic, the upper House of the French Parliament.

2. That the immunity of Parliament members to arrest should apply only during actual sessions, instead of all year round as at present.

3. When the Assembly is dissolved, outgoing cabinet will remain in office until a new government is chosen. Up till now, the constitution required that all parties be represented in any interim cabinet formed on a dissolution. Fears have been expressed that the Reds might gain possession of state secrets if they became members of an interim cabinet.

Woman Faces Trial On Money Charges

Montreal, Dec. 1 (AP) — The wife of a British Parliament member today faced a second trial on charges of possessing $1,700 in counterfeit U. S. currency after an all-male jury failed to agree on a verdict.

The judge yesterday set Feb. 1 as the date for again hearing the case against Mrs. Lillian Pursey, 41-year-old wife of Cmdr. Harry Pursey, Labor party member of the Bitish House of Commons for East Hull.

She was released on the same $5,000 bond she posted after her arrest

Mrs. Pursey was taken into custody after trying to give a Montreal merchant counterfeit money for a fur coat during a shopping trip here last Sept. 21. She told the court she had found the money among the effects of her former husband, a Greek attorney who died last year, and did not know it was phoney.

THE MARQUEE

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

EDGAR BERGEN'S pretty wife, Frances, starts a new career for herself in New Orleans on Dec. 7. She'll be a nightclub singer. Evelyn Love Cooper, who's written for Pearl Bailey, Monica Lewis and Dorothy Shay, has written a new act for Mrs. Bergen—show tunes with special lyrics, a ballad and a medley of old songs and special material songs.

She's managed by Barron Polan, who handles the top nightclub gal singers like Jule Wilson and Jane Morgan. "Frances will amaze an awful lot of people," says Polan, "including her husband."

Imagine a wife being able to amaze her husband.

"I think I'll start with a shrimp cocktail," said Rex Thompson. The Sardi waiter bowed to the boy. Rex, who is "going on 12," has a big part in the comedy, "The King of Hearts," which is soon to go on tour after a long and profitable New York run.

"Rex always embarrasses me when we eat out," his mother said. "Hardly eats at home, but in a restaurant he eats like he was starving."

Rex sailed into the shrimp cocktail with abandon, which is almost as handy as a fork.

"Up until I was five," he said, "I never gave much thought to acting. I guess I never thought about sports or anything then, because I was a baby."

Now he gives a polished performance. He has a slight British accent, which is odd because he was born in New York. His mother says it's the result of close association with a British aunt.

"My mother doesn't want me typed as an English boy," Rex said. "So on television I've been an American boy, a French boy, an international boy, a Hindu boy."

He is, apparently, still typed as a boy. The hazards of youth.

"Now," he said, "I'll have a chicken drumstick. And some potatoes and peas."

These were forthcoming.

"Once," he said, "I played a boy on TV who could remember everything he ever read. He had one of those photogenic minds."

Rex likes to use big words. He also likes photography and all sports. He roots for the baseball Giants and Yankees, the pro Giants and Notre Dame in football, the basketball New York Knickerbockers.

"But I guess I'll be an actor always," he says. "I want to go to college first. Columbia. And then either Oxford or Cambridge. I don't know what I will study, but I'll study something.

Rex goes to professional children's school, where he's in the same class with Mary Martin's daughter, Heller Halliday of "Peter Pan." She isn't what you'd call a close friend. "She's just in the class," says Rex, with a going-on-12-and-the-heck-with-girls shrug.

"Waiter," he said, "I'd like an eclaire, please."

The Symphony of the Air—which used to be Arturo Toscanini's NBC Symphony — made a record which they gave to every donor of $10 or more to their fund. They were so swamped with donations that they couldn't handle the shipping of the records. So they tossed a "record wrapping party" at Carnegie Hall. The Hall was crowded with people — people in evening clothes, people in business suits, people in blue jeans — addressing labels, wrapping records, sticking on stamps, helping themselves to the free beer and sandwiches.

All this, and tax deductible, too.

"Wedding Breakfast" is New York's newest play. There are only four characters. Two boys and two girls. The general idea is to get them married by the time the curtain falls. It all works out, and there are a lot of laughs and some fine performances by Lee Grant, Harvey Lembeck and Virginia Vincent.

It's nice, for a change, to see a play about ordinary people like you and me. Well, like me, anyhow.

Danskammer Has High Rating as Generating Plant

Central Hudson's Danskammer Point electric generating station has been rated the 13th most efficient steam generating plant in the United States for the year 1953, according to a recent report of the Federal Power Commission.

The Danskammer station, located six miles north of Newburgh on the west bank of the Hudson river, received the rating from a survey of 371 plants in the United States. The installed capacity of these plants represents 79 per cent of the total electric utility steam plant capacity at the end of 1953.

STEAM GENERATING plants are those which generate electric power by steam as compared to hydroelectric plants or those which generate electricity by water power. The Federal Power Commission rating is determined by the comparative heat rates of the various stations, that is, the amount of heat, measured in British Thermal Units, required to generate one kilowatt-hour of electricity.

The heat rate of the Danskammer station averaged 9,942 Btu. per kilowatt-hour generated during 1953 compared to 9,794 Btu. for 1952. In 1952 the Danskammer station rated sixth in the FPC report, but 43 plants have been added to the FPC list in the 1953 report, a number of them being new installations and incorporating the latest features in electric power generation.

ONLY 16 STEAM electric generating stations were reported as having heat rates of less than 10,000 Btu. per kilowatt-hour. The Danskammer station has the smallest installed capacity of any of the plants having a heat rate less than 10,000 Btu. This factor is important, according to Central engineers, because the Danskammer station thus rates favorably with larger modern plants that tend to be more efficient because of their size.

The FPC reported noted that the investment costs of new steam-electric generating plants reflect from 75 to 100 per cent general increase in actual construction costs since 1938. The report further noted that in 1938 the coal-burning stations of the electric utility industry required an average of 1.4 pounds of coal per kilowatt-hour. This figure was reduced to 1.06 pounds during 1953. The Danskammer station, one of the nation's most efficient, requires less than three-quarters of a pound of coal per kilowatt-hour generated.

Hudson 'Serious' In Work Survey

Hudson, Dec. 1 (AP)—Averell Harriman's economic surveyors, completing today their three-day study of unemployment in five upstate communities, indicate they will turn in a report appraising the situation as "serious."

That was the word used last night by Richardson Wood, a member of the survey team, in describing the unemployment rate in Schenectady, Amsterdam and the Gloversville-Johnstown area.

The three-man team focuses its attention today on the Hudson area, where current joblessness is estimated unofficially at 1,300, including about 700 left without work when the A. D. Julliard Knitting Mill closed several months ago.

After conferences and an open meeting here, the group planned to return to Schenectady for talks with General Electric Co. officials.

Harriman said in New York city yesterday that he expected to receive the team's report on Thursday or Sunday. The Democratic governor-elect said he would tour next Monday the same cities his surveyors visited.

11 Changes Voted In Constitution

Paris, Dec. 1 (AP)—The National Assembly has approved 11 changes in France's constitution. The reforms include measures designed to trim the influence of the Communists and to ease the task of getting new premiers into office.

The vote last night was 412-141, well over the two-thirds margin needed to avoid a national referendum—and further delays — on the amendments. The changes become effective as soon as they are signed by President Rene Coty.

Under the new provisions, a candidate for the premiership will have to get only a simple plurality vote of approval from the Assembly to take office. In the past, a majority of all 627 members was required. Many candidates have been rejected because enough deputies abstained from voting to leave the aspirant short of the required total.

TO TRIM RED influence, the deputies agreed:

1. To eliminate the constitutional requirement that all parties be represented proportionally in the steering committees of both the Assembly and the Council of the Republic, the upper House of the French Parliament.

2. That the immunity of Parliament members to arrest should apply only during actual sessions, instead of all year round as at present.

3. When the Assembly is dissolved, outgoing cabinet will remain in office until a new government is chosen. Up till now, the constitution required that all parties be represented in any interim cabinet formed on a dissolution. Fears have been expressed that the Reds might gain possession of state secrets if they became members of an interim cabinet.

Woman Faces Trial On Money Charges

Montreal, Dec. 1 (AP) — The wife of a British Parliament member today faced a second trial on charges of possessing $1,700 in counterfeit U. S. currency after an all-male jury failed to agree on a verdict.

The judge yesterday set Feb. 1 as the date for again hearing the case against Mrs. Lillian Pursey, 41-year-old wife of Cmdr. Harry Pursey, Labor party member of the Bitish House of Commons for East Hull.

She was released on the same $5,000 bond she posted after her arrest

Mrs. Pursey was taken into custody after trying to give a Montreal merchant counterfeit money for a fur coat during a shopping trip here last Sept. 21. She told the court she had found the money among the effects of her former husband, a Greek attorney who died last year, and did not know it was phoney.

Ominous Disease Spreads Over Spiritual Health of U.S.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

Miami, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—An ominous "spiritual disease" seems to be spreading, a prominent physician declared today, and a change of heart is needed to fight it.

"The physical and mental health of our people is relatively good, but there is evidence of spiritual disease," Dr. Julian P. Price, pediatrician of Florence, S. C., told the American Medical Association (AMA).

HE SAID the signs include "laxness of morals in our national government in recent years . . . the hold which organized vice has upon legislative and social life . . . dishonesty and corruption in various state and local governments.

"The increase in crime in our teen age populaton . . . the evidence of bribery and unethical conduct in amateur athletics . . . the effort made by many to cheat on their income tax.

"The mad search for pleasure which causes our people to spend four times as much for alcoholic beverages as they do for religious and welfare activities . . . the inroads which the doctrine of atheistic communism is making upon the thinking of some of our citizens."

DR. PRICE, a member of the AMA's board of trustees, declared the only remedy "lies in a change of heart."

"It is my sincere belief that the greatest need of our country today—and of our profession—is a spiritual rebirth, a return to God and His eternal principles. And the rebirth must come in the heart of the average citizen—and in the average doctor of medicine."

He called upon doctors to remember that they are men and citizens as well as holders of MD degrees, that they should be active in community life, particularly in education, in work for boys and girls, in charitable and philanthropic organizations.

"The basic unit of a community is the family—and whether the community is strong or weak, energetic or lazy, moral or immoral, will depend to a large degree upon the type home which its families have built," Dr. Price said.

MAGIC EYE BEATS BULLETS—An electronic device that beats enemy bullets to the punch will soon help protect Air Force jet planes from being exploded in mid-air. The "explosion-suppressor" can "see" a 2000-mph bullet and "hit back" before it travels 11 inches into the airplane. Within 300 millionths of a second after the bullet hits, the gadget triggers a chemical mist that smothers fires or explosions before they get seriously started. In the night test above, incendiary machine-gun bullets (white streaks) are blasting at two fighter-bomber wings loaded with jet fuel. Wing at left is being destroyed as fuel blazes. Wing at right, protected by the explosion-suppressor, takes the same bullets without serious damage. This test was made on the gun range of Republic Aviation Corporation at Farmingdale, N. Y., where the device was developed.

Savings Increase

Savings account balances in the state's 237 savings associations increased $23,964,979 in October, a gain 22 per cent greater than that of a year ago. The annual rate of gain for the 12-month period ended October 31 was 15.3 per cent, down only three-tenths of a percentage point when compared with the same preceding period, according to the Savings Association League of New York State. "Savings in these institutions at the end of October pushed up to a new peak of $2,141,386,701," said David Ford, league president. "The slight drop in the annual rate of gain is consistent with national figures, indicating a willingness on the part of even the thriftiest consumers to purchase again, now that prices are stabilizing."

Worker Killed On Thruway

Suffern, Dec. 1 (AP) — Frank Garger, 28, a White Plains civil engineer working on state thruway construction, was run over and killed yesterday by a 10-ton dump truck.

Garger, an employe of Clark and Rapuano, consulting engineers, was operating a surveying instrument on a section of the Suffern interchange when the accident occurred.

Garger, who lived at 243 Hillside avenue, White Plains, leaves a wife and three children.

Dairymen Seek Freeze on Price

Utica, Dec. 1 (AP)—Four major dairymen's organizations in the New York milkshed will try again to win a winter-month freeze on the price of fluid milk, the Utica Press said today.

The newspaper said the four cooperatives would request an immediate meeting with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to present—for the third time—arguments for pegging the price at the November level.

THE PRESS SAID its information came from a source at State College, Pa., where 100 directors of cooperatives supplying the New York metropolitan area yesterday ended a two-day conference.

The source, who declined to be named, was quoted as saying he spoke for the Dairymen's League Cooperative, the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Assn., the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency and the Mutual Federation of Independent Producers.

Meanwhile, the cooperatives announced a change in the date and site of a meeting to discuss recommendations of the New York milkshed committee, headed by Everett Case, president of Colgate University.

The meeting, originally scheduled for Dec. 15 in Utica, will be held Dec. 8 in Syracuse. The original date conflicted with the American Farm Bureau meeting in New York city.

Turn to Formosa

Taipeh, Formosa (AP)—Overseas Chinese have sent 1,600 of their children to Formosa to school this year, a record number. School authorities say many still go back to the mainland because of the scarcity of schools in Asia for overseas Chinese. Most of the students coming here said they were approached by Communist agents who offered them various inducements to go to Red China.

Advent at Immanuel

The season of Advent will be observed in Immanual Evangelical Church, Livingston street, by a series of midweek services to be held Wednesdays at 7:30 p. m. The first service will be held tonight. The first meditation will be taken by the Rev. Ernest L. Witte from the prophecy of Isaiah, the theme being The Lord Remembers. The choir will be heard in a seasonal anthem under the direction of the organist and choir director Fay Ronald Richert. The public is invited to attend.

Ominous Disease Spreads Over Spiritual Health of U.S.

(AP Science Reporter)

Miami, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—An ominous "spiritual disease" seems to be spreading, a prominent physician declared today, and a change of heart is needed to fight it.

"The physical and mental health of our people is relatively good, but there is evidence of spiritual disease," Dr. Julian P. Price, pediatrician of Florence, S. C., told the American Medical Association (AMA).

HE SAID the signs include "laxness of morals in our national government in recent years . . . the hold which organized vice has upon legislative and social life . . . dishonesty and corruption in various state and local governments.

"The increase in crime in our teen age populaton . . . the evidence of bribery and unethical conduct in amateur athletics . . . the effort made by many to cheat on their income tax.

"The mad search for pleasure which causes our people to spend four times as much for alcoholic beverages as they do for religious and welfare activities . . . the inroads which the doctrine of atheistic communism is making upon the thinking of some of our citizens."

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

To Locate Booth At Playhouse Site

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — The Woodstock Business Association held a special meeting last Friday night at Miss Mary's for the purpose of discussing a project which concerns the erection of an information center in Woodstock.

Two sites had been offered; one on the grounds of the Playhouse opposite the junction of Routes 375 and 212. Some members felt at a previous meeting that an "in-town" location would be more suitable.

A committee consisting of Harry Alpern, Al Rosen and Paul Fenster had been appointed to survey the possibility of an in-town location. The location most favored for the village by some of the members were the premises presently occupied by the Townsman which they plan to leave shortly for another location.

The committee reported on the village location and a discussion followed. Those in favor of the Playhouse location pointed out that there would be insufficient parking space and further pointed out that even now, in the off season, it is difficult to find parking space. The Playhouse would have ample parking space.

After a lengthy discussion the Playhouse site was chosen. A committee consisting of Warren Hutty, Mordy Berkowitz, Floyd Simmons and Joseph Holdridge, Sr., was appointed.

The proposed building will be 12 by 24 feet with a porch of almost similar size. It will face the road leading into town and a paid attendant will be on duty. On the rear wall there will be a number of cases in which members of the association will place displays of merchandise or call attention to their services. The attendant will also answer inquiries by sending out the brochure, Invitation to Woodstock, published and distributed by the association. This will serve to build up a mailing list which will be available at all times to members of the association. Other projects will be announced in the near future. A spokesman for the group said it is the association's desire to represent Woodstock as a year-round community and to do everything possible to bring people to Woodstock. Membership is invited from all who are in a business or profession in Woodstock.

Christmas Operetta Will Be Presented

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — The Wonderful Wishbox, a Christmas operetta for children of all ages, will be presented at the Woodstock School on December 21 at 8 p. m. The libretto for the operetta was written by Lydia Thomas and the music by Antonio Lora. Miss Mary Harris, music teacher at the school is producing the show by special arrangement with Row, Peterson and Company, Evanston and White Plains.

The Wonderful Wishbox tells the story of Mary Lou, Bob and Mother Bates. They have just moved to a strange town and it is Christmas Eve. The children are sad because their father and friends will not be with them on Christmas. They tell their mother they can not possibly be friends with any of the children in their new school because they are from foreign families and they are not like Bob and Mary Lou or any of their friends. Their mother tries to comfort them and tell them that the others are not really so different if they would only give them a chance. She tells them they will look in the encyclopedia the next day and see if they can begin to understand other people's customs.

During the night, the Wee Folks pay the Bates family a visit. They had been listening at the windows, cracks and doors to the conversation and want to do something to help the children. They decide to turn Bob's radio into a wishbox for Christmas and let Bob, Mary Lou and Mother wish for whatever they want to.

The next morning Bob turns on his radio and a voice tells him about the radio being a wishbox for the day. Of course, the children wish for their father and friends and Mrs. Bates wishes for the people of foreign lands to come in. The children from Bob's and Mary Lou's class come and explain how Christmas is celebrated in their country.

The whole operetta takes place in the Bates living room and the time is from Christmas Eve until Christmas Day.

The Wee Folks will be played by the members of the second, third and fourth grade chorus with Marcia Underhill and Jay Van Wagenen sing the solos.

The other members of the cast: Mother Bates, Virginia Martin; Father Bates, Jimmy Cousins; Voice of Wishbox, Waune Underhill; Grandma, Freida Sandner; Mr. and Mrs. Bjornson (Norwegian) Danny Perlman and Barbara Longyear; Mr. and Mrs. Stoll (Dutch) Cappy Foster and Judy Rapp; Mr. and Mrs. Gonzales (Mexican) Paul De Lisio and Selma Dendy; Mr. and Mrs. Mangelli (Italian) Robert Foster and Anette Haeussler; Mary Lou Bates, Edith Heckeroth; Bob Bates, Edwin Shults; Hilda Bjornson, Debby Leshen; Hans Stoll, Allen Lund; Pedro Gonzales, Richard Ostrander; Lucia Mangelli, Marie Klippel; Jon Bjornson, Paul Stlpinski; Martje Stoll, Sheila Russell; Marie Gonzales, Carol Hefty; Vottorio Mangelli, Donald Davis; Great Bjornson, Priscilla Melville.

The entire production is under the direction of Joseph Gandino, art teacher and Miss Harris.

WSCS Party Listed

Woodstock, Nov. 30—The annual Christmas party of the WSCS of Wittenberg will be held Tuesday, Dec. 14, with a turkey supper at 6 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Nelson Shultis. It was decided at the last meeting of the WSCS that gifts would be sent to the men in service.

Peper's Wins Three

Woodstock, Nov. 30—Bowling in the Saugerties B. League last Wednesday night Peper's Garage won all three games against Snyder's Refrigerators. Although the second game was tied at 794, Peper's won in the playoff. Peper's scored 713-794-900 and Snyder's 711-794-814 with handicaps of 3-27-24.

Individual scores for Snyder's were: R. Snyder 146-156-181; R. Wasserback 156-157; R. Finger 122-158; J. Wasserback 158-134; D. Minckler 146-153; J. McDonough 136-151; R. Thompson 168-143.

Individual scores for Peper's were: A. Peper 167-181-180; C. Nicponski 127-142-226; C. Harder 138-169-178; E. Snyder 163-156-159; J. Raymond 118-146-157.

Nursery Rummage Sale

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — Residents are reminded that the Tinker Street Co-operative Nursery School will hold a rummage sale Saturday opening at 10 a. m. at the Art Gallery. Those who have articles to contribute may leave them at the gallery during mornings this week or they may call the co-chairmen to have them picked up. The co-chairmen who will arrange for pickups are Mrs. Barbara Moncure, Woodstock, 6843 or Mrs. George St. Pierre, Woodstock 2845.

Christmas Premiere Musical to Be Given

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — The premiere performance of an original Christmas musical play of the Woodstock Recreation Center, Wednesday, Dec. 29, at the Woodstock School at 8:15 p. m. The story of the play, Full of Wonder, is by Judy Lund with lyrics by Judy Lund and Alexander Semmler. The second portion of the program will include a concert of Christmas music featuring new and unusual Christmas carols, solos, and scenes from the opera Hansel and Gretel by Humperdinck. The concert will conclude with the only familiar carol in the group, Holy Night.

The concert committee met with Mr. Semmler, Kenneth Wilson, chairman of the Woodstock Recreation Committee, Joseph Fitzsimmons, supervisor of Woodstock, and Leo Bernache who will sing a role in the play, on Monday night at the town clerk's office to discuss details of the production. Serving on the concert committee are Mrs. David Carlson, chairman; Mrs. Milton Wagenfohr, Mrs. Donald Jackson, Mrs. Benjamin Webster, Miss Anita Stallforth and Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Thibaut, Jr.

Mrs. David Carlson is chairman of the ticket committee. Sponsors who would like to obtain groups of student tickets may do so at the town clerk's office.

Carrying on the tradition established last September at the carnival given at the recreation field tickets for this winter's performance will feature the popular silk screen designs by such Woodstock artists as John Pike, John Striebel, Dave Huffine, Carl Hubbell, Anton Refregier, Marianne Mecklem, Edward Chavez and Ethel Magafan.

Miss Anita Stallforth and Miss Marileen Webster will be in charge of the box office, and Mrs. Milton Wagenfohr is in charge of posters and program design, assisted by Miss Betsy Wagenfohr.

Guild Shop Angel Arrives for Season

Woodstock, Nov. 30—Christmas has come to the Woodstock Guild Shop, with the opening of the annual holiday fair Friday. Early in the day Celeste, Woodstock's own golden angel, made her customary descent to the roof of the Guild Shop porch, where she will remain throughout the Christmas season bowing with benign grace over the village green.

The Guild's Christmas tree is glittering with ornaments on the glassed-in porch, and inside the two shop rooms offer an enticing new selection of gifts in profusion.

Startlingly new this year are the exquisitely painted linen table cloths, adorned with Christmas motifs by Mrs. Charles Walden of Stone Ridge, a new consignor who also designs creations for Mosse, the famous linen house in New York.

Edith W. Temple is offering a striking line of necklaces using arrow heads for the motif, as well as other unusual designs. In the same jewelry display are Mrs. Richard O. Gruvers lovely rhythmic silver pins and earrings. One set of her earrings is distinguished by a sweeping upward line guaranteed to give the wearer a pixie lilt. Konrad Cramer's metal leaf necklaces strung on thread-fine wire also are unique.

Niki Petersham has also used the leaf motif to advantage in his collection of pastel-hued ceramic ash trays, any combination of which would make, an ideal gift for a busy hostess. In ceramics are a pair of handsome and massive square candle holders, complete with out-sized candles and a rich deep green by Jessie Stag. Terry's ceramic and wood trays again take the spotlight.

An amusing gift is to be found in Wallingford's two maps, one a New Yorker's idea of the United States and the other created from the Bostonian's point of view.

Never to be overlooked are the wonderful new books by Woodstock authors, fine woven pieces, gay children's clothing, rugs, herbs, jellies and conserves, Christmas cards and ornaments. It's simply Christmas at the Guild Shop.

To Hold Oyster Stew

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — The trustees of the Wittenberg Methodist Church will hold an oyster stew and baked ham supper in the church hall Saturday starting at 5:30 p. m. and continuing until all are served. Tickets may be obtained at the door or from Nelson Shultis, chairman, Kenneth Vredenburg or Stanley Shultis.

P-TA to Hear Pastor

Classes in Dancing Held Each Saturday

Woodstock, Nov. 30—Dancing classes under the direction of Ailene Cameron of Kingston, began at the Woodstock School last Saturday afternoon, featuring lessons in ballet, Mexican and other dance forms. The class was organized through the efforts of Mrs. Jerry Jerominek, who to date has enrolled 20 pupils. The classes will continue weekly on a year round schedule.

Known professionally as Ailene Berthiaume, Mrs. Cameron was a pupil of the American Ballet School, and also studied with Dilzak, Fokine and Sholar in New York. She has presented recitals in the Barbizon Plaza, the Little Carnegie Hall and the Times Theatre in New York.

Trap Shoot Scheduled

Woodstock, Nov. 30—A trap shoot beginning at 1 p. m. at the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club will be held Sunday, Dec. 5, to be followed by a cafeteria supper sponsored by the ladies auxiliary of the club.

Troop Thanks Post For Gift of Flags

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — At a meeting of American Legion Post 1026 last Wednesday night at the Legion Hall a letter of thanks was read which had been received from Roy Butz, scoutmaster of Troop 34. Butz expressed his thanks to the post for the two American flags given to the troop by the post.

A special meeting of the building committee was held on the same evening and it was decided to install a new boiler and oil burner and accessories to the building. It was unanimously passed.

Repairs to the building have begun under contract to Frank Bradley, and a pair of doors have been obtained for the garage. Painting of the building inside and out will be done by Joseph Holdridge, Jr., and the floors will be included.

A sum of $5 was contributed to the Christmas Seal fund.

To Locate Booth At Playhouse Site

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — The Woodstock Business Association held a special meeting last Friday night at Miss Mary's for the purpose of discussing a project which concerns the erection of an information center in Woodstock.

Two sites had been offered; one on the grounds of the Playhouse opposite the junction of Routes 375 and 212. Some members felt at a previous meeting that an "in-town" location would be more suitable.

A committee consisting of Harry Alpern, Al Rosen and Paul Fenster had been appointed to survey the possibility of an in-town location. The location most favored for the village by some of the members were the premises presently occupied by the Townsman which they plan to leave shortly for another location.

The committee reported on the village location and a discussion followed. Those in favor of the Playhouse location pointed out that there would be insufficient parking space and further pointed out that even now, in the off season, it is difficult to find parking space. The Playhouse would have ample parking space.

After a lengthy discussion the Playhouse site was chosen. A committee consisting of Warren Hutty, Mordy Berkowitz, Floyd Simmons and Joseph Holdridge, Sr., was appointed.

The proposed building will be 12 by 24 feet with a porch of almost similar size. It will face the road leading into town and a paid attendant will be on duty. On the rear wall there will be a number of cases in which members of the association will place displays of merchandise or call attention to their services. The attendant will also answer inquiries by sending out the brochure, Invitation to Woodstock, published and distribluted by the association. This will serve to build up a mailing list which will be available at all times to members of the association. Other projects will be announced in the near future. A spokesman for the group said it is the association's desire to represent Woodstock as a year-round community and to do everything possible to bring people to Woodstock. Membership is invited from all who are in a business or profession in Woodstock.

Christmas Operetta Will Be Presented

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — The Wonderful Wishbox, a Christmas operetta for children of all ages, will be presented at the Woodstock School on December 21 at 8 p. m. The libretto for the operetta was written by Lydia Thomas and the music by Antonio Lora. Miss Mary Harris, music teacher at the school is producing the show by special arrangement with Row, Peterson and Company, Evanston and White Plains.

The Wonderful Wishbox tells the story of Mary Lou, Bob and Mother Bates. They have just moved to a strange town and it is Christmas Eve. The children are sad because their father and friends will not be with them on Christmas. They tell their mother they can not possibly be friends with any of the children in their new school because they are from foreign families and they are not like Bob and Mary Lou or any of their friends. Their mother tries to comfort them and tell them that the others are not really so different if they would only give them a chance. She tells them they will look in the encyclopedia the next day and see if they can begin to understand other people's customs.

During the night, the Wee Folks pay the Bates family a visit. They had been listening at the windows, cracks and doors to the conversation and want to do something to help the children. They decide to turn Bob's radio into a wishbox for Christmas and let Bob, Mary Lou and Mother wish for whatever they want to.

The next morning Bob turns on his radio and a voice tells him about the radio being a wishbox for the day. Of course, the children wish for their father and friends and Mrs. Bates wishes for the people of foreign lands to come in. The children from Bob's and Mary Lou's class come and explain how Christmas is celebrated in their country.

The whole operetta takes place in the Bates living room and the time is from Christmas Eve until Christmas Day.

The Wee Folks will be played by the members of the second, third and fourth grade chorus with Marcia Underhill and Jay Van Wagenen sing the solos.

The other members of the cast: Mother Bates, Virginia Martin; Father Bates, Jimmy Cousins; Voice of Wishbox, Waune Underhill; Grandma, Freida Sandner; Mr. and Mrs. Bjornson (Norwegian) Danny Perlman and Barbara Longyear; Mr. and Mrs. Stoll (Dutch) Cappy Foster and Judy Rapp; Mr. and Mrs. Gonzales (Mexican) Paul De Lisio and Selma Dendy; Mr. and Mrs. Mangelli (Italian) Robert Foster and Anette Haeussler; Mary Lou Bates, Edith Heckeroth; Bob Bates, Edwin Shults; Hilda Bjornson, Debby Leshen; Hans Stoll, Allen Lund; Pedro Gonzales, Richard Ostrander; Lucia Mangelli, Marie Klippel; Jon Bjornson, Paul Stlpinski; Martje Stoll, Sheila Russell; Marie Gonzales, Carol Hefty; Vottorio Mangelli, Donald Davis; Great Bjornson, Priscilla Melville.

The entire production is under the direction of Joseph Gandino, art teacher and Miss Harris.

On the rear wall there will be a number of cases in which members of the association will place displays of merchandise or call attention to their services. The attendant will also answer inquiries by sending out the brochure, Invitation to Woodstock, published and distributed by the association. This will serve to build up a mailing list which will be available at all times to members of the association. Other projects will be announced in the near future. A spokesman for the group said it is the association's desire to represent Woodstock as a year-round community and to do everything possible to bring people to Woodstock. Membership is invited from all who are in a business or profession in Woodstock.

Christmas Operetta Will Be Presented

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — The Wonderful Wishbox, a Christmas operetta for children of all ages, will be presented at the Woodstock School on December 21 at 8 p. m. The libretto for the operetta was written by Lydia Thomas and the music by Antonio Lora. Miss Mary Harris, music teacher at the school is producing the show by special arrangement with Row, Peterson and Company, Evanston and White Plains.

The Wonderful Wishbox tells the story of Mary Lou, Bob and Mother Bates. They have just moved to a strange town and it is Christmas Eve. The children are sad because their father and friends will not be with them on Christmas. They tell their mother they can not possibly be friends with any of the children in their new school because they are from foreign families and they are not like Bob and Mary Lou or any of their friends. Their mother tries to comfort them and tell them that the others are not really so different if they would only give them a chance. She tells them they will look in the encyclopedia the next day and see if they can begin to understand other people's customs.

During the night, the Wee Folks pay the Bates family a visit. They had been listening at the windows, cracks and doors to the conversation and want to do something to help the children. They decide to turn Bob's radio into a wishbox for Christmas and let Bob, Mary Lou and Mother wish for whatever they want to.

The next morning Bob turns on his radio and a voice tells him about the radio being a wishbox for the day. Of course, the children wish for their father and friends and Mrs. Bates wishes for the people of foreign lands to come in. The children from Bob's and Mary Lou's class come and explain how Christmas is celebrated in their country.

The whole operetta takes place in the Bates living room and the time is from Christmas Eve until Christmas Day.

The Wee Folks will be played by the members of the second, third and fourth grade chorus with Marcia Underhill and Jay Van Wagenen sing the solos.

The other members of the cast: Mother Bates, Virginia Martin; Father Bates, Jimmy Cousins; Voice of Wishbox, Waune Underhill; Grandma, Freida Sandner; Mr. and Mrs. Bjornson (Norwegian) Danny Perlman and Barbara Longyear; Mr. and Mrs. Stoll (Dutch) Cappy Foster and Judy Rapp; Mr. and Mrs. Gonzales (Mexican) Paul De Lisio and Selma Dendy; Mr. and Mrs. Mangelli (Italian) Robert Foster and Anette Haeussler; Mary Lou Bates, Edith Heckeroth; Bob Bates, Edwin Shults; Hilda Bjornson, Debby Leshen; Hans Stoll, Allen Lund; Pedro Gonzales, Richard Ostrander; Lucia Mangelli, Marie Klippel; Jon Bjornson, Paul Stlpinski; Martje Stoll, Sheila Russell; Marie Gonzales, Carol Hefty; Vottorio Mangelli, Donald Davis; Great Bjornson, Priscilla Melville.

The entire production is under the direction of Joseph Gandino, art teacher and Miss Harris.

WSCS Party Listed

Woodstock, Nov. 30—The annual Christmas party of the WSCS of Wittenberg will be held Tuesday, Dec. 14, with a turkey supper at 6 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Nelson Shultis. It was decided at the last meeting of the WSCS that gifts would be sent to the men in service.

Peper's Wins Three

Woodstock, Nov. 30—Bowling in the Saugerties B. League last Wednesday night Peper's Garage won all three games against Snyder's Refrigerators. Although the second game was tied at 794, Peper's won in the playoff. Peper's scored 713-794-900 and Snyder's 711-794-814 with handicaps of 3-27-24.

Individual scores for Snyder's were: R. Snyder 146-156-181; R. Wasserback 156-157; R. Finger 122-158; J. Wasserback 158-134; D. Minckler 146-153; J. McDonough 136-151; R. Thompson 168-143.

Individual scores for Peper's were: A. Peper 167-181-180; C. Nicponski 127-142-226; C. Hardner 138-169-178; E. Snyder 163-156-159; J. Raymond 118-146-157.

Nursery Rummage Sale

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — Residents are reminded that the Tinker Street Co-operative Nursery School will hold a rummage sale Saturday opening at 10 a. m. at the Art Gallery. Those who have articles to contribute may leave them at the gallery during mornings this week or they may call the co-chairmen to have them picked up. The co-chairmen who will arrange for pickups are Mrs. Barbara Moncure, Woodstock, 6843 or Mrs. George St. Pierre, Woodstock 2845.

Christmas Premiere Musical to Be Given

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — The premiere performance of an original Christmas musical play of the Woodstock Recreation Center, Wednesday, Dec. 29, at the Woodstock School at 8:15 p. m. The story of the play, Full of Wonder, is by Judy Lund with lyrics by Judy Lund and Alexander Semmler. The second portion of the program will include a concert of Christmas music featuring new and unusual Christmas carols, solos, and scenes from the opera Hansel and Gretel by Humperdinck. The concert will conclude with the only familiar carol in the group, Holy Night.

The concert committee met with Mr. Semmler, Kenneth Wilson, chairman of the Woodstock Recreation Committee, Joseph Fitzsimmons, supervisor of Woodstock, and Leo Bernache who will sing a role in the play, on Monday night at the town clerk's office to discuss details of the production. Serving on the concert committee are Mrs. David Carlson, chairman; Mrs. Milton Wagenfohr, Mrs. Donald Jackson, Mrs. Benjamin Webster, Miss Anita Stallforth and Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Thibaut, Jr.

Mrs. David Carlson is chairman of the ticket committee. Sponsors who would like to obtain groups of student tickets may do so at the town clerk's office.

Carrying on the tradition established last September at the carnival given at the recreation field tickets for this winter's performance will feature the popular silk screen designs by such Woodstock artists as John Pike, John Striebel, Dave Huffine, Carl Hubbell, Anton Refregier, Marianne Mecklem, Edward Chavez and Ethel Magafan.

Miss Anita Stallforth and Miss Marileen Webster will be in charge of the box office, and Mrs. Milton Wagenfohr is in charge of posters and program design, assisted by Miss Betsy Wagenfohr.

Guild Shop Angel Arrives for Season

Woodstock, Nov. 30—Christmas has come to the Woodstock Guild Shop, with the opening of the annual holiday fair Friday. Early in the day Celeste, Woodstock's own golden angel, made her customary descent to the roof of the Guild Shop porch, where she will remain throughout the Christmas season bowing with benign grace over the village green.

The Guild's Christmas tree is glittering with ornaments on the glassed-in porch, and inside the two shop rooms offer an enticing new selection of gifts in profusion.

Startlingly new this year are the exquisitely painted linen table cloths, adorned with Christmas motifs by Mrs. Charles Walden of Stone Ridge, a new consignor who also designs creations for Mosse, the famous linen house in New York.

Edith W. Temple is offering a striking line of necklaces using arrow heads for the motif, as well as other unusual designs. In the same jewelry display are Mrs. Richard O. Gruvers lovely rhythmic silver pins and earrings. One set of her earrings is distinguished by a sweeping upward line guaranteed to give the wearer a pixie lilt. Konrad Cramer's metal leaf necklaces strung on thread-fine wire also are unique.

Niki Petersham has also used the leaf motif to advantage in his collection of pastel-hued ceramic ash trays, any combination of which would make an ideal gift for a busy hostess. In ceramics are a pair of handsome and massive square candle holders, complete with out-sized candles and a rich deep green by Jessie Stag. Terry's ceramic and wood trays again take the spotlight.

An amusing gift is to be found in Wallingford's two maps, one a New Yorker's idea of the United States and the other created from the Bostonian's point of view.

Never to be overlooked are the wonderful new books by Woodstock authors, fine woven pieces, gay children's clothing, rugs, herbs, jellies and conserves, Christmas cards and ornaments. It's simply Christmas at the Guild Shop.

To Hold Oyster Stew

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — The trustees of the Wittenberg Methodist Church will hold an oyster stew and baked ham supper in the church hall Saturday starting at 5:30 p. m. and continuing until all are served. Village Notes

Woodstock, Nov. 30—Lee Marvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lamont Marvin of Bearsville, starred with Eva Marie Saint in the General Electric Theatre TV play, Mr. Death And The Red-Headed Woman, Sunday night on CBS.

Mrs. Anne Miller entertained at a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Frank Lynch. Following a turkey salad luncheon a card party of four tables was played. At 5:30 friends from Kingston and Saugerties joined the birthday party when the birthday cake was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Shultis and their two daughters were the guests Thanksgiving Day of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bailey of Wittenberg.

Classes in Dancing Held Each Saturday

Woodstock, Nov. 30—Dancing classes under the direction of Ailene Cameron of Kingston, began at the Woodstock School last Saturday afternoon, featuring lessons in ballet, Mexican and other dance forms. The class was organized through the efforts of Mrs. Jerry Jerominek, who to date has enrolled 20 pupils. The classes will continue weekly on a year round schedule.

Known professionally as Ailene Berthiaume, Mrs. Cameron was a pupil of the American Ballet School, and also studied with Dilzak, Fokine and Sholar in New York. She has presented recitals in the Barbizon Plaza, the Little Carnegie Hall and the Times Theatre in New York.

Trap Shoot Scheduled

Woodstock, Nov. 30—A trap shoot beginning at 1 p. m. at the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club will be held Sunday, Dec. 5, to be followed by a cafeteria supper sponsored by the ladies auxiliary of the club.

Troop Thanks Post For Gift of Flags

Woodstock, Nov. 30 — At a meeting of American Legion Post 1026 last Wednesday night at the Legion Hall a letter of thanks was read which had been received from Roy Butz, scoutmaster of Troop 34. Butz expressed his thanks to the post for the two American flags given to the troop by the post.

A special meeting of the building committee was held on the same evening and it was decided to install a new boiler and oil burner and accessories to the building. It was unanimously passed.

Repairs to the building have begun under contract to Frank Bradley, and a pair of doors have been obtained for the garage. Painting of the building inside and out will be done by Joseph Holdridge, Jr., and the floors will be included.

A sum of $5 was contributed to the Christmas Seal fund.

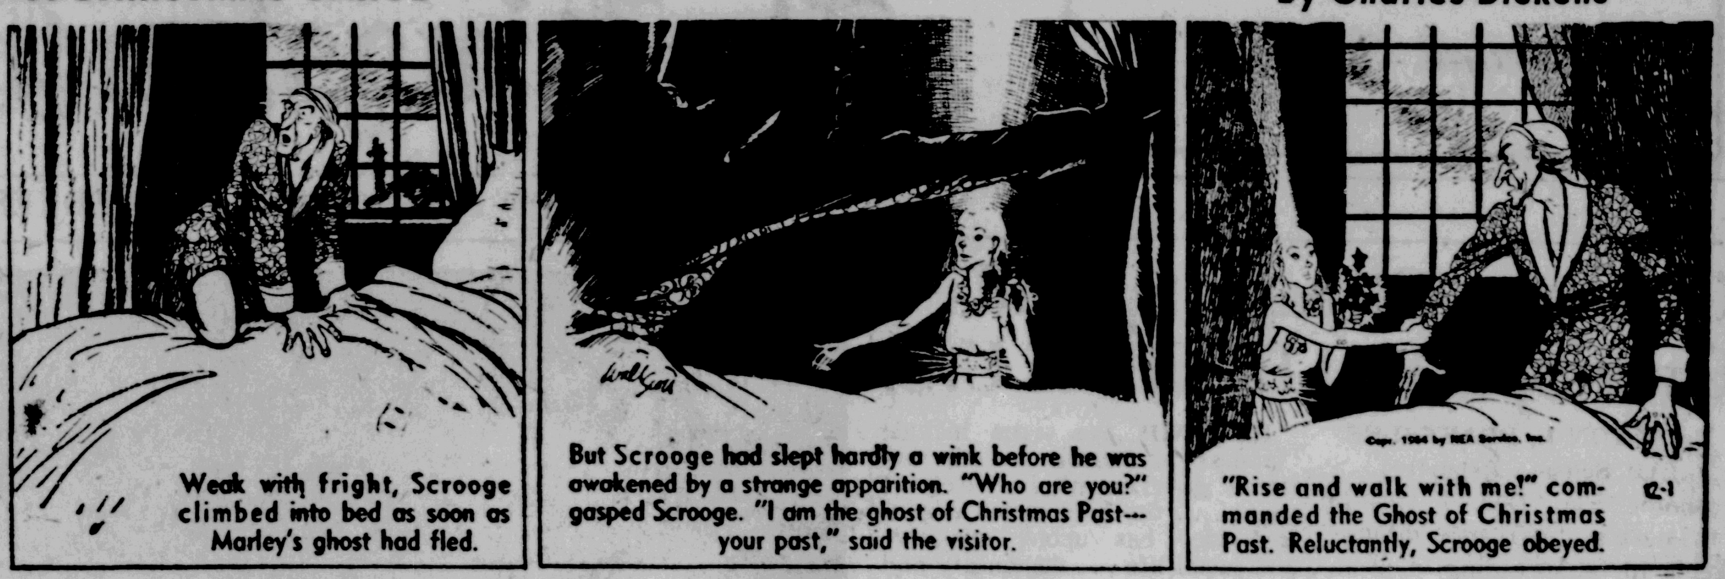
A CHRISTMAS CAROL

By Charles Dickens



Weak with fright, Scrooge climbed into bed as soon as Marley's ghost had fled.

But Scrooge had slept hardly a wink before he was awakened by a strange apparition. "Who are you?" gasped Scrooge. "I am the ghost of Christmas Past—your past," said the visitor.

"Rise and walk with me!" commanded the Ghost of Christmas Past. Reluctantly, Scrooge obeyed.

Machinist Held After Dispute

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—An unemployed machinist was arrested in his Queens home early today after his father and mother told detectives he had attacked them at gunpoint in a dispute over money.

The prisoner, Eric Rothschild, 34, denied the assault but reportedly admitted arguing with his parents last night in their home at 69 Bennett avenue, in Washington Heights, Manhattan.

Detectives said they found a loaded gun in the younger Rothschild's apartment at 35-31 85th street, Jackson Heights, Queens, when they took him into custody there at 2 a. m.

He was booked at a Manhattan police station on felonious assault and weapons law charges.

HIS PARENTS Arthur and Hedwig Rothschild, were quoted by detectives as saying their son had demanded $250 a month while he was out of work.

When they refused the demand, the Rothschilds said, their son produced a gun and began hitting them about the face and head. The parents fled from their apartment and summoned police.

Police said the younger Rothschild assaulted a cousin, Paul Goldenberg, 91 100 Carthing road, West Englewood, N. J., two weeks ago.

Goldenberg, who works for the elder Rothschild in the latter's business in the Manhattan garment center, subsequently obtained a warrant for the younger Rothschild's arrest, the detectives said. It has not yet been served, they added.

700 Attend Seventh Annual Harvest Ball

Saugerties, Nov. 30 — More than 700 persons attended the seventh annual American Legion Harvest Ball sponsored by Lamouree-Hackett Post 72 Saturday evening in the municipal auditorium.

According to those on the harvest ball committee this year's event is one of the largest ever held. Attendance figures compare favorably with those of the initial ball many years ago.

In recent years the event has become the social highlight of the season in Saugerties. The feature attraction this year was the music of Boyd Raeburn and his orchestra which won the admiration of local critics.

The outstanding feature of the more than 90-minute stage presentation prior to the dancing was Chick Darrow who served as master-of-ceremonies and did a topsy-turvy auction routine which had the local audience in stitches. The other acts included Alex and Galina, novelty hand balancing; The Burtons, harmony singing team; Billy and Ann, dancing duo from Harlem, and Jeanne Johnson, Queen of the xylophone, all of whom were well received by the gathering.

The traditional salute to departed comrades was observed with a short interval of silence and the playing of taps.

The dance committee included Roy S. Helsmoortel and Joseph Skavronek, co-chairmen; Cortland C. Stauss, program; Richard F. Thornton, music and entertainment; Leslie Brink, Russell O'Dea, Henry Genthner and Harold Swart, tickets; John W. Davis, Robert Messinger and Ned Bond, publicity; James M. Maines, finance, and Harold Farrell, lighting.

The hall decorating was arranged by Vernon Tymeson, chairman and John Burns, Edward Buckley, John Rivenburg, George Jorgenson, John Granwehr, Ned Bond and William Vooerg. The refreshment committee included Lawrence Roosa, Ronald Swart, Thomas Vaclavicek and Fred Linden. The cloak room concession was handled by members of the ladies' auxiliary of the post.

Wolf Badges Awarded To Seven Cub Scouts

Saugerties, Nov. 30—Seven Cub Scouts of Pack 36, St. Mary's Church, were awarded wolf badges at the regular monthly meeting of the pack Tuesday at St. Mary's School.

Cubmaster Olaf Andreassen presented the honors to Lawrence Thornton, John Kerbert, John Granwehr, Domonick Gambino, Ronald Gambino, Robert Duvernoy and Edward Andreassen.

In an impressive ceremony Cubmaster Andreassen inducted four new Cub Scouts into the ranks of the pack as bob cats. They were Richard Maines, Robert Gilmore, Harold Swart and John Freligh.

The 1954 Cub Day at Camp Tri-Mount citations were awarded to Lawrence Thornton, William Reilly, Anthony Gambino and Edward Andreassen.

Certificates of appreciation to den mothers for outstanding work during the past year were presented to den mothers, Mrs. Elsie Thornton, Mrs. Margaret Kerbert, Mrs. Alice Benjamin and Mrs. Loretta Duvernoy.

The program of the cub scouts consisted of skit presentations relative to the cubbing of the month, Great Moments in American history. Portrayals of Nathan Hale, Abraham Lincoln, Signing of the Declaration of Independence landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock and the Pilgrims making friends with the American Indians were presented by the Cub Scouts.

Following the serving of refreshments the dark horse was awarded to Mrs. William Reilly.

Machinist Held After Dispute

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—An unemployed machinist was arrested in his Queens home early today after his father and mother told detectives he had attacked them at gunpoint in a dispute over money.

The prisoner, Eric Rothschild, 34, denied the assault but reportedly admitted arguing with his parents last night in their home at 69 Bennett avenue, in Washington Heights, Manhattan.

Detectives said they found a loaded gun in the younger Rothschild's apartment at 35-31 85th street, Jackson Heights, Queens, when they took him into custody there at 2 a. m.

He was booked at a Manhattan police station on felonious assault and weapons law charges.

HIS PARENTS Arthur and Hedwig Rothschild, were quoted by detectives as saying their son had demanded $250 a month while he was out of work.

When they refused the demand, the Rothschilds said, their son produced a gun and began hitting them about the face and head. The parents fled from their apartment and summoned police.

Police said the younger Rothschild assaulted a cousin, Paul Goldenberg, 91 100 Carthing road, West Englewood, N. J., two weeks ago.

Goldenberg, who works for the elder Rothschild in the latter's business in the Manhattan garment center, subsequently obtained a warrant for the younger Rothschild's arrest, the detectives said. It has not yet been served, they added.

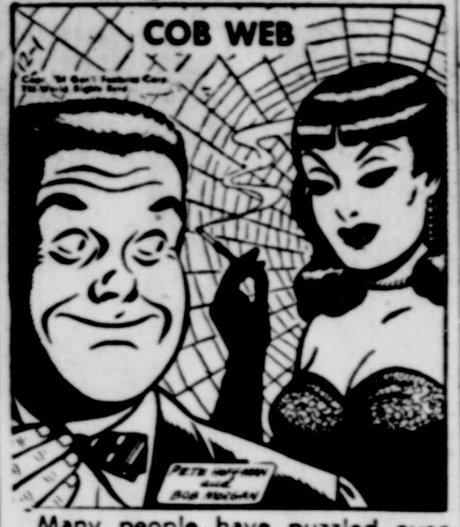
Why We Say--



COB WEB
PETE HOFFMAN and BOB MORGAN

Many people have puzzled over this somewhat odd name for the living quarters of a spider. Actually the word "cob" is merely the Old English word for spider . . . so a cob web is after all just a spider web.

Costly Forgetfulness

Hot Springs, Ark. (AP)—After vacationing for several days at this resort city, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guilliaert check out of a motel and headed for Mexico City. A few miles out, they discovered that Guilliaert had left his shaving kit behind. They raced back, but the kit was gone. So was $700 they had hidden in it.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

700 Attend Seventh Annual Harvest Ball

Saugerties, Nov. 30 — More than 700 persons attended the seventh annual American Legion Harvest Ball sponsored by Lamouree-Hackett Post 72 Saturday evening in the municipal auditorium.

According to those on the harvest ball committee this year's event is one of the largest ever held. Attendance figures compare favorably with those of the initial ball many years ago.

In recent years the event has become the social highlight of the season in Saugerties. The feature attraction this year was the music of Boyd Raeburn and his orchestra which won the admiration of local critics.

The outstanding feature of the more than 90-minute stage presentation prior to the dancing was Chick Darrow who served as master-of-ceremonies and did a topsy-turvy auction routine which had the local audience in stitches. The other acts included Alex and Galina, novelty hand balancing; The Burtons, harmony singing team; Billy and Ann, dancing duo from Harlem, and Jeanne Johnson, Queen of the xylophone, all of whom were well received by the gathering.

The traditional salute to departed comrades was observed with a short interval of silence and the playing of taps.

The dance committee included Roy S. Helsmoortel and Joseph Skavronek, co-chairmen; Cortland C. Stauss, program; Richard F. Thornton, music and entertainment; Leslie Brink, Russell O'Dea, Henry Genthner and Harold Swart, tickets; John W. Davis, Robert Messinger and Ned Bond, publicity; James M. Maines, finance, and Harold Farrell, lighting.

The hall decorating was arranged by Vernon Tymeson, chairman and John Burns, Edward Buckley, John Rivenburg, George Jorgenson, John Granwehr, Ned Bond and William Vooerg. The refreshment committee included Lawrence Roosa, Ronald Swart, Thomas Vaclavicek and Fred Linden. The cloak room concession was handled by members of the ladies' auxiliary of the post.

Wolf Badges Awarded To Seven Cub Scouts

Saugerties, Nov. 30—Seven Cub Scouts of Pack 36, St. Mary's Church, were awarded wolf badges at the regular monthly meeting of the pack Tuesday at St. Mary's School.

Cubmaster Olaf Andreassen presented the honors to Lawrence Thornton, John Kerbert, John Granwehr, Domonick Gambino, Ronald Gambino, Robert Duvernoy and Edward Andreassen.

In an impressive ceremony Cubmaster Andreassen inducted four new Cub Scouts into the ranks of the pack as bob cats. They were Richard Maines, Robert Gilmore, Harold Swart and John Freligh.

The 1954 Cub Day at Camp Tri-Mount citations were awarded to Lawrence Thornton, William Reilly, Anthony Gambino and Edward Andreassen.

Certificates of appreciation to den mothers for outstanding work during the past year were presented to den mothers, Mrs. Elsie Thornton, Mrs. Margaret Kerbert, Mrs. Alice Benjamin and Mrs. Loretta Duvernoy.

The program of the cub scouts consisted of skit presentations relative to the cubbing of the month, Great Moments in American history. Portrayals of Nathan Hale, Abraham Lincoln, Signing of the Declaration of Independence landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock and the Pilgrims making friends with the American Indians were presented by the Cub Scouts.

Following the serving of refreshments the dark horse was awarded to Mrs. William Reilly.

New York — (NEA) — The long-torso look and flat line of the Twenties, as revived by freshly interpreted by Christian Dior, appears most nostalgiacally in the collections of American designers for the holidays.

These holiday party dresses have the flavor of an F. Scott Fitzgerald story and the sparkle of a John Held, Jr., cartoon. They have wide shoulder straps, flounced skirts or pleated skirts that fan out from the hipline. They're worn with long ropes of Chanel beads or with a choker and long ropes in combination.

They have wit, dash and certainly, youthfulness. They're not for everybody. But for the right girls, they're wonderful.

We show a printed cotton gown by Mr. Mort (left) with gold print on a beige background. There's the longer torso line, the high-rising bust line and wider shoulder straps.

Salvation Army Red Kettles Date Back to 1894

As much a part of the American Christmas scene as stockings hanging by the fireplace and Christmas tree lights are the cheerful lassies of The Salvation Army, manning their gay red kettles on street corners. As the bell rings and the coins jingle, singing of brighter holidays for many in need, one might wonder why, each year, the kettles and tripods are brought out of storage, given a new coat of paint and set up with such care. The tradition is one which dates back to 1894 and its origin is a story in itself.

THE IDEA WAS BORN in northern California during a time of extreme depression. With shipping at a standstill, many seamen and longshoremen were out of work and in dire need. An enterprising Salvation Army officer in San Francisco had been granted permission to set up a soup kitchen for them, providing he would assume sole responsibility for financing it.

Obtaining funds for the operation was a problem of major proportions for the officer until one day, in a ship chandler's shop, he spied a soup kettle suspended from a crane. Why not, he thought, set up the actual kettle itself in a public place and let people, passing by, help feed the hungry sailors by dropping money into the pot.

PLACING THE KETTLE at the foot of Market street and the ferry entrance, he used the slogan "Keep the pot boiling." Public response to the unique appeal was generous.

By Christmas time, the idea had spread to other cities, and since that year, the kettles have enabled the Salvation Army to bring the spirit of the season into lives which otherwise would be denied it.

Bushnellsville

Bushnellsville, Dec. 1 — The Bushnellsville Chamber of Commerce reelected at the last meeting the following officers for the coming year: Erwin Bier, president; Mason Gossoo, secretary; Thomas Cherveny, treasurer; William R. Hoffman, publicity director. As in former years, the Bushnellsville Chamber of Commerce will place a large Christmas tree in front of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Gossoo. The tree will be lighted from Dec. 19 to Jan. 3. The next regular meeting of the Chamber will be held Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 8 p. m. at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Rossitz.

Mrs. E. A. Hirst spent the Thanksgiving weekend with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Finger of Saugerties.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Plympton of Levittown, L. I., were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kincheck.

Thomas Cherveny of the Mountain Brook House brought down a four-point buck Wednesday.

Richard Hagauer of Brooklyn was the Thanksgiving Weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hoffmann.

Mrs. Florence Ancola is visiting relatives in New York.

Mrs. E. A. Hirst will leave next Saturday to spend the winter months with her sister, Mrs. Florence C. Smith, of Rosedale, L. I.

The following spent their Thanksgiving weekend at their summer residence here: Mr. and Mrs. Leo Schaefer and family of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Werner Samter of New York.

Mrs. Marie Bier and Mrs. E. A. Hirst and Erwin Bier were in Kingston Thursday.

Homeless Boy, 14, Tells of Killing

New York. Dec. 1 (AP) — Authorities report that the killing of a Bronx youth last Friday has been confessed by a homeless boy, known by police as "a cat."

The term applies to wandering children who roam the city, living by their wits and usually sleeping in doorways or cellars or wherever else they can find shelter and warmth.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Louis Silver of The Bronx said yesterday the boy, Theodore Glenn, 14, had admitted he shot Nicholas Scochemaro, 16, but claimed it was an accident.

SILVER SAID the Glenn youngster, who had been known in the neighborhood only as "Billy," told police that Nicholas had been his pal. Silver added that he believed Billy was telling the truth.

Nicholas was found dead with a single bullet through his head. He had been known by neighbors as a "model boy" and was last seen alive with Billy.

Police said Billy had several times been sent to the state training school at Warwick, and is at present a runaway from that institution. An orphan, he has two brothers now in Sing Sing and a sister in prison, police said.

Daily News Faces Strike by Guild

New York, Dec. 1 (AP) — The CIO American Newspaper Guild announced today it will go on strike next Wednesday against the New York Daily News. The announcement followed a breakdown in contract negotiations.

Officials of the Daily News, a tabloid newspaper which claims the largest daily and Sunday circulation of any paper in America, had no immediate comment.

Guild Vice President Thomas J. Murphy said about 1,200 employes are covered in the present contract between the union and the paper.

Negotiations on a new pact were begun Sept. 22. The breakdown in talks came yesterday after a three-hour conference with federal mediator Thomas G. Doughterty sitting in.

The decision to call a strike was taken several hours later, the Guild said.

The News presently says its daily circulation is 2,025,000 and Sunday distribution is 3,650,000.

Illustrated Talk On South America Given at Church

A talk on South America, Land of Promise, was given by the Rev. Kenneth Neal Alexander, DD, illustrated with Kodaslides, at the meeting of Wesleyan Service Guild of St. James Methodist Church, held Tuesday, Nov. 23.

Dinner was served at 6:15 p. m. in charge of Miss Lucy Berryann. The worship service was under the leadership of Mrs. Reynolds Van Keuren.

Man and God in the City by Kenneth D. Miller is the book being reviewed at the Guild meetings. Miss Matilda Martin in presenting a portion of the book told why people come to the cities, described the loneliness of city people, and how the church can aid in overcoming it.

Miss Bertha Waterman presided at the business meeting. It was reported by Miss Glora Massa, chairman of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities, that Christmas gift boxes had been sent to the five members of St. James Church serving in the armed forces overseas.

The next meeting, at which members will exchange gifts, will be Tuesday, Dec. 21.

Hospital Auxiliary Names Co-Chairmen For February Dance

It was announced at the meeting of Kingston Hospital Auxiliary that Mrs. George Rifenbary and Mrs. Burton Davis would be co-chairmen of the dance to take place Saturday evening, Feb. 5.

Mrs. Peter Corsones, president, also announced that Mrs. George Bushnell will direct Christmas decorating in the hospital. Any member interested in assisting the chairman may contact her.

Members of the auxiliary were urged to volunteer for the Hospital Fund Drive which is now in progress, as many more workers are needed.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Parker Brinnier and Mrs. Herbert Derman.

Women's Club of Y Will Have Program By Musical Society

The Musical Society is presenting a program at the Women's Club of the YWCA, Thursday, Dec. 9, at 4 p. m. Honoring the Christmas season, children of the members of the society will give dances and songs of the festive occasion in Germany.

This will be the same program as performed for the society at their December meeting, and represents sharing with the YWCA group. The musical society celebrated its 25th anniversary last year, and the Women's Club is looking forward to its first quarter century next year.

The youngsters will sing songs in the native language, and perform dances of the country. Mrs. Bertrand Bishop has done the original choreography.

The society was recognized recently by the National Federation of Music Clubs for having completed one year of American Music programs, even before the recommendation was released by the national group. Contemporary European music is now being studied, through contacting representatives of the embassies of the various countries for authentic material.

Personal Notes

Members of Kiwanis Club and their guests and those appearing in the cast of Kiwanis Kapers, attended a buffet supper at Leherb's Restaurant after the performance of the show Tuesday evening.

Miss Peggy Schilling spent the Thanksgiving holiday weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Schilling of 1 Burgevin street. Miss Schilling is with Weiss and Geller Advertising Agency, New York city.

Miss Alberta Loughran of New York city spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Attorney and Mrs. Roger Loughran of Hurley.

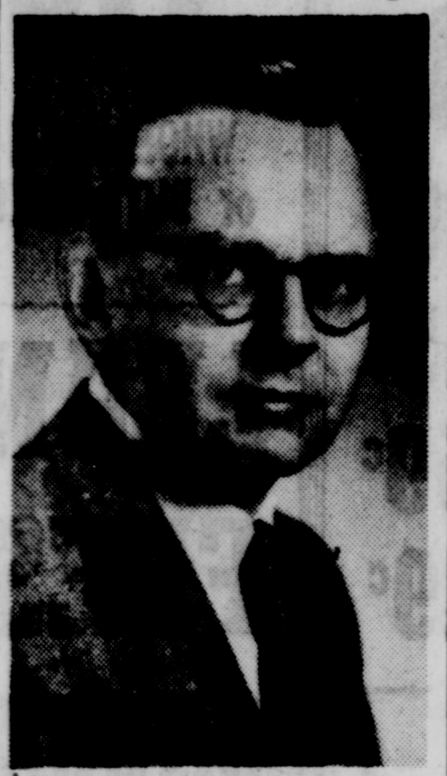
Information Head Of SCAA Will Speak To Children's Group



GORDON E. BROWN, director of Public Information, State Charities Aid Association, will be the guest speaker at the meeting this evening of the Ulster County Children's Committee. The group will meet at 8 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Edward de Groff.

Anyone interested in serving on this committee may contact Mrs. Gifford Beal or Mrs. Edward de Groff prior to meeting time.

THE GUEST SPEAKER has been in his present position since June, 1949, in the New York city headquarters. In this capacity he provides public relations advice and services to the statewide health and welfare organizations which constitute the SCAA, a voluntary agency operating in all parts of New York state.

Mr. Brown was graduated from Princeton University in 1934 and for the next seven years did newspaper work in Washington, D. C. and Buffalo, as reporter, copy reader and editorial writer. He then served four years in the Navy, at the end of the war holding the rank of commander, USNR. His Navy service was in New York and in Washington, where he was assigned to the office of Censorship, and in the last six months of the war he was assistant to the Director of Censorship.

FOLLOWING HIS NAVY service Mr. Brown engaged briefly in public relations work and then in newspaper work. In 1947 he joined the staff of the Central Intelligence Agency, a government organization in Washington, and from there came to the State Charities Aid Association.

Mr. Brown is chairman of the Committee on Public Relations of the National Conference of Social Work. He conducts a course on public relations for non-profit agencies at Columbia University.

He lives in Ridgewood, N. J., where he is active in Community Chest, YMCA and Boy Scout activities. He is married and has a son. (Pitcher photo)

Anyone interested in serving on this committee may contact Mrs. Gifford Beal or Mrs. Edward de Groff prior to meeting time.

THE GUEST SPEAKER has been in his present position since June, 1949, in the New York city headquarters. In this capacity he provides public relations advice and services to the statewide health and welfare organizations which constitute the SCAA, a voluntary agency operating in all parts of New York state.

Mr. Brown was graduated from Princeton University in 1934 and for the next seven years did newspaper work in Washington, D. C. and Buffalo, as reporter, copy reader and editorial writer. He then served four years in the Navy, at the end of the war holding the rank of commander, USNR. His Navy service was in New York and in Washington, where he was assigned to the office of Censorship, and in the last six months of the war he was assistant to the Director of Censorship.

FOLLOWING HIS NAVY service Mr. Brown engaged briefly in public relations work and then in newspaper work. In 1947 he joined the staff of the Central Intelligence Agency, a government organization in Washington, and from there came to the State Charities Aid Association.

Mr. Brown is chairman of the Committee on Public Relations of the National Conference of Social Work. He conducts a course on public relations for non-profit agencies at Columbia University.

He lives in Ridgewood, N. J., where he is active in Community Chest, YMCA and Boy Scout activities. He is married and has a son. (Pitcher photo)

Illustrated Talk On South America Given at Church

A talk on South America, Land of Promise, was given by the Rev. Kenneth Neal Alexander, DD, illustrated with Kodaslides, at the meeting of Wesleyan Service Guild of St. James Methodist Church, held Tuesday, Nov. 23.

Dinner was served at 6:15 p. m. in charge of Miss Lucy Berryann. The worship service was under the leadership of Mrs. Reynolds Van Keuren.

Man and God in the City by Kenneth D. Miller is the book being reviewed at the Guild meetings. Miss Matilda Martin in presenting a portion of the book told why people come to the cities, described the loneliness of city people, and how the church can aid in overcoming it.

Miss Bertha Waterman presided at the business meeting. It was reported by Miss Glora Massa, chairman of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities, that Christmas gift boxes had been sent to the five members of St. James Church serving in the armed forces overseas.

The next meeting, at which members will exchange gifts, will be Tuesday, Dec. 21.

All articles are homemade and handmade in this booth, which will be open until December 24. (Freeman photo)

Hospital Auxiliary Names Co-Chairmen For February Dance

It was announced at the meeting of Kingston Hospital Auxiliary that Mrs. George Rifenbary and Mrs. Burton Davis would be co-chairmen of the dance to take place Saturday evening, Feb. 5.

Mrs. Peter Corsones, president, also announced that Mrs. George Bushnell will direct Christmas decorating in the hospital. Any member interested in assisting the chairman may contact her.

Members of the auxiliary were urged to volunteer for the Hospital Fund Drive which is now in progress, as many more workers are needed.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Parker Brinnier and Mrs. Herbert Derman.

Women's Club of Y Will Have Program By Musical Society

The Musical Society is presenting a program at the Women's Club of the YWCA, Thursday, Dec. 9, at 4 p. m. Honoring the Christmas season, children of the members of the society will give dances and songs of the festive occasion in Germany.

This will be the same program as performed for the society at their December meeting, and represents sharing with the YWCA group. The musical society celebrated its 25th anniversary last year, and the Women's Club is looking forward to its first quarter century next year.

The youngsters will sing songs in the native language, and perform dances of the country. Mrs. Bertrand Bishop has done the original choreography.

The society was recognized recently by the National Federation of Music Clubs for having completed one year of American Music programs, even before the recommendation was released by the national group. Contemporary European music is now being studied, through contacting representatives of the embassies of the various countries for authentic material.

NOTHING IS SO THRILLING TO THE HEART OF THE HOMEMAKER as fine silverware. No other gift so eloquently speaks of warmth and hospitality. The very history and romance behind the centuries-old use of silver in the home adds pride and dignity to the gift. Silver is the hospitable metal, and its gleaming beauty graces every occasion. No longer is silverware a possession of the wealthy alone. No other item today offers so wide a selection of beautiful pieces in an equally wide array of prices — all bound to warm the hearts of those who receive and to please the budgets of those who give. Shown above are but a few of the many selections available in all leading silverware departments.

WINNING THEIR APPROVAL

The following letter is from a young woman: "I have been invited to spend several days with my boy friend's family over the Christmas holidays. I have never met them before and am anxious to make a good impression. I would like to know if it is proper to come down to breakfast in a housecoat or must I be fully dressed?"

By all means be fully dressed the first morning you come down. After that if you find that other members of the family breakfast in housecoats, then you may do the same. Even so, on no account come down with your nightgown showing below your housecoat.

More Than One Hostess

"Dear Mrs. Post: When accepting or declining an invitation to a party given by more than one hostess, must a separate answer be sent to each one, and if not, then to whom is the reply sent? I have to acknowledge such an invitation and am completely at a loss as to how it should be done."

Answer: When the names of two or more hostesses appear on an invitation, the envelope is addressed to the one at whose house the party is to take place; or if it is to be at a club or hotel, to all the names exactly as in the invitation. For example:

Mrs. John Jones
accepts with pleasure
the kind invitation of
Mrs. White and
Mrs. Black and
date

If, however, only one of the hostesses is known to you, it would be quite permissible to accept "your kind invitation for Tuesday the tenth" and address the envelope to whichever hostess happens to be your friend.

Neckties for Ushers

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me what color and type (bow or four-in-hand) tie the ushers in the wedding party should wear with their dark blue business suits?

Answer: A blue and white tie, either bow or four-in-hand is proper. All, of course, should wear the same.

Should table linen be monogrammed, and if so, where should it be placed? This and many other ideas on linen for various occasions are included in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-32, "Table Linens." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

(Released by

More Than One Hostess

"Dear Mrs. Post: When accepting or declining an invitation to a party given by more than one hostess, must a separate answer be sent to each one, and if not, then to whom is the reply sent? I have to acknowledge such an invitation and am completely at a loss as to how it should be done."

Answer: When the names of two or more hostesses appear on an invitation, the envelope is addressed to the one at whose house the party is to take place; or if it is to be at a club or hotel, to all the names exactly as in the invitation. For example:

Mrs. John Jones
accepts with pleasure
Mrs. White and
Mrs. Black and
date

If, however, only one of the hostesses is known to you, it would be quite permissible to accept "your kind invitation for Tuesday the tenth" and address the envelope to whichever hostess happens to be your friend.

Neckties for Ushers

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me what color and type (bow or four-in-hand) tie the ushers in the wedding party should wear with their dark blue business suits?

Answer: A blue and white tie, either bow or four-in-hand is proper. All, of course, should wear the same.

Should table linen be monogrammed, and if so, where should it be placed? This and many other ideas on linen for various occasions are included in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-32, "Table Linens." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

NOTHING IS SO THRILLING TO THE HEART OF THE HOMEMAKER as fine silverware. No other gift so eloquently speaks of warmth and hospitality. The very history and romance behind the centuries-old use of silver in the home adds pride and dignity to the gift. Silver is the hospitable metal, and its gleaming beauty graces every occasion. No longer is silverware a possession of the wealthy alone. No other item today offers so wide a selection of beautiful pieces in an equally wide array of prices — all bound to warm the hearts of those who receive and to please the budgets of those who give. Shown above are but a few of the many selections available in all leading silverware departments.

Home Bureau Meets December 7

Aregular session of Wiltwyck Home Bureau will be held Tuesday, Dec. 7, in the meeting rooms, 410 Broadway, it was announced today.

Mrs. Helen Stantial will demonstrate low calory menus in preparation of meals and refreshments.

It is hoped a large attendance of members will be present for the business session and sale of plants, African violets and aprons. Reservations will be made for the Christmas luncheon.

WINNING THEIR APPROVAL

The following letter is from a young woman: "I have been invited to spend several days with my boy friend's family over the Christmas holidays. I have never met them before and am anxious to make a good impression. I would like to know if it is proper to come down to breakfast in a housecoat or must I be fully dressed?"

By all means be fully dressed the first morning you come down. After that if you find that other members of the family breakfast in housecoats, then you may do the same. Even so, on no account come down with your nightgown showing below your housecoat.

TERESA AND LUISILLO, Spanish dance team, with their company of 36 in Ballets Espagnols will bring to the Broadway Theatre Thursday evening what John Martin, Times critic, termed, ". . . a fresh and lively evening in the theatre." Sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the company, which has just completed a sellout month at the Mark Hellinger Theatre in New York, promises a "brilliant show, with fine settings . . . and dancing rich in vitality," according to Tribune critic, Walter Terry. The revue will include flamenco dancing and singing, and unusual numbers combining drama and dance, as well as comedy pieces. Tickets for the performance, which begins at 8:30 p. m., may be obtained from members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, it was announced by Robert Stedge, president.

Teacher Asks Babe's Return

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—A Harrison dancing teacher caught a glimpse of her infant daughter, Norma Elaine, yesterday in a Brooklyn Supreme Court anteroom for the first time in more than three months.

"How does she sleep?" the mother, Gloria M. Guertin, 31, asked Mrs. Leo Whisler, of Brooklyn.

Informed that Norma Elaine is a "fine baby," Miss Guertin, (of 2 South rd., Harrison) left the courthouse.

Mrs. Whisler took the baby to court yesterday on orders from Supreme Court Justice M. H. Martuscello for a hearing on an action by Miss Guertin to recover the daughter she signed over for adoption three weeks after its birth.

THE BABY WAS BORN last July 20 in New Rochelle. Last month Miss Guertin informed the court, through her attorney, Herman Doodak, that before the child was born she had several conversations with her doctor and the baby's father—who was not identified—about the baby's future. She said it was decided is would be best if the baby were adopted, and three weeks after its birth she turned the baby over to Arthur P. Scolari, New Rochelle attorney, and signed a paper allowing him to place the child.

However, she said she stipulated that she could revoke the adoption proceedings any time before they became final. On Nov. 4 she served notice she wanted the baby back, but the lawyer said Mr. and Mrs. Whisler would not give her up.

Yesterday Miss Geurin told the court "my financial outlook is very bright now." She said she was "keeping company with a fine respectable man in contemplation of matrimony."

Justice Martuscello is scheduled to rule on her plea Dec. 14.

Marie Curie received the Nobel Prize for physics in 1903 and in chemistry in 1911 for isolating radium.

1,000,000 Years Ago

Many scientists have concluded that the human race began somewhere in the great Asiatic land mass about 1,000,000 years ago.

Teacher Asks Babe's Return

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—A Harrison dancing teacher caught a glimpse of her infant daughter, Norma Elaine, yesterday in a Brooklyn Supreme Court anteroom for the first time in more than three months.

"How does she sleep?" the mother, Gloria M. Guertin, 31, asked Mrs. Leo Whisler, of Brooklyn.

Informed that Norma Elaine is a "fine baby," Miss Guertin, (of 2 South rd., Harrison) left the courthouse.

Mrs. Whisler took the baby to court yesterday on orders from Supreme Court Justice M. H. Martuscello for a hearing on an action by Miss Guertin to recover the daughter she signed over for adoption. three weeks after its birth.

THE BABY WAS BORN last July 20 in New Rochelle. Last month Miss Guertin informed the court, through her attorney, Herman Doodak, that before the child was born she had several conversations with her doctor and the baby's father—who was not identified—about the baby's future. She said it was decided is would be best if the baby were adopted, and three weeks after its birth she turned the baby over to Arthur P. Scolari, New Rochelle attorney, and signed a paper allowing him to place the child.

However, she said she stipulated that she could revoke the adoption proceedings any time before they became final. On Nov. 4 she served notice she wanted the baby back, but the lawyer said Mr. and Mrs. Whisler would not give her up.

Yesterday Miss Geurin told the court "my financial outlook is very bright now." She said she was "keeping company with a fine respectable man in contemplation of matrimony."

Justice Martuscello is scheduled to rule on her plea Dec. 14.

Girls in Trouble Over Phoning Taxi, Fire Station

Two local teen-aged girls found their few minutes of "fun" with a telephone turned into recorded juvenile delinquency yesterday.

It was the kind of prank tried locally and elsewhere before, and generally with the same outcome.

First a call was placed for a taxi that was not needed, and when that one appeared to be passing off as a well contrived joke, they tried the fire department.

POLICE WERE first notified at 4:15 p. m., by Powell's Taxi, 129 Cedar street that a cab had been called to an Abeel street address and that the fare failed to come out of the house.

A "recheck" call was made to the Abeel street house. It was answered by one of the teenagers, who said the call had been made by her girl friend.

At 4:33 p. m., the fire department was called to Abeel street in the same neighborhood. By this time the police had sufficient information to track down the source of the calls, and the two were brought to police headquarters by Officers Thomas McGrane and Charles McCullough, accompanied by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy.

STATEMENTS taken by the police indicated attempts of one girl to place the blame on the other. The calls were made as they were in the process of preparing a meal to assist the mother of one of the girls, police said. They were booked as juvenile delinquents to be dealt with in children's court.

Santa's Spotlight on Creative Toys

New career toys figure prominently in Santa's collection this year as well as handicraft kits for the child interested in creative play. This youngster is making his own antique locomotive (upper left). The plastic parts in the locomotive kit are numbered for easy assembly. For a little girl, nothing could be more fun than a kit to make her own party hats (upper right). There's one for making miniature leather handbags and pearl jewelry, too. The boy who chases fire engines can do it with ease on his own fire-chief bicycle (lower left). For the small girl who's outgrowing her clothes quickly, there's a new doll and carriage (lower right) with an adjustable handle that's sure to see her through several seasons. The rag doll has a big-eyed plastic face.

Prominent IBM Engineer Named Plants Director

Charles F. McElwain of Binghamton, who joined International Business Machines Corp. more than 31 years ago, and is outstanding in the field of engineering, has been appointed director of defense engineering and defense manufacturing to work closely with the corporation's plants in Poughkeepsie and Endicott and the one in Kingston when it begins operations.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made Tuesday by President Thomas J. Watson, Jr. of IBM corporation about McElwain's promotion from defense engineering coordinator, the position he occupied since July 1953. McElwain is a member of the Army Ordnance Association, the Society of Automotive Engineers, Engineering Committee, Industrial Hygiene Foundation of America and served as consultant to a committee which in 1948 achieved the standardization of screw threads on all nuts and bolts manufactured in the United States, United Kingdom and Canada.

McELWAIN SERVED as manager of the War Council of the American Standards Association and in 1945 received a certificate honoring his contribution to the development of the U. S. War Standards. He headed the association's sectional committee which was instrumental in setting up a standard sponsored by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and adopted for industry as a whole in January 1947.

His first connection with IBM was as a customer engineer in Pittsburgh in 1923, serving the company's offices in Indianapolis and San Francisco. In 1929 he was advanced to the Southern district as supervisory of customer engineering with headquarters in Houston, Tex. He was further promoted to chief inspector at IBM's plant in Endicott in 1932 and subsequently served the manufacturing organization there as supervisor of assembly, supervisor of ordnance, assistant superintendent, plant superintendent, works manager and manager of defense engineering.

IN JULY 1953, McElwain was assigned to the staff of IBM director of engineering at the company's world headquarters in New York coordinating all IBM defense engineering throughout the country.

Announcement of McElwain's new appointment was made at a luncheon meeting in IBM Country Club, Poughkeepsie, attended by managers of the plant and engineering laboratory there and the Kingston plant. President Watson was introduced for the announcement by William J. Mair, vice president and general manager of the Poughkeepsie IBM plant, who also presented McElwain, Gavin A. Cullen, general manager of the Kingston plant; Horace S. Beattie, manager of Poughkeepsie engineering laboratory, and Wallace W. McDowell, vice president in charge of IBM engineering.

Girls in Trouble Over Phoning Taxi, Fire Station

Two local teen-aged girls found their few minutes of "fun" with a telephone turned into recorded juvenile delinquency yesterday.

It was the kind of prank tried locally and elsewhere before, and generally with the same outcome.

First a call was placed for a taxi that was not needed, and when that one appeared to be passing off as a well contrived joke, they tried the fire department.

POLICE WERE first notified at 4:15 p. m., by Powell's Taxi, 129 Cedar street that a cab had been called to an Abeel street address and that the fare failed to come out of the house.

A "recheck" call was made to the Abeel street house. It was answered by one of the teenagers, who said the call had been made by her girl friend.

At 4:33 p. m., the fire department was called to Abeel street in the same neighborhood. By this time the police had sufficient information to track down the source of the calls, and the two were brought to police headquarters by Officers Thomas McGrane and Charles McCullough, accompanied by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy.

STATEMENTS taken by the police indicated attempts of one girl to place the blame on the other. The calls were made as they were in the process of preparing a meal to assist the mother of one of the girls, police said. They were booked as juvenile delinquents to be dealt with in children's court.

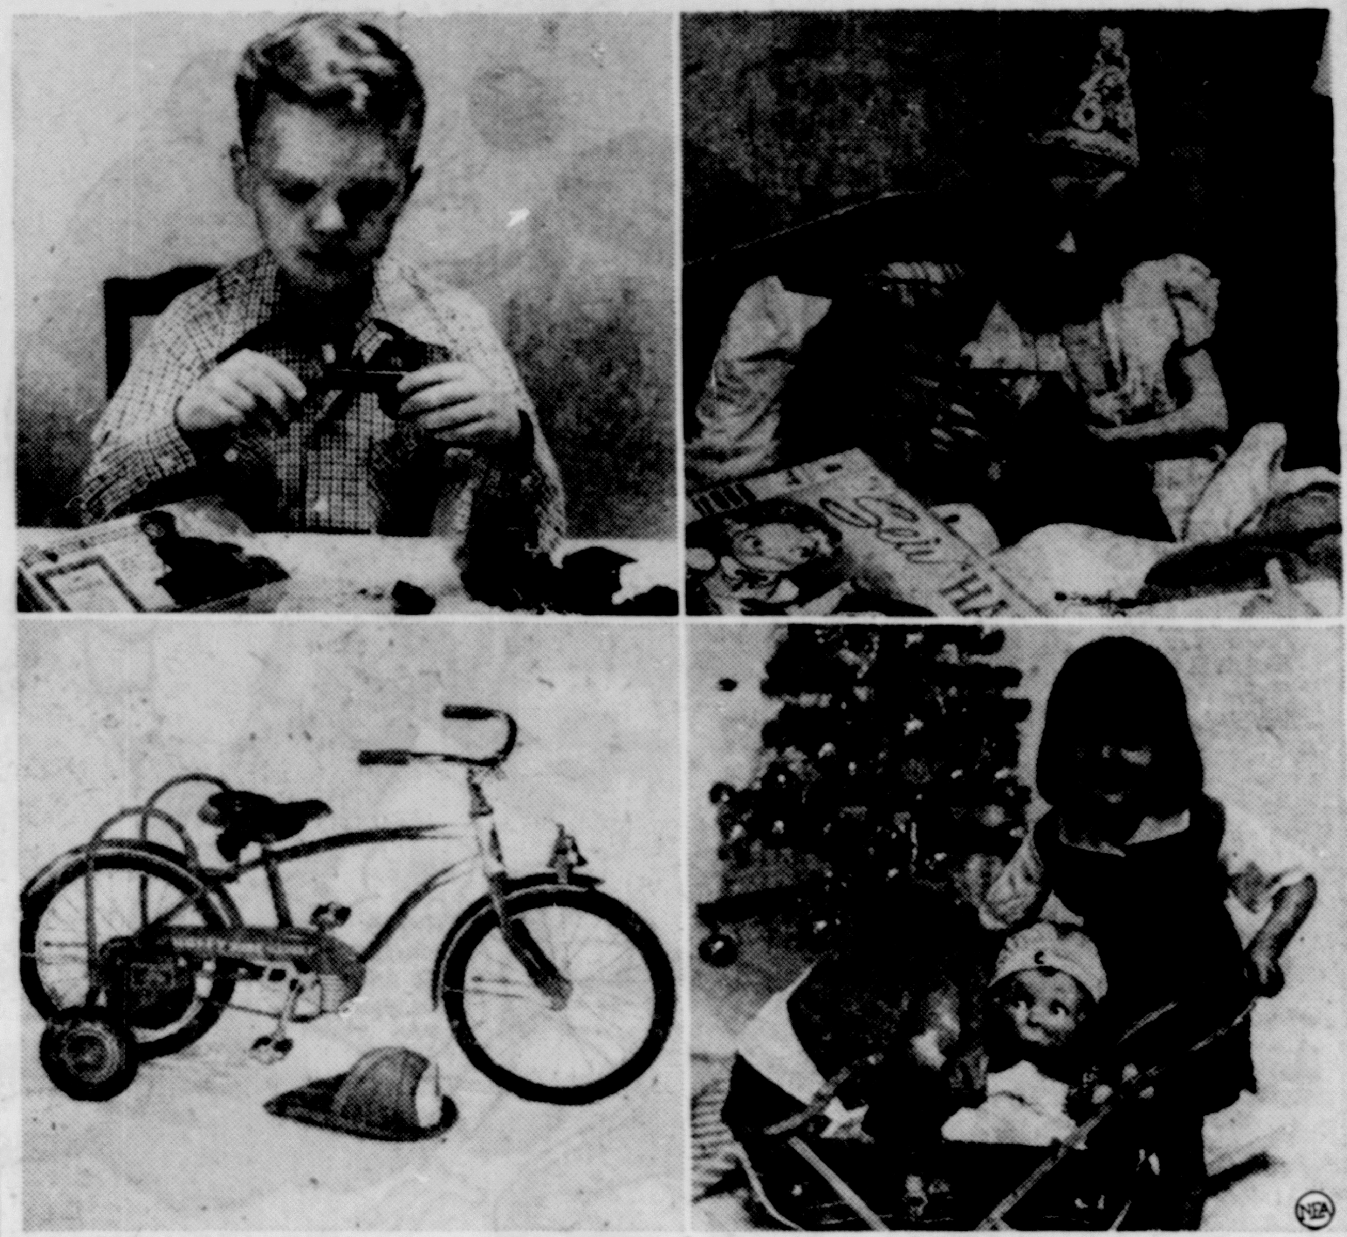
Santa's Spotlight on Creative Toys



New career toys figure prominently in Santa's collection this year as well as handicraft kits for the child interested in creative play. This youngster is making his own antique locomotive (upper left). The plastic parts in the locomotive kit are numbered for easy assembly. For a little girl, nothing could be more fun than a kit to make her own party hats (upper right). There's one for making miniature leather handbags and pearl jewelry, too. The boy who chases fire engines can do it with ease on his own fire-chief bicycle (lower left). For the small girl who's outgrowing her clothes quickly, there's a new doll and carriage (lower right) with an adjustable handle that's sure to see her through several seasons. The rag doll has a big-eyed plastic face.

Prominent IBM Engineer Named Plants Director

Charles F. McElwain of Binghamton, who joined International Business Machines Corp. more than 31 years ago, and is outstanding in the field of engineering, has been appointed director of defense engineering and defense manufacturing to work closely with the corporation's plants in Poughkeepsie and Endicott and the one in Kingston when it begins operations.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made Tuesday by President Thomas J. Watson, Jr. of IBM corporation about McElwain's promotion from defense engineering coordinator, the position he occupied since July 1953. McElwain is a member of the Army Ordnance Association, the Society of Automotive Engineers, Engineering Committee, Industrial Hygiene Foundation of America and served as consultant to a committee which in 1948 achieved the standardization of screw threads on all nuts and bolts manufactured in the United States, United Kingdom and Canada.

McELWAIN SERVED as manager of the War Council of the American Standards Association and in 1945 received a certificate honoring his contribution to the development of the U. S. War Standards. He headed the association's sectional committee which was instrumental in setting up a standard sponsored by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and adopted for industry as a whole in January 1947.

His first connection with IBM was as a customer engineer in Pittsburgh in 1923, serving the company's offices in Indianapolis and San Francisco. In 1929 he was advanced to the Southern district as supervisory of customer engineering with headquarters in Houston, Tex. He was further promoted to chief inspector at IBM's plant in Endicott in 1932 and subsequently served the manufacturing organization there as supervisor of assembly, supervisor of ordnance, assistant superintendent, plant superintendent, works manager and manager of defense engineering.

IN JULY 1953, McElwain was assigned to the staff of IBM director of engineering at the company's world headquarters in New York coordinating all IBM defense engineering throughout the country.

Announcement of McElwain's new appointment was made at a luncheon meeting in IBM Country Club, Poughkeepsie, attended by managers of the plant and engineering laboratory there and the Kingston plant. President Watson was introduced for the announcement by William J. Mair, vice president and general manager of the Poughkeepsie IBM plant, who also presented McElwain, Gavin A. Cullen, general manager of the Kingston plant; Horace S. Beattie, manager of Poughkeepsie engineering laboratory, and Wallace W. McDowell, vice president in charge of IBM engineering.

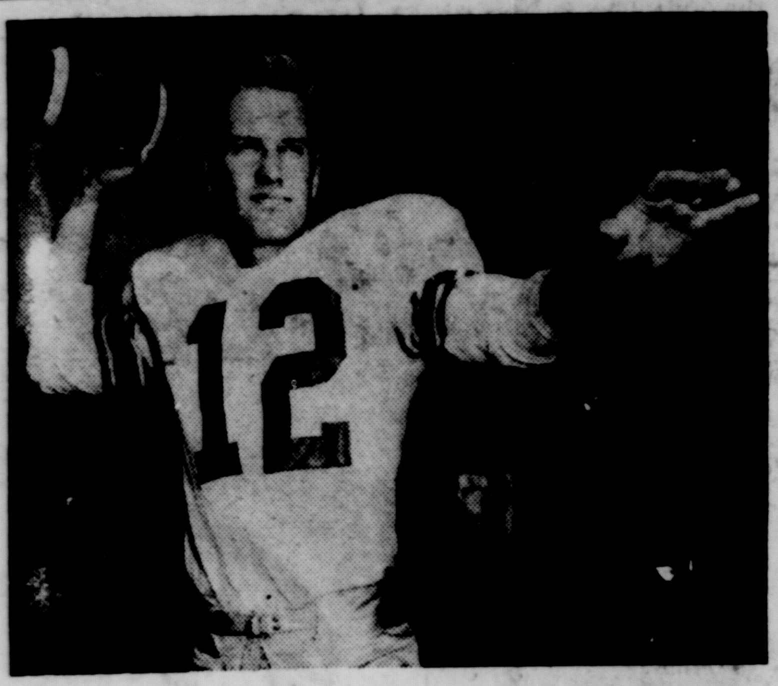
Kerhonkson Trips Onteora; New Paltz Defeats Wappingers



CLATTERBUCK AT QUARTERBACK — Present and future are combined in Bobby Clatterbuck, handsome Giant rookie. The blond Texan came to training camp completely unheralded, beat out two All-Americans for jobs, then led the team to three touchdowns in his first league game. Only 22, the 195 pound, 6 foot 3 inch, U. of Houston product is the Giant quarterback of this year and many more to come.

Sexias and Trabert In Victoria Finals

Melbourne, Dec. 1 (AP)—America's top Davis Cuppers — Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert — powered their way into the doubles final of the Victoria tennis championships today. They fought an uphill struggle to defeat Australia's Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall in five fierce sets 10-12, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Seixas and Trabert now will meet Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose, Australia's Wimbledon champions, in the doubles final. Hartwig and Rose earlier had whipped Ham Richardson, another U. S. Davis cupper paired with Aussie Neale Fraser, 6-1, 12-14, 6-2, 7-5.

4th Period Spurt Downs Indians In UCAL Opener

Kerhonkson High broke a close game wide open in the fourth period to trounce Onteora Central 41-32, in the Ulster County Athletic League's preview opener last night at Kerhonkson.

The regular schedule for all teams starts next Tuesday.

Coach Chick Meehan's cagers led 21-17 at the half but Onteora slipped ahead, 27-26, with a 10-5 bulge in the third period. Then came the Kerhonkson rally sparked by Werner Wustrau and Tom Gates.

WUSTRAU EMERGED as the game's high scorer with 18 points and Gates popped an even dozen with six baskets.

Ben Robinson was the only Onteora player to reach double figures with 10 points. Bob Kaiser and Ronnie Locke of Coach Ed Witko's starting five each had six points.

The boxscore:

Accurate Foul Shooting Brings 74-69 Victory

Coach Larry Johnson's New Paltz Central cagers showed professional form at the foul line to defeat Wappingers Falls, 74-69, in the 1954-55 basketball opener last night at New Paltz.

Off to an early lead, the Larries nailed down their victory with 34 foul shots. Wappingers held a 31-20 edge from the field.

Sparked by Don Jayne, the Paltzers led 16-8 a the quarter and 45-33 at halftime. Wappingers made its best showing with a 24-18 margin in the stretch period.

JAYNE hooped 20 points for New Paltz, 12 from the foul line. Center Gerald Harp bucketed 16 points, Arthur Dehardt hit 16 and Jim Dodd had 14.

Jim Closson, veteran Wappingers forward, was the individual scoring star with 29 points. Terralazaro hit 17 for the losers, who were able to pick up only seven points from the foul line.

Ex-Referee Likes New Coach Job With Fort Wayne

(By The Associated Press)

Take it from Charley Eckman, a National Basketball Association referee for seven years, his new job as head coach of the Fort Wayne Pistons is a pleasant one "especially when you're winning."

"I know I'm looking at the game from a different angle this season, but if the boys continue to play as they have been, it's going to be a mighty enjoyable winter," he said last night after the Pistons had polished off the Minneapolis Lakers 92-90 in the opener of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader. The victory enable Fort Wayne to increase its Western Division lead to 2½ games.

New York nipped Philadelphia 95-91 in overtime in the Garden windup and in the circuit's only other game, the Boston Celts drubbed Milwaukee 118-99.

Successive baskets by Carl Braun and Ray Felix in the fourth period of the extra session enabled the Knickerbockers to snap a four-game losing streak.

La Starza 3-2 Over Norkus

Cleveland, Dec. 1 (AP)—Roland La Starza and Rocky Castellani, a pair of handsome boxers with lost championship bids in their memoirs, meet two powerful sluggers tonight on the Cleveland News' annual toyshop boxing card.

La Starza, of New York, once the top-ranked heavyweight contender, will be opening a comeback drive in a 10-rounder against a crude but hard-hitting opponent, Charlie Norkus of Port Washington, N. Y. That bout will be televised from the Cleveland Arena. (CBS-TV, 10 p m. EST).

Cleveland's Castellani, like La Starza a fancy boxer, meets Moses (No Clinch) Ward of Detroit, another middleweight who counts more on punching power than footwork skill. That fight also is scheduled for 10 rounds.

The experienced La Starza was 3-2 favorite over the wild-swinging Norkus; while Castellani was favored over Ward, 9-5.

Navy's Welsh Back of Week

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 1 (AP)—Navy quarterback George Thomas Welsh, who was named the Associated Press Back of the Week for his play in the win over Army Saturday, was tabbed "a right-handed Frankie Albert" today by his coach.

"You never knew what Frankie was going to do," Erdelatz said, "and he had lots of guts." This is the reason for the parallel with the former great of Stanford and the professional San Francisco 49ers.

"Welsh not only is a good player, but he has the respect of the other players," Erdelatz said. "When he calls a play, they know it's right." For example take the play Saturday with fourth down and one to go. He took a shot at it," Erdelatz said.

Welsh's reaction to the latest honor was "My gosh."

That Man, Burkoski, Back To Haunt DUSO Basketball

Coach George "Lanky" Masterson will have 10 players on the Newburgh Academy basketball squad this season.

But the big guy, so far as the rest of the DUSO League is concerned, is Mickey Burkoski, who is preparing for his fourth straight season as varsity center for the Goldbacks.

Burkoski, one of the league's all-time great centers, is making his last trip and that in itself insures another winning season for the lanky, silver-haired mentor.

THREE OF LAST year's regulars — Mort Zodikoff, Phil Fruchter and George Conine—will be missing. But backing up Burkoski will be such stalwarts as William Huber and Paul Benosky of football fame, and Harold Kaplan, Joe Castanero, John Naylor, Jack Schoenbeger and Dick Clark.

Outstanding prospects from the Jayvees include Jack McDonough, the tennis whiz, Ralph Cook and John Naylor.

Newburgh opens its season against Poughkeepsie High on Dec. 10.

Sexias and Trabert In Victoria Finals

Melbourne, Dec. 1 (AP)—America's top Davis Cuppers — Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert — powered their way into the doubles final of the Victoria tennis championships today. They fought an uphill struggle to defeat Australia's Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall in five fierce sets 10-12, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Seixas and Trabert now will meet Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose, Australia's Wimbledon champions, in the doubles final. Hartwig and Rose earlier had whipped Ham Richardson, another U. S. Davis cupper paired with Aussie Neale Fraser, 6-1, 12-14, 6-2, 7-5.

Ex-Referee Likes New Coach Job With Fort Wayne

(By The Associated Press)

Take it from Charley Eckman, a National Basketball Association referee for seven years, his new job as head coach of the Fort Wayne Pistons is a pleasant one "especially when you're winning."

"I know I'm looking at the game from a different angle this season, but if the boys continue to play as they have been, it's going to be a mighty enjoyable winter," he said last night after the Pistons had polished off the Minneapolis Lakers 92-90 in the opener of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader. The victory enable Fort Wayne to increase its Western Division lead to 2½ games.

New York nipped Philadelphia 95-91 in overtime in the Garden windup and in the circuit's only other game, the Boston Celts drubbed Milwaukee 118-99.

Successive baskets by Carl Braun and Ray Felix in the fourth period of the extra session enabled the Knickerbockers to snap a four-game losing streak.

La Starza 3-2 Over Norkus

Cleveland, Dec. 1 (AP)—Roland La Starza and Rocky Castellani, a pair of handsome boxers with lost championship bids in their memoirs, meet two powerful sluggers tonight on the Cleveland News' annual toyshop boxing card.

La Starza, of New York, once the top-ranked heavyweight contender, will be opening a comeback drive in a 10-rounder against a crude but hard-hitting opponent, Charlie Norkus of Port Washington, N. Y. That bout will be televised from the Cleveland Arena. (CBS-TV, 10 p m. EST).

Cleveland's Castellani, like La Starza a fancy boxer , meets Moses (No Clinch) Ward of Detroit, another middleweight who counts more on punching power than footwork skill. That fight also is scheduled for 10 rounds.

The experienced La Starza was 3-2 favorite over the wild-swinging Norkus; while Castellani was favored over Ward, 9-5.

BOWLING SCORES

Fred Schryver Slams 648

Fred Schryver powered the hat trick and a rousing 648 slam in the Central Rec League to lead last night's tenpin action in the city.

The Chez Emile leadoff tossed another of his strong series with lines of 232, 202 and 223.

Rose Schatzel, meanwhile, continued to grind out big totals in the Woman's Major. This time she tripled 582 with 192, 206 and 184.

Moe Lazarowitz got better as he went along to mix 171, 215 and 223 for a 609 in the Good Neighbor League. Murray Greene's 235 was high solo in that circuit.

J. Howard gave the Booster League a major league touch with a 611 slam on games of 196, 220 and 195.

Bill Kaplan of the Good Neighbor League qualified for an ABC triplicate patch with three scores of 144 for a 432 series.

Race Tracks Set New Attendance High

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—An all time record attendance of 30 million at American race tracks for 1954 was estimated today by the president of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations. However, a slight drop in wagering was noted.

"Once again thoroughbred racing is the country's top-ranking spectator sport," John A. Morris of New York told the TRA's 13th annual meeting which opened today. The TRA has 39 member tracks, including most of the major plants in the country.

"When the final count is in, it is estimated that attendance will total 30,0000,000. This is an increase of 7½ per cent over the all-time high attendance recorded in 1953."

Brodhead Sinks 35

Skip Brodhead got his usual 35 points in the YMCA Autumn basketball league last night. And Lou's Cleaners dusted off Murray's, 71-54, in their final appearance of the fall campaign.

In the future Brodhead and the remainder of the Lou's lineup will be trying to bring honor and glory to Kingston in the DUSO League.

While Skip was rimming 15 fields and five conversions, Marty Kantrowitz looped 15 and Bob Maines hit an even dozen. Big Jack Doyle hooped 21 and Jay Rider hit 20 for the Murrays.

ACCORD SCORED one of its rare victories with a 52-48 decision over J&E Milk Bar.

Three players hit in double figures for Accord with R. Ingham scoring 13, Andy Anderson 12 and B. Pomeroy 10.

Top man for the Milk Bar was Bob Faurote with 18. John Thompson rimmed 15.

Cubs Sell Baumholtz to White Sox; Giants, Dodgers Poised for Deals

Houston, Dec. 1 (AP)—Don't let that itsy-bitsy Frankie Baumholtz deal fool you. This minor league convention is giving signs of being the incubator for a number of eye-opening major league player trades.

Every big league manager here is talking trade—and not just to make conversation. There isn't a single club that doesn't have at least one or two outstanding weaknesses and the boys are trying to do something about it.

Chicago's White Sox are almost certain to complete a man-sized trade with either Washington or Kansas City. Sox general manager Frank Lane denied one that involved Washington and such big names as Minnie Minoso, George Kell, Eddie Yost and Mickey McDermott. But he and manager Chuck Dressen of the Senators have another deal cooking that will be almost as big when, and if, completed.

BALTIMORE involved only recently in an 18-player trade with the New York Yankees, is reported close to another swap with the Athletics.

In the only business done yesterday, the Chicago Cubs sold outfielder Frankie Baumholtz to the White Sox for $20,000 and the Cleveland Indians sent outfielder Gale Wade to the Cubs as part of last month's Ralph Kiner deal. It came to light today that the Cubs got more than just money—$60,000—from the Indians for Kiner. Pitcher Sam Jones, who reportedly was sold by Cleveland to the Cubs, actually was part of the Kiner transaction. Now comes Wade, who batted .273 at Indianapolis last season.

From the way rival clubs have been chasing Dodger Vice-President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, you'd think Brooklyn won the pennant in 1954 instead of finishing second. Cincinnati and Philadelphia have made offers for Jackie Robinson. The Phils also want Carl Furillo and Junior Gilliam. The Dodgers have asked for Curt Simmons and Smokey Burgess from the Phils.

LATE LAST NIGHT, Bavasi was talking earnestly with General Manager Roy Hamey of the Phils. Earlier he had been in conference with the Reds' Birdie Tebbetts and the Cardinals' Eddie Stanky. A Cardinal-Dodger trade is a distinct possibility involving a St. Louis outfielder and a Brooklyn pitcher.

Even Leo Durocher, victorious manager of the world champion New York Giants, is after pitching help.

"We are not looking for just another pitcher," Leo said. "We are willing to give up plenty for a pitcher like Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn, Gene Conley or Curt Simmons. We're after another starter to go with Johnny Antonelli, Ruben Gomez and Sal Maglie."

Road Games Boost Blackhawk Take

(By The Associated Press)

The lowly Chicago Blackhawks, who finished in the National Hockey League cellar last year, were looking to the future "big nights" in their home-and-away-from-home games for financial aid.

Last night the Blackhawks drew 4,506 fans at Omaha where they played to a 3-3 tie with the league-leading Montreal Canadiens. Last week Chicago and Montreal attracted 10,273 at St. Louis in a 4-4 deadlock. The game was the second in six games that the Blackhawks will play on the home-and-away-from-home basis.

Floyd Curry's last minute goal for the flying-Frenchmen salvaged a tie for the league-leaders.

Cubs Sell Baumholtz to White Sox; Giants, Dodgers Poised for Deals

Houston, Dec. 1 (AP)—Don't let that itsy-bitsy Frankie Baumholtz deal fool you. This minor league convention is giving signs of being the incubator for a number of eye-opening major league player trades.

Every big league manager here is talking trade—and not just to make conversation. There isn't a single club that doesn't have at least one or two outstanding weaknesses and the boys are trying to do something about it.

Chicago's White Sox are almost certain to complete a man-sized trade with either Washington or Kansas City. Sox general manager Frank Lane denied one that involved Washington and such big names as Minnie Minoso, George Kell, Eddie Yost and Mickey McDermott. But he and manager Chuck Dressen of the Senators have another deal cooking that will be almost as big when, and if, completed.

BALTIMORE involved only recently in an 18-player trade with the New York Yankees, is reported close to another swap with the Athletics.

In the only business done yesterday, the Chicago Cubs sold outfielder Frankie Baumholtz to the White Sox for $20,000 and the Cleveland Indians sent outfielder Gale Wade to the Cubs as part of last month's Ralph Kiner deal. It came to light today that the Cubs got more than just money—$60,000—from the Indians for Kiner. Pitcher Sam Jones, who reportedly was sold by Cleveland to the Cubs, actually was part of the Kiner transaction. Now comes Wade, who batted .273 at Indianapolis last season.

From the way rival clubs have been chasing Dodger Vice-President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, you'd think Brooklyn won the pennant in 1954 instead of finishing second. Cincinnati and Philadelphia have made offers for Jackie Robinson. The Phils also want Carl Furillo and Junior Gilliam. The Dodgers have asked for Curt Simmons and Smokey Burgess from the Phils.

LATE LAST NIGHT, Bavasi was talking earnestly with General Manager Roy Hamey of the Phils. Earlier he had been in conference with the Reds' Birdie Tebbetts and the Cardinals' Eddie Stanky. A Cardinal-Dodger trade is a distinct possibility involving a St. Louis outfielder and a Brooklyn pitcher.

Even Leo Durocher, victorious manager of the world champion New York Giants, is after pitching help.

"We are not looking for just another pitcher," Leo said. "We are willing to give up plenty for a pitcher like Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn, Gene Conley or Curt Simmons. We're after another starter to go with Johnny Antonelli, Ruben Gomez and Sal Maglie."

Road Games Boost Blackhawk Take

(By The Associated Press)

The lowly Chicago Blackhawks, who finished in the National Hockey League cellar last year, were looking to the future "big nights" in their home-and-away-from-home games for financial aid.

Last night the Blackhawks drew 4,506 fans at Omaha where they played to a 3-3 tie with the league-leading Montreal Canadiens. Last week Chicago and Montreal attracted 10,273 at St. Louis in a 4-4 deadlock. The game was the second in six games that the Blackhawks will play on the home-and-away-from-home basis.

Floyd Curry's last minute goal for the flying-Frenchmen salvaged a tie for the league-leaders.

BOWLING SCORES

Fred Schryver Slams 648

Fred Schryver powered the hat trick and a rousing 648 slam in the Central Rec League to lead last night's tenpin action in the city.

The Chez Emile leadoff tossed another of his strong series with lines of 232, 202 and 223.

Rose Schatzel, meanwhile, continued to grind out big totals in the Woman's Major. This time she tripled 582 with 192, 206 and 184.

Moe Lazarowitz got better as he went along to mix 171, 215 and 223 for a 609 in the Good Neighbor League. Murray Greene's 235 was high solo in that circuit.

J. Howard gave the Booster League a major league touch with a 611 slam on games of 196, 220 and 195.

Race Tracks Set New Attendance High

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—An all time record attendance of 30 million at American race tracks for 1954 was estimated today by the president of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations. However, a slight drop in wagering was noted.

"Once again thoroughbred racing is the country's top-ranking spectator sport," John A. Morris of New York told the TRA's 13th annual meeting which opened today. The TRA has 39 member tracks, including most of the major plants in the country.

"When the final count is in, it is estimated that attendance will total 30,0000,000. This is an increase of 7½ per cent over the all-time high attendance recorded in 1953."

Brodhead Sinks 35

Skip Brodhead got his usual 35 points in the YMCA Autumn basketball league last night. And Lou's Cleaners dusted off Murray's, 71-54, in their final appearance of the fall campaign.

In the future Brodhead and the remainder of the Lou's lineup will be trying to bring honor and glory to Kingston in the DUSO League.

While Skip was rimming 15 fields and five conversions, Marty Kantrowitz looped 15 and Bob Maines hit an even dozen. Big Jack Doyle hooped 21 and Jay Rider hit 20 for the Murrays.

ACCORD SCORED one of its rare victories with a 52-48 decision over J&E Milk Bar.

Three players hit in double figures for Accord with R. Ingham scoring 13, Andy Anderson 12 and B. Pomeroy 10.

Top man for the Milk Bar was Bob Faurote with 18. John Thompson rimmed 15.

Cubs Sell Baumholtz to White Sox; Giants, Dodgers Poised for Deals

Houston, Dec. 1 (AP)—Don't let that itsy-bitsy Frankie Baumholtz deal fool you. This minor league convention is giving signs of being the incubator for a number of eye-opening major league player trades.

Every big league manager here is talking trade—and not just to make conversation. There isn't a single club that doesn't have at least one or two outstanding weaknesses and the boys are trying to do something about it.

Chicago's White Sox are almost certain to complete a man-sized trade with either Washington or Kansas City. Sox general manager Frank Lane denied one that involved Washington and such big names as Minnie Minoso, George Kell, Eddie Yost and Mickey McDermott. But he and manager Chuck Dressen of the Senators have another deal cooking that will be almost as big when, and if, completed.

BALTIMORE involved only recently in an 18-player trade with the New York Yankees, is reported close to another swap with the Athletics.

In the only business done yesterday, the Chicago Cubs sold outfielder Frankie Baumholtz to the White Sox for $20,000 and the Cleveland Indians sent outfielder Gale Wade to the Cubs as part of last month's Ralph Kiner deal. It came to light today that the Cubs got more than just money—$60,000—from the Indians for Kiner. Pitcher Sam Jones, who reportedly was sold by Cleveland to the Cubs, actually was part of the Kiner transaction. Now comes Wade, who batted .273 at Indianapolis last season.

From the way rival clubs have been chasing Dodger Vice-President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, you'd think Brooklyn won the pennant in 1954 instead of finishing second. Cincinnati and Philadelphia have made offers for Jackie Robinson. The Phils also want Carl Furillo and Junior Gilliam. The Dodgers have asked for Curt Simmons and Smokey Burgess from the Phils.

LATE LAST NIGHT, Bavasi was talking earnestly with General Manager Roy Hamey of the Phils. Earlier he had been in conference with the Reds' Birdie Tebbetts and the Cardinals' Eddie Stanky. A Cardinal-Dodger trade is a distinct possibility involving a St. Louis outfielder and a Brooklyn pitcher.

Even Leo Durocher, victorious manager of the world champion New York Giants, is after pitching help.

"We are not looking for just another pitcher," Leo said. "We are willing to give up plenty for a pitcher like Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn, Gene Conley or Curt Simmons. We're after another starter to go with Johnny Antonelli, Ruben Gomez and Sal Maglie."

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

You won't find the name of George Welsh on either the All-Eastern or All-America teams, but the Navy quarterback was the best man on the field last Saturday at mammoth Municipal Stadium in Philadelphia.

Welsh took the spotlight away from the highly publicized Petey Vann and murdered Army with beautifully executed pitchouts. And if there was any doubt about Ronnie Beagle's claim to All-America distinction, the huge crowd had to be convinced by the manner in which he hounded Vann on forward passes.

On the next to the last pass tried by Army, Beagle hit Vann with such force the patrons in the 75th row shuddered.

Some of the Army strategy was puzzling. We couldn't understand the Cadets failure to resort to long passes after Vann completed a 40-yard TDer to Uebel. Why did Army use its second stringers against Navy's starters at the beginning of the second quarter. Why the frequency of onside kick attempts? Why not a desperation forward pass instead of a punt on Army's last play from scrimmage. Second guessing, all this, to be sure.

Navy had the better ball club Saturday. Not so much physically or statistically but it had the take-charge guy and the desire to win. And Welsh was the guy.

Looking back to that spectacular first half, it had to be one of the greatest in collegiate football history. This Erdalatz guy has found a home at Annapolis. With a 4-1 record over Earl Blaik, it would take an A-Bomb to pry him away from the Middies.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The football pressbox at the Polo Grounds for Sunday's game between the Cleveland Browns and Giants attracted a record turnout. On the Giants' first scrimmage sequence they wound up minus-9. That was the tipoff. Kingstonians we saw at the home of the Giants included Bill Van Aken and company, the three Svirsky brothers—George, Huck and Julius—Izzy Handler, Pete Keresman and Fritz Bruhn and one of his heirs. Big Ed O'Connor of Newburgh, who leads Manhattan College against Hartwick here on Dec. 18, set the all-time Jasper scoring record with 426 points last season. Bill Merrill of Kingston has been awarded his letter in football at Trinity-Pawling after the 1954 season in which T-P won 6 and lost 1. Section 9 sports dinner will hear Dr. Grover, new director of the Division of Health and Physical Education of the NYSPHSAA at Newburgh on Dec. 8.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS who are having trouble deciding on gifts for their golfing friends need ponder no more. In the December issue of Golf Digest, the gamut of gift suggestions run from such mundane articles as golf balls in attractive "other purpose" packages to unusual items like a leather gadget worn on the back of the hand that guarantees to cure a hook or slice. Other out-of-the ordinary gift suggestions include a foam rubber device for curing "look-up-itis", a coin dispenser which screws onto the top of any putter; a seat that will attach to any golf cart, a set of colored eye "glasses" that will correct faulty head movement, spectator's seat-stick which doubles as a periscope, and a home-putting practice device that kicks the ball right back to you. Everything it seems but the fabled automatic putter.

SIENA COLLEGE'S basketball brochure is saturated with optimism for the 1954-55 campaign which opens Dec. 4 against the Alumni. With respect to Frank Koenig, the junior from Kingston, the brochure says: "Has tremendous stride. Good on driving layups. One of the team's best rebounders and jumpers. Acquired confidence last year as a soph. Rated team's "dark horse."

Parlo Voted Best 3-Year-Old Filly

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Parlo, a chestnut daughter of Heliopolis, was voted the champion 3-year-old filly of the 1954 season today by the Thoroughbred Racing Association's board of selectors.

The sophomore filly, bred and owned by the Foxcatcher Farms of William Dupont, Jr., of Delaware, received 33 of the 39 possible votes from the racing secretaries of TRA tracks.

Earlier the board had chosen the Wheatley Stable's High Voltage the champion 2-year-old filly by a 19 to 18 decision over the Claiborne Stud's Delta. High voltage is owned by Mrs. H. C. Phipps.

Van Brocklin Leads Passers

Philadelphia, Dec. 1 (AP)—With the National Football League season moving down the home stretch, Norm Van Brocklin of the Los Angeles Rams maintained his passing leadership in statistics released today.

Cleveland's Otto Graham, defending champion in the passing department, moved up from fifth to second. Van Brocklin now has an average gain of 10.34 yards with 124 completions out of 229 passes attempted and has tossed for 11 touchdowns. Graham has connected with 121 out of 207 and the same number of touchdowns.

Philadelphia's Adrian Burk has thrown 19 touchdown passes with Charley Conerly of the New York Giants second at 17.

Joe Perry of the San Francisco 49ers is well on his way to a successful defense of his NFL ball carrying honors. Perry has gained 870 yards on 135 attempts for a 6.4 yard average. Second is teammate John Henry Johnson with 634 yards.

BACK OF THE WEEK—Navy's George Welsh, whose quarterbacking was a key factor in Navy's defeat of Army Saturday, was designated "Back of the Week" Tuesday for the last big week of the 1954 grid season. His passing accounted for three Navy touchdowns in the annual service game against the Cadets and he scored the other TD after setting it up with a pass. (AP Wirephoto).

Ulster Planning Board Will Hold Initial Hearing

The planning board of the town of Ulster will hold its first public hearing Monday, Dec. 6 at 7:30 p. m. in the Town Garage, Albany avenue extension. This hearing will be for the purpose of discussing the proposed regulations for subdivision or plot control by the planning board. These regulations apply only on subdivisions containing two or more houses not on an already existing town road or street thus creating a new street. The regulations are designed to allow for an orderly and systematic expansion of the town.

Richard C. Slocum of the Bureau of Planning, New York State Department of Commerce, will be present and will explain the regulations.

Members of the planning board are John Walker, Francis Phinney, Harold Baltz, Sherwood Davis, secretary, and William H. Pretsch, chairman.

A match which promoter Ted Bayly labels as his "extravaganza of the year" will be presented at a wrestling show in the municipal auditorium on Wednesday, Dec. 8, according to an announcement he made today.

Argentina Rocca and Yukon Eric, two of television's leading lights, are the principals.

Bayly, who has been presenting spot shows here, said he booked the match because he thought area fans might like to see the two mat stars as opponents.

ROCCA, featuring his backbreaker and jumping-jack tactics to defeat some of wrestling's best, has been a sensation since he came from South America several years ago.

Eric, the part Eskimo strong man from Alaska, is one of the sturdiest, most powerful grapplers of the day, who packs Marigold Gardens, whenever he appears at the Chicago capital of wrestling.

Bayly expects a full house when the two stars meet as opponents at the auditorium next Wednesday, he said, because he considers the match a top attraction in any arena.

Two other exhibitions will support the feature, with starting time of the show set at 8:30 p. m.

Lions Hear About Brothers' System

Purposes and philosophies of the Society of Brothers community at Rifton were outlined to members of the Lions Club at a luncheon meeting on Tuesday by Guy Johnson, an English brother who helped set up the Rifton group.

The Society of Brothers purchased the 96-acre former Dimmick estate in June of this year and have established a cooperative community now numbering about 70 persons. They earn their livelihood by manufacturing educational blocks and toys for children.

Johnson explained that the Brothers do not isolate themselves from the world, but invite anyone to visit their community at any time. The Brotherhood is founded upon Sermon on the Mount ideals, with "complete bearing and sharing of one another's burdens," Johnson said.

Each "puts in what he can, each receives what he needs," the speaker said. He emphasized that the Brotherhood has "nothing to do with the political system which is paraded across the world as communism, but which in fact is not (communism)."

You won't find the name of George Welsh on either the All-Eastern or All-America teams, but the Navy quarterback was the best man on the field last Saturday at mammoth Municipal Stadium in Philadelphia.

Welsh took the spotlight away from the highly publicized Petey Vann and murdered Army with beautifully executed pitchouts. And if there was any doubt about Ronnie Beagle's claim to All-America distinction, the huge crowd had to be convinced by the manner in which he hounded Vann on forward passes.

On the next to the last pass tried by Army, Beagle hit Vann with such force the patrons in the 75th row shuddered.

Some of the Army strategy was puzzling. We couldn't understand the Cadets failure to resort to long passes after Vann completed a 40-yard TDer to Uebel. Why did Army use its second stringers against Navy's starters at the beginning of the second quarter. Why the frequency of onside kick attempts? Why not a desperation forward pass instead of a punt on Army's last play from scrimmage. Second guessing, all this, to be sure.

Navy had the better ball club Saturday. Not so much physically or statistically but it had the take-charge guy and the desire to win. And Welsh was the guy.

Looking back to that spectacular first half, it had to be one of the greatest in collegiate football history. This Erdalatz guy has found a home at Annapolis. With a 4-1 record over Earl Blaik, it would take an A-Bomb to pry him away from the Middies.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The football pressbox at the Polo Grounds for Sunday's game between the Cleveland Browns and Giants attracted a record turnout. On the Giants' first scrimmage sequence they wound up minus-9. That was the tipoff. Kingstonians we saw at the home of the Giants included Bill Van Aken and company, the three Svirsky brothers—George, Huck and Julius—Izzy Handler, Pete Keresman and Fritz Bruhn and one of his heirs. Big Ed O'Connor of Newburgh, who leads Manhattan College against Hartwick here on Dec. 18, set the all-time Jasper scoring record with 426 points last season. Bill Merrill of Kingston has been awarded his letter in football at Trinity-Pawling after the 1954 season in which T-P won 6 and lost 1. Section 9 sports dinner will hear Dr. Grover, new director of the Division of Health and Physical Education of the NYSPHSAA at Newburgh on Dec. 8.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS who are having trouble deciding on gifts for their golfing friends need ponder no more. In the December issue of Golf Digest, the gamut of gift suggestions run from such mundane articles as golf balls in attractive "other purpose" packages to unusual items like a leather gadget worn on the back of the hand that guarantees to cure a hook or slice. Other out-of-the ordinary gift suggestions include a foam rubber device for curing "look-up-itis", a coin dispenser which screws onto the top of any putter; a seat that will attach to any golf cart, a set of colored eye "glasses" that will correct faulty head movement, spectator's seat-stick which doubles as a periscope, and a home-putting practice device that kicks the ball right back to you. Everything it seems but the fabled automatic putter.

SIENA COLLEGE'S basketball brochure is saturated with optimism for the 1954-55 campaign which opens Dec. 4 against the Alumni. With respect to Frank Koenig, the junior from Kingston, the brochure says: "Has tremendous stride. Good on driving layups. One of the team's best rebounders and jumpers. Acquired confidence last year as a soph. Rated team's "dark horse."

Ulster Planning Board Will Hold Initial Hearing

The planning board of the town of Ulster will hold its first public hearing Monday, Dec. 6 at 7:30 p. m. in the Town Garage, Albany avenue extension. This hearing will be for the purpose of discussing the proposed regulations for subdivision or plot control by the planning board. These regulations apply only on subdivisions containing two or more houses not on an already existing town road or street thus creating a new street. The regulations are designed to allow for an orderly and systematic expansion of the town.

Richard C. Slocum of the Bureau of Planning, New York State Department of Commerce, will be present and will explain the regulations.

Members of the planning board are John Walker, Francis Phinney, Harold Baltz, Sherwood Davis, secretary, and William H. Pretsch, chairman.

Rocca and Yukon Eric Head Next Mat Program

A match which promoter Ted Bayly labels as his "extravaganza of the year" will be presented at a wrestling show in the municipal auditorium on Wednesday, Dec. 8, according to an announcement he made today.

Argentina Rocca and Yukon Eric, two of television's leading lights, are the principals.

Bayly, who has been presenting spot shows here, said he booked the match because he thought area fans might like to see the two mat stars as opponents.

ROCCA, featuring his backbreaker and jumping-jack tactics to defeat some of wrestling's best, has been a sensation since he came from South America several years ago.

Eric, the part Eskimo strong man from Alaska, is one of the sturdiest, most powerful grapplers of the day, who packs Marigold Gardens, whenever he appears at the Chicago capital of wrestling.

Bayly expects a full house when the two stars meet as opponents at the auditorium next Wednesday, he said, because he considers the match a top attraction in any arena.

Two other exhibitions will support the feature, with starting time of the show set at 8:30 p. m.

Lions Hear About Brothers' System

Purposes and philosophies of the Society of Brothers community at Rifton were outlined to members of the Lions Club at a luncheon meeting on Tuesday by Guy Johnson, an English brother who helped set up the Rifton group.

The Society of Brothers purchased the 96-acre former Dimmick estate in June of this year and have established a cooperative community now numbering about 70 persons. They earn their livelihood by manufacturing educational blocks and toys for children.

Johnson explained that the Brothers do not isolate themselves from the world, but invite anyone to visit their community at any time. The Brotherhood is founded upon Sermon on the Mount ideals, with "complete bearing and sharing of one another's burdens," Johnson said.

Each "puts in what he can, each receives what he needs," the speaker said. He emphasized that the Brotherhood has "nothing to do with the political system which is paraded across the world as communism, but which in fact is not (communism)."

Marie Dionne Is Back Home Again

Montreal, Dec. 1 (AP)—Marie Dionne, frailest of the four remaining quintuplets, has given up her second venture into the world beyond her home. Her sister said last night the 20-year-old girl is "very tired" and has returned to her parents from a Roman Catholic college here in Montreal.

The quints' elder sister, Mrs. Maurice Girouard of Waterloo, Que., said Marie went to the family home in Callander, Ont., for the Nov. 1 All Saints holiday and had not returned to her domestic science studies at Marguerite Bourgeoys College.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS said the girl had left because of ill health. Her father, Oliva Dionne, said in Callander Marie was not sick but had come home because she didn't like the school.

Mrs. Girouard said "when she got home, Marie saw Mom was lonely and decided to stay for awhile . . . she has gone home to get a good rest. She is not ill but she needs peace and quiet."

Shortly before her sister Emilie's death last summer, Marie ended her first try at life away from her family in a Quebec convent.

No Feet on Winnie Upsets Populace

London, Dec. 1 (AP)—"Why no feet on our prime minister?"

That's just one of the questions being asked in the squall of controversy which has broken over artist Graham Sutherland's birthday portrait of Sir Winston Churchill, given him by members of the Houses of Parliament as an 80th anniversary present yesterday.

Opinions are violent in the fight in which there seem to be no neutrals. Sutherland, a top-ranking British artist, painted a picture of an alert old man who seems to be thinking of something and about to spring out of his chair to do something strenuous about it.

But no feet. Sutherland, who won fame and great respect as a painter of highly subjective landscapes and who only lately has turned to portraiture, told newsmen that the feet once were there. But he thought they destroyed the balance of head and hands so painted them out, ending the portrait vaguely at the trouser cuffs.

IT'S DISGUSTING — it's ill-mannered — it's terrible," said Lord Hailsham, a former Conservative member of the House of Commons.

"It is a splendid legacy to posterity," said George Rogers, a Socialist member of Parliament and himself an artist.

Churchill himself called it a great example of modern art combining force and candor. (The old man is known for his aversion to modern art.) The Daily Express reported that at a private viewing before yesterday's public unveiling the prime minister quipped: "It makes me look half-witted, which I ain't."

Sutherland expected the controversy, but seemed to be a little shaken by its violence.

"It is Churchill as I see him," he said. "My idea of him is probably nothing like the man in the street's."

BARBARA CHRISTOFFERS

Folkston, Ga., Dec. 1 (AP)—Barbara Billingsley, daughter of the owner of New York's stork club, and John Rogers Christoffers, 28, a commercial photographer, were married by Judge Cecil Conner, Charlton county ordinary, here Monday.

Conner was out of town today but records in his office showed the couple applied for the license that morning and were married later in the day.

The 18-year-old daughter of Sherman Billingsley of New York and her groom gave no indication where they were bound when they left.

Soon Frisky weighed 128 grams, Peepsqueak only 82. But Frisky died. Experts called in said Frisky died of pneumonia. The kids shifted Peepsqueak to a milk-bread diet. He quickly shot up to 188 grams. So far, no pneumonia.

It's the Law

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP)—Folks living in Michigan's Upper Peninsula learned recently that it's against the law to go sleigh riding without bells on the horses "or mules as the case may be." That and other laws, musty but still valid, were uncovered at a recent meeting of the Michigan Probation and Parole Assn. Another statute makes it a misdemeanor to taunt or accuse another person of having been a convict or inmate of "any jail, prison or reformatory."

Dangerous Goose

Ada, Okla. (AP)—Bernard Baranaski, 54, is in a hospital, with a fractured hip, but he hates to admit he was injured by a goose. A circus worker, he is quick to add it was a big goose—a 15-foot model. He was driving a six-hitch team of ponies pulling the Mother Goose float. He turned the team suddenly to avoid hitting a woman and the float struck a bale of hay. The goose fell on him.

LEGAL NOTICES

SUPREME COURT: COUNTY OF ULSTER — JULIUS TESLER, Plaintiff, against BEATRICE TESLER, PATRICIA E. GOBLE and FLORA M. CONIKER, Defendants.

Plaintiff designates Ulster County as the place of trial.

SUMMONS WITH NOTICE

Plaintiff resides in Ulster County.

To the above named Defendants:

YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer, or, if the complaint is not served with this summons, to serve a notice of appearance, on the Plaintiff's Attorneys within 20 days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear, or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default, for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated, September 15, 1954.

Office and Post Office Address
63 John Street
Kingston, New York

TO BEATRICE TESLER and PATRICIA E. GOBLE:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of Hon. Roscoe V. Elsworth, Justice of the Supreme Court, dated the 5th day of November, 1954, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster at Kingston, New York.

The object of the action is to set aside a conveyance from the defendant, BEATRICE TESLER, to herself and the defendants PATRICIA E. GOBLE and FLORA M. CONIKER, as joint tenants, by deed dated November 12, 1953 and recorded November 13, 1953 in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book 875 of Deeds at page 182: to impose a trust upon said property; to direct the defendant, BEATRICE TESLER, to convey an undivided one-half interest therein to the plaintiff; and for other and further relief. The property in question is the same as described in the deed aforesaid and is commonly known as 12 Tuthill Avenue, Ellenville, New York.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
EXCAVATION FOR
WILKIE AVENUE EXTENSION
CITY OF KINGSTON
NEW YORK

Sealed proposals for the construction of Contract No. 12, "Wilkie Avenue Extension," will be received by the Board of Water Commissioners at their office in City Hall, Kingston, New York until 6:45 p. m., Thursday, December 9, 1954, at which place and time they will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Contract No. 12 comprises the excavation of approximately 125 cubic yards of rock trench and approximately 375 cubic yards of earth trench, furnishing approximately 60 cubic yards of foundation material, and back-filling the trench. The 8-inch cast iron pipe will be furnished and installed by the Kingston Water Department, and the Contractor will be expected to work in close cooperation with the Department forces, to assure rapid completion of the project.

Each bidder must deposit with his bid, security in an amount not less than five per cent (5%) of the amount of his bid, as provided in the Information for bidders.

Drawings and specifications may be examined at the office of the Board of Water Commissioners, or at the office of Bogert and Childs, Consulting Engineers, 624 Madison Avenue, New York City.

Copies of the Contract Documents may be obtained at either of these offices upon payment of $10.00 for each set. Upon return of the Contract Documents, within four weeks after the date set for the receipt of the bids, a bidder will be refunded his payment, and a non-bidder will be refunded $5.00.

The awarding of this contract shall be subject to the provisions of Section 103 of the General Municipal Law of the State of New York.

Board of Water Commissioners of the City of Kingston, New York

Two Girls Win Livestock Awards

Chicago, Dec. 1 (AP)—Two Iowa farm girls, novices in big time competition, now own the International Livestock Exposition's most coveted awards—the steer grand and reserve championships.

They competed yesterday with more than 800 adult exhibitors. It's like saying they raised the finest eating animals in the nation.

For Janice Hullinger, 16, of Manly, Iowa, and Barbara Clausen, 15, of Spencer, Iowa, it was the biggest thrill of their lives.

Janice won the grand championship with her 1,080 pound Aberdeen-Angus summer yearling, "Shorty." Barbara, who likes to be called "Barb," won the reserve grand championship with "Salty," a 1,120 pound shorthorn summer yearling.

The girls talked of arduous hours preparing their steers for the big show but said the effort "was worth it."

Told that last year's champion brought $20,000 at auction, Janice said she had no idea how much "Shorty" might bring when auctioned Thursday.

"Oh, golly, I love him so I'll hate to sell him," she said.

Yoshida Gives

snapped at critics of his trade policy:

"Russia and China have been unable to export to earn foreign exchange. If they have no foreign exchange, how can we expect them to buy anything from us?"

Yoshida was answering questions from both the left and right side of the floor.

He refused to give his critics any hint of his retirement plans. Yoshida has agreed to step down as president of his Liberal party, with the broad hint that this also would mean he would retire from the prime ministership in the near future.

He laid the blame for Japan's current political crisis on politicians "who are running around helter-skelter out of lust for power."

Yoshida's Liberals, a conservative group, still are the largest party in the Diet, but the Democrats and Socialists could push a non-confidence motion and force new elections.

Businessmen who bankroll the Liberals don't want elections. But Yoshida's fighting defense of his policies today indicated the prime minister may still be intending to carry his fight to the people.

The Conservatives attack Yoshida as a "dictator" who "never consults with anyone." The Socialists call him "reactionary."

Apache Cattle Good

San Carlos, Ariz. (AP) — The San Carlos Apache Indians received above-market prices for the livestock at a series of auctions held on the reservation. Purchasers of the more than 4,000 head of cattle came from Arizona, California and New Mexico.

Coal for domestic heating usually occupies about 35 cubic feet per ton.

Quarryville Man's Fine Suspended

George C. Topple, 30, of the Quarryville area, town of Saugerties, was dealt with in local court today on a charge pertaining to "making wilful misrepresentation" to obtain unemployment insurance benefits.

Payment of a $100 fine imposed by City Judge Raymond J. Mino was suspended because the defendant had made restitution to the full amount of $240, which the state charged he had obtained illegally. Restitution had been made before the arraignment today.

TOPPLE WAS ARRESTED some time ago on a warrant executed by state police of the Kingston barracks. The arrest was on complaint of Sidney Tannen, special state labor department agent, who appeared in city court today. With Tannen was Charles G. Coffin, assistant attorney general, appearing in behalf of the state.

It was charged that Topple had been working since the end of February through the middle of April, 1954, while collecting unemployment insurance benefits.

Salvation Army Bonnets

The traditional bonnets, worn by all Salvation Army women, were designed in 1880 by Catherine Booth, wife of the founder of the organization. The original models were designed with large brims, primarily for the protection of their wearers against objects thrown at them from the crowds. Now beloved by the "lassies" as a badge of their service, the bonnets are often handed down from mother to daughter through several generations.

It's the Law

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP)—Folks living in Michigan's Upper Peninsula learned recently that it's against the law to go sleigh riding without bells on the horses "or mules as the case may be." That and other laws, musty but still valid, were uncovered at a recent meeting of the Michigan Probation and Parole Assn. Another statute makes it a misdemeanor to taunt or accuse another person of having been a convict or inmate of "any jail, prison or reformatory."

Dangerous Goose

Ada, Okla. (AP)—Bernard Baranaski, 54, is in a hospital, with a fractured hip, but he hates to admit he was injured by a goose. A circus worker, he is quick to add it was a big goose—a 15-foot model. He was driving a six-hitch team of ponies pulling the Mother Goose float. He turned the team suddenly to avoid hitting a woman and the float struck a bale of hay. The goose fell on him.

LEGAL NOTICES

SUPREME COURT: COUNTY OF ULSTER — JULIUS TESLER, Plaintiff, against BEATRICE TESLER, PATRICIA E. GOBLE and FLORA M. CONIKER, Defendants.

Plaintiff designates Ulster County as the place of trial.

Plaintiff resides in Ulster County.

To the above named Defendants:

YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer, or, if the complaint is not served with this summons, to serve a notice of appearance, on the Plaintiff's Attorneys within 20 days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear, or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default, for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated, September 15, 1954.

TO BEATRICE TESLER and PATRICIA E. GOBLE:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of Hon. Roscoe V. Elsworth, Justice of the Supreme Court, dated the 5th day of November, 1954, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster at Kingston, New York.

The object of the action is to set aside a conveyance from the defendant, BEATRICE TESLER, to herself and the defendants PATRICIA E. GOBLE and FLORA M. CONIKER, as joint tenants, by deed dated November 12, 1953 and recorded November 13, 1953 in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book 875 of Deeds at page 182: to impose a trust upon said property; to direct the defendant, BEATRICE TESLER, to convey an undivided one-half interest therein to the plaintiff; and for other and further relief. The property in question is the same as described in the deed aforesaid and is commonly known as 12 Tuthill Avenue, Ellenville, New York.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

WILKIE AVENUE EXTENSION
CITY OF KINGSTON
NEW YORK

Sealed proposals for the construction of Contract No 12, "Wilkie Avenue Extension," will be received by the Board of Water Commissioners at their office in City Hall, Kingston, New York until 6:45 p. m., Thursday, December 9, 1954, at which place and time they will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Contract No. 12 comprises the excavation of approximately 125 cubic yards of rock trench and approximately 375 cubic yards of earth trench, furnishing approximately 60 cubic yards of foundation material, and back-filling the trench. The 8-inch cast iron pipe will be furnished and installed by the Kingston Water Department, and the Contractor will be expected to work in close cooperation with the Department forces, to assure rapid completion of the project.

Each bidder must deposit with his bid, security in an amount not less than five per cent (5%) of the amount of his bid, as provided in the Information for bidders.

Drawings and specifications may be examined at the office of the Board of Water Commissioners, or at the office of Bogert and Childs, Consulting Engineers, 624 Madison Avenue, New York City.

Copies of the Contract Documents may be obtained at either of these offices upon payment of $10.00 for each set. Upon return of the Contract Documents, within four weeks after the date set for the receipt of the bids, a bidder will be refunded his payment, and a non-bidder will be refunded $5.00.

The awarding of this contract shall be subject to the provisions of Section 103 of the General Municipal Law of the State of New York.

Two Girls Win Livestock Awards

Chicago, Dec. 1 (AP)—Two Iowa farm girls, novices in big time competition, now own the International Livestock Exposition's most coveted awards—the steer grand and reserve championships.

They competed yesterday with more than 800 adult exhibitors. It's like saying they raised the finest eating animals in the nation.

For Janice Hullinger, 16, of Manly, Iowa, and Barbara Clausen, 15, of Spencer, Iowa, it was the biggest thrill of their lives.

Janice won the grand championship with her 1,080 pound Aberdeen-Angus summer yearling, "Shorty." Barbara, who likes to be called "Barb," won the reserve grand championship with "Salty," a 1,120 pound shorthorn summer yearling.

The girls talked of arduous hours preparing their steers for the big show but said the effort "was worth it."

Told that last year's champion brought $20,000 at auction, Janice said she had no idea how much "Shorty" might bring when auctioned Thursday.

"Oh, golly, I love him so I'll hate to sell him," she said.

Yoshida Gives

snapped at critics of his trade policy:

"Russia and China have been unable to export to earn foreign exchange. If they have no foreign exchange, how can we expect them to buy anything from us?"

Yoshida was answering questions from both the left and right side of the floor.

He refused to give his critics any hint of his retirement plans. Yoshida has agreed to step down as president of his Liberal party, with the broad hint that this also would mean he would retire from the prime ministership in the near future.

He laid the blame for Japan's current political crisis on politicians "who are running around helter-skelter out of lust for power."

Yoshida's Liberals, a conservative group, still are the largest party in the Diet, but the Democrats and Socialists could push a non-confidence motion and force new elections.

Businessmen who bankroll the Liberals don't want elections. But Yoshida's fighting defense of his policies today indicated the prime minister may still be intending to carry his fight to the people.

The Conservatives attack Yoshida as a "dictator" who "never consults with anyone." The Socialists call him "reactionary."

Apache Cattle Good

San Carlos, Ariz. (AP) — The San Carlos Apache Indians received above-market prices for the livestock at a series of auctions held on the reservation. Purchasers of the more than 4,000 head of cattle came from Arizona, California and New Mexico.

Coal for domestic heating usually occupies about 35 cubic feet per ton.

Quarryville Man's Fine Suspended

George C. Topple, 30, of the Quarryville area, town of Saugerties, was dealt with in local court today on a charge pertaining to "making wilful misrepresentation" to obtain unemployment insurance benefits.

Payment of a $100 fine imposed by City Judge Raymond J. Mino was suspended because the defendant had made restitution to the full amount of $240, which the state charged he had obtained illegally. Restitution had been made before the arraignment today.

TOPPLE WAS ARRESTED some time ago on a warrant executed by state police of the Kingston barracks. The arrest was on complaint of Sidney Tannen, special state labor department agent, who appeared in city court today. With Tannen was Charles G. Coffin, assistant attorney general, appearing in behalf of the state.

It was charged that Topple had been working since the end of February through the middle of April, 1954, while collecting unemployment insurance benefits.

Salvation Army Bonnets

The traditional bonnets, worn by all Salvation Army women, were designed in 1880 by Catherine Booth, wife of the founder of the organization. The original models were designed with large brims, primarily for the protection of their wearers against objects thrown at them from the crowds. Now beloved by the "lassies" as a badge of their service, the bonnets are often handed down from mother to daughter through several generations.

It's the Law

Grand Rapids, Mich. (AP)—Folks living in Michigan's Upper Peninsula learned recently that it's against the law to go sleigh riding without bells on the horses "or mules as the case may be." That and other laws, musty but still valid, were uncovered at a recent meeting of the Michigan Probation and Parole Assn. Another statute makes it a misdemeanor to taunt or accuse another person of having been a convict or inmate of "any jail, prison or reformatory."

Dangerous Goose

Ada, Okla. (AP)—Bernard Baranaski, 54, is in a hospital, with a fractured hip, but he hates to admit he was injured by a goose. A circus worker, he is quick to add it was a big goose—a 15-foot model. He was driving a six-hitch team of ponies pulling the Mother Goose float. He turned the team suddenly to avoid hitting a woman and the float struck a bale of hay. The goose fell on him.

Two Girls Win Livestock Awards

Chicago, Dec. 1 (AP)—Two Iowa farm girls, novices in big time competition, now own the International Livestock Exposition's most coveted awards—the steer grand and reserve championships.

They competed yesterday with more than 800 adult exhibitors. It's like saying they raised the finest eating animals in the nation.

For Janice Hullinger, 16, of Manly, Iowa, and Barbara Clausen, 15, of Spencer, Iowa, it was the biggest thrill of their lives.

Janice won the grand championship with her 1,080 pound Aberdeen-Angus summer yearling, "Shorty." Barbara, who likes to be called "Barb," won the reserve grand championship with "Salty," a 1,120 pound shorthorn summer yearling.

The girls talked of arduous hours preparing their steers for the big show but said the effort "was worth it."

Told that last year's champion brought $20,000 at auction, Janice said she had no idea how much "Shorty" might bring when auctioned Thursday.

"Oh, golly, I love him so I'll hate to sell him," she said.

Yoshida Gives

snapped at critics of his trade policy:

"Russia and China have been unable to export to earn foreign exchange. If they have no foreign exchange, how can we expect them to buy anything from us?"

Yoshida was answering questions from both the left and right side of the floor.

He refused to give his critics any hint of his retirement plans. Yoshida has agreed to step down as president of his Liberal party, with the broad hint that this also would mean he would retire from the prime ministership in the near future.

He laid the blame for Japan's current political crisis on politicians "who are running around helter-skelter out of lust for power."

Yoshida's Liberals, a conservative group, still are the largest party in the Diet, but the Democrats and Socialists could push a non-confidence motion and force new elections.

Businessmen who bankroll the Liberals don't want elections. But Yoshida's fighting defense of his policies today indicated the prime minister may still be intending to carry his fight to the people.

The Conservatives attack Yoshida as a "dictator" who "never consults with anyone." The Socialists call him "reactionary."

Apache Cattle Good

San Carlos, Ariz. (AP) — The San Carlos Apache Indians received above-market prices for the livestock at a series of auctions held on the reservation. Purchasers of the more than 4,000 head of cattle came from Arizona, California and New Mexico.

Quarryville Man's Fine Suspended

George C. Topple, 30, of the Quarryville area, town of Saugerties, was dealt with in local court today on a charge pertaining to "making wilful misrepresentation" to obtain unemployment insurance benefits.

Payment of a $100 fine imposed by City Judge Raymond J. Mino was suspended because the defendant had made restitution to the full amount of $240, which the state charged he had obtained illegally. Restitution had been made before the arraignment today.

TOPPLE WAS ARRESTED some time ago on a warrant executed by state police of the Kingston barracks. The arrest was on complaint of Sidney Tannen, special state labor department agent, who appeared in city court today. With Tannen was Charles G. Coffin, assistant attorney general, appearing in behalf of the state.

It was charged that Topple had been working since the end of February through the middle of April, 1954, while collecting unemployment insurance benefits.

Salvation Army Bonnets

The traditional bonnets, worn by all Salvation Army women, were designed in 1880 by Catherine Booth, wife of the founder of the organization. The original models were designed with large brims, primarily for the protection of their wearers against objects thrown at them from the crowds. Now beloved by the "lassies" as a badge of their service, the bonnets are often handed down from mother to daughter through several generations.

Bush Hits . . .

tinue until about 8 p. m. and that some voting would be done but that he did not look for a final vote before tomorrow.

Bush, first of today's speakers, said he had had an "open mind" on the question of censure when the Senate reconvened to take it up Nov. 8. But after listening to the debate, he said, he had reached the firm conclusion that he "must support" recommendations of the Censure Committee, headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah).

His voice shaking with emotion, Bush declared:

"If I ever saw a brave and noble senator, Arthur Watkins is that man."

HE SAID: "I will not walk away from this floor and leave him standing with a tag of coward."

McCarthy has called Watkins "cowardly" and the Censure Committee the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist Party."

Yesterday's day-long debate saw Sens. Brown (R.-Nev.), Mundt (R-S.D.), and Martin (R.-Pa.) taking the floor in McCarthy's behalf. Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark.), Lehman (D., Lib.-N.Y.) and Bennett (R.-Utah spoke for censure.

But McCarthy, who attended the session only late and briefly, indicated once again he doesn't think the speechmaking will change the vote and predicted anew it would go against him.

"IT WILL BE a completely one-sided vote," he said in an interview. "Most of the Democrats and most of the left-wing or self-styled Liberal Republicans," he said, will "vote for censure."

There was some confusion over just what will be voted on first. The customary procedure would be for the Senate to act first on the amendments proposed by the special Censure Committee to the original resolution introduced by Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.) to condemn McCarthy's conduct.

However, Sen. Dirksen (R.-Ill.) said he would like to get a vote first on a substitute proposal he has drafted. Sen. Watkins (R.-Utah), chairman of the special committee, said he would oppose that.

DIRKSEN SAID his substitute, without mentioning McCarthy, would put the Senate on record as saying that some senators have gone to extremes but that the Senate had been lax in enforcing its rules. It also would call on the Senate to study rules changes next year.

The special committee, composed of three Republican and three Democratic senators, held hearings on 46 charges filed against McCarthy and recommended he be censured on the grounds that:

1. He obstructed the legislative process by failing to cooperate with a Senate elections subcommittee that probed into his financial affairs in 1951-52, and by denouncing its members.

2. He unjustifiably abused Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, a decorated combat veteran, in questioning him at a one-man hearing last February.

These two specific counts have been offered by the special committee as amendments to the original, generalized censure resolution introduced by Flanders.

ANOTHER AMENDMENT, offered Monday by Bennett, would censure McCarthy for calling the Watkins Committee the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist Party and for describing Watkins as 'cowardly" and "stupid."

Watkins said he planned to take the floor before the voting begins to answer questions raised by McCarthy and his supporters in the debate.

He also said that the special committee probably would offer some "perfecting amendments" to its censure resolution. He said these would involve "some deletions" but in his view would make the resolution "stronger rather than weaker."

Under the unanimous consent agreement, made Monday, debate on each amendment is to be limited to one hour starting at 3 p. m. Four hours of debate would be allotted to a substitute proposal such as Dirksen has drawn up.

McCarthy said he has prepared a speech covering "all aspects" of the censure case, but that it was so lengthy he expected just to insert it in the record — probably tomorrow — rather than deliver it on the floor.

"It's not being made to influence votes," he said, "because I feel that would be a waste of time."

Bannigan, Assembly minority leader; Comptroller-elect Arthur Levitt; Democratic State Chairman Richard H. Balch, and Miss Angela Parisi, vice chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

Harriman said he had received a progress report from former Air Secty. Thomas K. Finletter, chairman of the Democratic State Platform Committee.

THE GOVERNOR-ELECT gave newsmen details of his plans to visit a number of upstate cities in pursuit of his program to combat unemployment and attract new industry there.

Harriman talked about offices and patronage with Balch and Carmine G. DeSapio, Democratic national committeeman and leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization. Top posts reported under consideration were the state commissioners of agriculture and markets, conservation and commerce.

Harriman had no comment on reports that DeSapio is slated for secretary of state.

On Friday Harriman will fly to New Orleans to attend a meeting of the Democratic National Committee at which a new national chairman will be chosen to replace Stephen Mitchell. Adlai E. Stevenson is expected to fly to New Orleans with Harriman.

A statement connected with the probe was issued by Robert Moses, chairman of the Long Island State Park Commission. A number of parkway patrolmen have been questioned in the probe.

Moses said that out of a total of over 25,000 honorable and reliable men who make up the various police forces in the metropolitan area, a few are under suspicion and will be "dealt with."

He praised his parkway police for patrol work that has kept their highway rate at one-sixth of the national average.

nority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

Rear Adm. John G. Crommelin (ret.), who directed the signature campaign, announced yesterday that the auditors had counted a total of 1,501,941 signatures by 5 p. m. He said the counting job may take as long as 10 days and that he expects the 10 million goal to be topped.

THE DRIVE was originally scheduled to last 10 days but was extended to two weeks, ended last Monday. However, Crommelin said, petitions are still being requested and will be distributed "as long as the demand is heavy."

While the anti-censure petitions were being counted, a group of New York churchmen, union leaders and others sent a telegram to the Senate in favor of censure.

They stated that "nothing less than an overwhelming censure of Senator McCarthy can begin to undo the grievous damage to our national and international prestige caused by his course of conduct over the past several years."

AMONG SIGNERS of the telegram were the most Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, former presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of New York, and other Protestant clergymen: Morris Iushewitz, secretary-treasurer of the New York City Council of the CIO, and other labor leaders; Edward S. Skilling, editor of the Commonweal, a Roman Catholic magazine; Russell Crawford, president of the New York branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, and Murray A. Meyerson, president of the Manhattan division of the American Jewish Congress.

Bush Hits . . .

tinue until about 8 p. m. and that some voting would be done but that he did not look for a final vote before tomorrow.

Bush, first of today's speakers, said he had had an "open mind" on the question of censure when the Senate reconvened to take it up Nov. 8. But after listening to the debate, he said, he had reached the firm conclusion that he "must support" recommendations of the Censure Committee, headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah).

His voice shaking with emotion, Bush declared:

"If I ever saw a brave and noble senator, Arthur Watkins is that man."

HE SAID: "I will not walk away from this floor and leave him standing with a tag of coward."

McCarthy has called Watkins "cowardly" and the Censure Committee the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist Party."

Yesterday's day-long debate saw Sens. Brown (R.-Nev.), Mundt (R-S.D.), and Martin (R.-Pa.) taking the floor in McCarthy's behalf. Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark.), Lehman (D., Lib.-N.Y.) and Bennett (R.-Utah spoke for censure.

But McCarthy, who attended the session only late and briefly, indicated once again he doesn't think the speechmaking will change the vote and predicted anew it would go against him.

"IT WILL BE a completely one-sided vote," he said in an interview. "Most of the Democrats and most of the left-wing or self-styled Liberal Republicans," he said, will "vote for censure."

There was some confusion over just what will be voted on first. The customary procedure would be for the Senate to act first on the amendments proposed by the special Censure Committee to the original resolution introduced by Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.) to condemn McCarthy's conduct.

However, Sen. Dirksen (R.-Ill.) said he would like to get a vote first on a substitute proposal he has drafted. Sen. Watkins (R.-Utah), chairman of the special committee, said he would oppose that.

DIRKSEN SAID his substitute, without mentioning McCarthy, would put the Senate on record as saying that some senators have gone to extremes but that the Senate had been lax in enforcing its rules. It also would call on the Senate to study rules changes next year.

The special committee, composed of three Republican and three Democratic senators, held hearings on 46 charges filed against McCarthy and recommended he be censured on the grounds that:

1. He obstructed the legislative process by failing to cooperate with a Senate elections subcommittee that probed into his financial affairs in 1951-52, and by denouncing its members.

2. He unjustifiably abused Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, a decorated combat veteran, in questioning him at a one-man hearing last February.

These two specific counts have been offered by the special committee as amendments to the original, generalized censure resolution introduced by Flanders.

ANOTHER AMENDMENT, offered Monday by Bennett, would censure McCarthy for calling the Watkins Committee the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist Party and for describing Watkins as 'cowardly" and "stupid."

Watkins said he planned to take the floor before the voting begins to answer questions raised by McCarthy and his supporters in the debate.

He also said that the special committee probably would offer some "perfecting amendments" to its censure resolution. He said these would involve "some deletions" but in his view would make the resolution "stronger rather than weaker."

Under the unanimous consent agreement, made Monday, debate on each amendment is to be limited to one hour starting at 3 p. m. Four hours of debate would be allotted to a substitute proposal such as Dirksen has drawn up.

McCarthy said he has prepared a speech covering "all aspects" of the censure case, but that it was so lengthy he expected just to insert it in the record — probably tomorrow — rather than deliver it on the floor.

"It's not being made to influence votes," he said, "because I feel that would be a waste of time."

HE SAID: "I will not walk away from this floor and leave him standing with a tag of coward."

McCarthy has called Watkins "cowardly" and the Censure Committee the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist Party."

Yesterday's day-long debate saw Sens. Brown (R.-Nev.), Mundt (R-S.D.), and Martin (R.-Pa.) taking the floor in McCarthy's behalf. Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark.), Lehman (D., Lib.-N.Y.) and Bennett (R.-Utah spoke for censure.

But McCarthy, who attended the session only late and briefly, indicated once again he doesn't think the speechmaking will change the vote and predicted anew it would go against him.

"IT WILL BE a completely one-sided vote," he said in an interview. "Most of the Democrats and most of the left-wing or self-styled Liberal Republicans," he said, will "vote for censure."

There was some confusion over just what will be voted on first. The customary procedure would be for the Senate to act first on the amendments proposed by the special Censure Committee to the original resolution introduced by Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.) to condemn McCarthy's conduct.

However, Sen. Dirksen (R.-Ill.) said he would like to get a vote first on a substitute proposal he has drafted. Sen. Watkins (R.-Utah), chairman of the special committee, said he would oppose that.

DIRKSEN SAID his substitute, without mentioning McCarthy, would put the Senate on record as saying that some senators have gone to extremes but that the Senate had been lax in enforcing its rules. It also would call on the Senate to study rules changes next year.

The special committee, composed of three Republican and three Democratic senators, held hearings on 46 charges filed against McCarthy and recommended he be censured on the grounds that:

1. He obstructed the legislative process by failing to cooperate with a Senate elections subcommittee that probed into his financial affairs in 1951-52, and by denouncing its members.

2. He unjustifiably abused Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, a decorated combat veteran, in questioning him at a one-man hearing last February.

These two specific counts have been offered by the special committee as amendments to the original, generalized censure resolution introduced by Flanders.

ANOTHER AMENDMENT, offered Monday by Bennett, would censure McCarthy for calling the Watkins Committee the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist Party and for describing Watkins as 'cowardly" and "stupid."

Watkins said he planned to take the floor before the voting begins to answer questions raised by McCarthy and his supporters in the debate.

He also said that the special committee probably would offer some "perfecting amendments" to its censure resolution. He said these would involve "some deletions" but in his view would make the resolution "stronger rather than weaker."

Under the unanimous consent agreement, made Monday, debate on each amendment is to be limited to one hour starting at 3 p. m. Four hours of debate would be allotted to a substitute proposal such as Dirksen has drawn up.

McCarthy said he has prepared a speech covering "all aspects" of the censure case, but that it was so lengthy he expected just to insert it in the record — probably tomorrow — rather than deliver it on the floor.

"It's not being made to influence votes," he said, "because I feel that would be a waste of time."

mend in his annual message. Among those at the conference were Sen. Francis J. Mahoney, Senate minority leader; Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan, Assembly minority leader; Comptroller-elect Arthur Levitt; Democratic State Chairman Richard H. Balch, and Miss Angela Parisi, vice chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

Harriman said he had received a progress report from former Air Secty. Thomas K. Finletter, chairman of the Democratic State Platform Committee.

THE GOVERNOR-ELECT gave newsmen details of his plans to visit a number of upstate cities in pursuit of his program to combat unemployment and attract new industry there.

Harriman talked about offices and patronage with Balch and Carmine G. DeSapio, Democratic national committeeman and leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization. Top posts reported under consideration were the state commissioners of agriculture and markets, conservation and commerce.

Harriman had no comment on reports that DeSapio is slated for secretary of state.

On Friday Harriman will fly to New Orleans to attend a meeting of the Democratic National Committee at which a new national chairman will be chosen to replace Stephen Mitchell. Adlai E. Stevenson is expected to fly to New Orleans with Harriman.

ney." Goodrich, who has a wife and two small children, was being held as a material witness.

A statement connected with the probe was issued by Robert Moses, chairman of the Long Island State Park Commission. A number of parkway patrolmen have been questioned in the probe.

Moses said that out of a total of over 25,000 honorable and reliable men who make up the various police forces in the metropolitan area, a few are under suspicion and will be "dealt with."

He praised his parkway police for patrol work that has kept their highway rate at one-sixth of the national average.

nority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

Rear Adm. John G. Crommelin (ret.), who directed the signature campaign, announced yesterday that the auditors had counted a total of 1,501,941 signatures by 5 p. m. He said the counting job may take as long as 10 days and that he expects the 10 million goal to be topped.

THE DRIVE was originally scheduled to last 10 days but was extended to two weeks, ended last Monday. However, Crommelin said, petitions are still being requested and will be distributed "as long as the demand is heavy."

While the anti-censure petitions were being counted, a group of New York churchmen, union leaders and others sent a telegram to the Senate in favor of censure.

They stated that "nothing less than an overwhelming censure of Senator McCarthy can begin to undo the grievous damage to our national and international prestige caused by his course of conduct over the past several years."

AMONG SIGNERS of the telegram were the most Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, former presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of New York, and other Protestant clergymen: Morris Iushewitz, secretary-treasurer of the New York City Council of the CIO, and other labor leaders; Edward S. Skilling, editor of the Commonweal, a Roman Catholic magazine; Russell Crawford, president of the New York branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, and Murray A. Meyerson, president of the Manhattan division of the American Jewish Congress.
